TEXAS GOVERNOR LEADS 'MA'

WILL OF EDITH M'CORMICK TO BE FILED SOON

No Indication of a Legal Contest.

The will of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick probably will be filed for probate within a day or two. This was indicated yesterday by Abel Davis, chairman of the board of the Chicago Title and Trust company, which has been named executor of the estate.

Mrs. McCormick's relatives having inspected the document after her burial on Saturday, some of them departed yesterday for their homes. Those leaving for New York were her brother, John D. Rockefeller Jr., her brother, John D. Rockefeller Jr., his sister, Mrs. E. Parmelee Prentice, with her husband.

Her daughters, Mrs. Muriel McCormick Hubbard and Mrs. Mathilde McCormick Oser, remained at the home of their father, Harold F. McCormick, 675 Rush street, with their husbands, Maj. Elisha Dyer Hubbard of Middletown, Conn., and Max Oser of Zurich, Switzerland.

No Indication of Contest.

With the will scheduled for a prompt probate, no hint of an intention to contest it has come from any one concerned. Under its provisions Edwin D. Krenn, the young Austrian architect who had been Mrs. McCormick's business associate for years, receives five-twelfths of the estate. The daughters, Muriel and Mathilde, receive four-twelfths and two-twelfths respectively, while her son, Fowler, receives only one-twelfth.

Despite these provisions, it is said that the relatives, desiring to avoid litigation and publicity, will be content to have the estate closed as quietly and speedily as possible.

Due to a peculiar circumstance involving Mr. Krenn, the principal beneficiary, the possibility of lawsuits remains, however, it is said. The circumstance is that Mr. Krenn, on Aug. 14, a fortnight before his benefactress died, was persuaded to sign over to his real estate partner, Edward A. Dato, all his interest in the firm of Krenn & Dato, as well as his prospective share in Mrs. McCormick's estate.

Dato Replaces Krenn.

Thus Mr. Dato, the Russian engineer, who describes himself as "a kind of a Mussolini who likes to be in the thick of things," replaces Mr. Krenn as the principal beneficiary of an estate valued in boom times at $40,000,000, while Mr. Krenn steps out of the picture with a guaranteed annual income of $24,000 for life.

The purpose of the transaction has raised a flood of speculation. While no accurate estimate has been placed on the value of Mrs. McCormick's estate, it is said that even under present depressed conditions, it may be worth five or six millions.

Why then, it has been asked, did Mr. Krenn choose to exchange his five-twelfths interest for a $24,000 annuity guaranteed by Mr. Dato? The latter explains that he and Mr. Krenn were vastly surprised when the provisions of the will became known. However, he insists, Mr. Krenn still remains content with his $24,000 annual income.

Krenn Still in Seclusion.

Mr. Krenn was still secluded last night in his room in the Drake hotel, where he has remained since Mrs. McCormick's funeral. He has refused to be interviewed, sending his bodyguard to turn away all callers. Yesterday after a three hour parley his legal adviser produced a statement signed by Mr. Krenn.

"I have been asked to issue a statement," it read. "I have no statement to make except that I have lost the best friend any human being ever had, and my heart is full of grief."

Report He'll Go Abroad.

Reports at the Drake were that Mr. Krenn would pack the Chinese furniture, jades, vases, and Buddhas which adorn his quarters and leave for Europe to remain there.

Mrs. McCormick held practically all of the shares representing ownership in the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust in which she, Krenn and Dato were joint trustees. Under the trust agreement the owner of two-thirds of the shares has power to oust the trustee. Former Judge Charles S. Cutting believes that the Chicago Title and Trust company, as executor, will have the power, as possessor of the trust shares, to exercise this power and oust Dato as trustee.

Fifteen thousand curious people visited Graceland cemetery yesterday in a vain search for Mrs. McCormick's grave. The coffin reposed, not in a grave, but in a crypt of the receiving vault, where the body of her first son, John Rockefeller McCormick, has been held for 31 years.

MRS. FERGUSON TRAILS BY 916 IN HOT CONTEST

Sterling Goes Ahead in Seesaw Battle.

BULLETIN.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Continuing its own tabulation after the Texas election bureau stopped for the night, the Dallas News reported that returns from previously unreported Dallas county boxes overcame Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson's lead for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. The new figures, added to the bureau's last total, gave Gov. R. S. Sterling a lead of 916 votes.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, first and only woman governor of Texas, led Gov. R. S. Sterling by 493 votes as the last tabulation of the night was made of yesterday's Democratic run off primary.

With 919,303 votes tabulated from 251 out of 254 counties, 153 of which were complete, the Texas election bureau gave Mrs. Ferguson 459,898 votes and Gov. Sterling 459,405.

It was Mrs. Ferguson's fourth race for governor. She first ran and was elected in 1924, following impeachment of her husband, Gov. James E. Ferguson. Barred by impeachment from holding office, he sponsored the candidacy of his wife.

Elected at the height of the Ku Klux Klan controversy, Mrs. Ferguson was defeated for a second term by Dan Moody. Two years ago she again was defeated by Sterling.

The long standing feud between former Gov. Moody and the Fergusons was renewed when Moody stumped the state for Sterling. The campaign was typical of all in which "Ma" Ferguson and her husband have participated. They have been storm centers of politics for years, or since her husband was impeached.

Parade His Impeachment.

Gov. Sterling and leading newspapers paraded Ferguson's impeachment before the voters, charging that Mrs. Ferguson merely was a figurehead and that her husband would be governor if she were elected, as they charged he was during his wife's previous term.

Ferguson denounced management of the state highway department, asserting it had not accounted for $100,000,000 in department funds. He declared election of Mrs. Ferguson would be followed by prompt removal of the highway commissioners.

Accustomed to bitter contests for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, tantamount to election, many veteran observers had anticipated a close race, but few had expected what amounted to a deadlock.

Crowds Watch Returns.

As the lead passed from one contestant to the other, enormous crowds watched bulletin boards and eagerly snatched up extra editions of newspapers. The candidates themselves, however, declined to forecast victory or admit defeat.

The Democratic state executive committee probably will be called on to decide the issue with its official canvass of returns on Sept. 12 prior to the state Democratic convention in Lubbock on Sept. 13.

In the event the committee's decision were not accepted, the contesting candidate might seek court action to prevent the placing of the name of the successful candidate on the general election ballots to oppose Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls, the Republican nominee.

Possible groundwork for such contention was laid when supporters of Gov. Sterling charged that at least 100,000 illegal ballots had been cast in the first primary and Gov. Sterling offered a reward for conviction of persons violating the election laws.

Bailey's Son Far Ahead.

The race for three congressman-at-large places was relatively unchanged with two men indorsed by anti-prohibition organizations and one "dry" leading.

George B. Terrell of Alto had 449,735 votes to 361,790 for Pink Parrish of Lubbock in the contest for place No. 1. For place No. 2 Joseph Weldon Bailey of Dallas, son of the late former United States senator of that name, led J. H. [Cyclone] Davis of Sulphur Springs 432,100 to 335,208.

Sterling P. Strong of Dallas had a lead of 431,692 to 366,706 over Joe Burkett of San Antonio.

Terrell, Bailey, and Burkett were classified generally as "wets." Strong is a former Texas state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league. However, the prohibition question was not stressed in the campaign and all of the candidates favored resubmission.

ESCAPED CONVICT FOUND HERE WITH WARDEN'S PISTOL

Stanley Buraczewski, 25 years old, an automobile thief who escaped from the Stateville prison at Joliet on June 24, only forty-five days before he expected parole, was captured in a stolen car at State and Pearson streets last night. When caught he was armed with a stolen revolver belonging to Maj. H. H. Hill, former Joliet warden, and now warden of the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa.

Harry Levinson, operator of a loan bank at 739 North Clark street, saw the stolen car and recognized it as that of a friend. Levinson notified Lieut. John O'Malley of the Chicago avenue station, who sent Policemen Thomas Lovell and Ray McMahon. They arrested the convict.

Because of his prison break Buraczewski may have to serve eight more years of his original sentence. He had already served 32 months. He was a trusty and personal servant of Warden Hill. Besides the gun, Buraczewski stole $200 and a gold star from the warden's office. Buraczewski got out of the prison grounds by walking the warden's dogs through the gates.

Bride's Trousseau Stolen from Car Parked in Loop

Emil Riewsky, 1189 Leafland avenue, Decatur, Ill., and his bride, returning from a honeymoon in Canada, parked their automobile near State and Washington streets last night. While they were at a picture show three suitcases and a handbag containing clothing and other valuables were stolen from the car.

Find 2 Million Year Graft in Boston Charity

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Nearly $2,000,000 a year of the city's funds is expended in outright graft by the public welfare department, it was charged today after a police report of investigations of 500 persons assisted by the department showed that from 12 to 25 per cent of the cases listed as needy did not merit aid.

The police survey indicated that 71 of the first 500 cases investigated justify immediate court action on the basis that their claims are outright frauds. The city has been paying 148 persons not deserving of aid and 186 unnaturalized aliens and 240 of the recipients of aid have not been visited by agents of the department of public welfare for periods varying from three months to two years.

Analysis of the first 500 cases shows that during the last six to nine months no fewer than 130 holders of cards of the public welfare department, entitling them to municipal aid have been arrested. Checking the names of the persons arrested with the public welfare lists, police investigators were not able to find all the names listed.

Arrested 86 Times.

One holder of a public welfare card has been arrested 86 times since he started to receive aid and his name remains on the list.

In 29 cases the city's aid was being sent to unoccupied houses and stores, thereby concealing the names of the actual recipients.

At least thirty-five families allege the amounts they receive from the department of public welfare are smaller than the amounts listed by the department.

Aid has been paid to twenty persons listed as having dependents, although they actually have none.

Doles have been sent to twenty-five persons, with fictitious addresses or to office buildings, vacant lots or unoccupied stores.

Five Nonresidents.

Aid has been supplied to forty-nine persons receiving assistance from other sources, to five nonresidents of the city, to seven persons who have died, to fifty persons with bank accounts, and to twenty-four families who have moved from the addresses to which their aid is being sent.

The report shows that some of the city's money was paid out for installments on radios, automobiles, and other luxuries by persons supposed to be in desperate need.

As yet the police have hardly started on the investigation ordered by Mayor Curley, and there remains nearly 20,000 cases, representing 100,000 persons receiving aid, to be studied.

FARMER FLEEING FROM STILL SLAIN BY DRY AGENTS

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Shot three times by dry raiders last night, as he fled from a still site near Boaz, Ala., Bulgie Byar, 40, a farmer, died today.

County officers, Raymond Hale, K. T. Mize and Jim Barton reported that they were preparing to raid the still when Byar saw them, grabbed a five gallon keg and started running. The officers said they fired, wounding Byar three times in the abdomen.

Byar is survived by his widow and several children.

Alleged Bootlegger Slain.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Mose Davis, 45, alleged Indianapolis bootlegger, was shot and killed tonight resisting arrest by two federal prohibition agents.

Davis was scuffling with Warren E. Allender, over possession of the agent's gun when it was discharged, Allender said.

Allender and John W. Morrell, deputy prohibition administrator for southern Indiana, had gone to a house on a "tip" that Davis was to deliver liquor there. Morrell said a five-gallon can of alcohol was in the car.

DOUBLE CAVE-INS IN TUNNEL TRAP 10 IN CALIFORNIA

Livermore, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Ten men were reported trapped tonight between double cave-ins in the Hetch-Hetchy tunnel in the Livermore hills.

The men were members of a crew of sixteen engaged in removing timbers from the tunnel preparatory to lining the walls and roof with concrete.

Six of the crew escaped from one end of the tunnel and reported the cave-in. L. T. McAfee, chief engineer of the project, said the tunnel is open at both ends and that the ten men reported missing could have escaped unless they were caught between two cave-ins.

McAfee ordered rescue work to begin at once. The reported disaster is the third on the project in three years. A number of men were trapped in the Mitchell tunnel, near by, in two cave-ins less than a year apart.

Brother of Mayor Walker Dies; Ill for 10 Years

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 29 [Monday].—[Special.]—George E. Walker, brother of Mayor James J. Walker of New York, died in a private sanitarium here early today. He had been suffering from tuberculosis for the last ten years and had been a patient here for about two months. He was 48 years old. At his bedside when he died were his wife and two daughters. Shortly before midnight he had been given the last rites of the Catholic church by the Rev. James Lynch. He was last visited here by the mayor about ten days ago. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery, New York City, Tuesday.

Teacher Kills Wife; Blames 'Dirty Dishes'

Marshall, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Overpowered with a sense of mental inferiority and "tired of going home every night to a dirty house and a sink full of dishes," Hubert C. Moor, 30 year old high school teacher at Robinson, shot and killed his wife on Aug. 14. His confession was given State's Attorney Victor Miller today in the Clark county jail.

Mrs. Marjorie Moor, the victim, also was a school teacher. Her husband said he had insisted that she give up her career and become a housewife. She refused and the refusal caused a breach that ended when the husband fired a shot into her heart as they sat in their car on a lonely road six miles from Marshall.

Pose Finally Broken.

Moor was arrested at the time of the killing, but maintained that he had been slugged and his wife slain by hijackers whom they resisted. His pose of innocence was not broken until early today, although a coroner's jury had recommended he be held for murder.

Following his lengthy confession to Mr. Miller, who announced that he would press a murder charge, Moor talked freely to a representative of THE TRIBUNE, explaining the queer mental state which caused him, for jealousy of his wife's career, to become a slayer.

"We all have dreams," he said "which can't be realized because the facts of life are hard. My dream was advancement in my own profession and a home with a devoted wife and happy children.

Wanted Her Life Apart.

"But Marjorie was not a home girl. She wanted her own life apart from mine. Perhaps she was a better teacher than I was. I wasn't sure about that and she wouldn't aid to make home comfortable.

"So we gradually drifted apart. It was intolerable. For a while I thought I'd kill myself. But to get out of the picture that way would mean she would have a second husband. At least I felt she would. We had loved each other and I couldn't stand to think of her marrying again. Why? Because there can be but one love. The next would be just a business proposition.

"Every night I would return home to find the house dirty and the sink full of unwashed dishes. I swallowed my resentment, but I brooded. There was no quarrel preceding the shooting. I simply decided that the only way out was to kill her. So I stopped the car and did just that. As she slumped over she looked at me for the last time and said, 'O, papa.'"

Slain on Way Home.

The couple had been in Indianapolis the day of the shooting and were on their way home. Mrs. Moor, always active in 4-H club work, was to be a judge the next day in a contest of students at Paris, Ill.

Following the shooting, Moor fled to a farm house, on the way burying his pistol. The weapon, he admitted, had been purchased in Indianapolis several weeks ago for the specific purpose of killing Mrs. Moor with it.

Both the husband and wife were graduated from Butler college. Moor is a chemist and a teacher of agriculture.

Mr. Miller said that on a plea of guilty by the teacher he would ask life imprisonment for him. Moor said that he wanted no less a penalty.

"I want to spend the rest of my life paying my debt to society by teaching in the penitentiary," he declared.

GERMAN CHIEF THREATENS TO CRUSH HITLER

Von Papen Says He'll End Terrorism.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUENSTER, Germany, Aug. 28.—Chancellor Franz von Papen today served notice on his political enemies that he has no intention of relinquishing the rule of Germany for months to come. At the same time the head of the government of aristocrats and militarists made it clear that he would not receive Adolf Hitler's National Socialists into his cabinet.

FRANZ VON PAPEN.

The chancellor spoke before farmers and industrialists of his home district in Westphalia. The audience was eager to hear the government's new economic program, but the chancellor before touching upon it delivered a broadside against the Nazis.

Hitler Is Assailed.

Hitler's "impulsive recklessness" was assailed. Referring to severe penalties recently by special courts to stamp out political violence, Von Papen said:

"I recognize no principle of justice which is usurped by one class or party as an instrument of combat. This is a Marxist conception which I reject even if it is advocated by the Nazis, for it is a blow in the face of every German and an offense against the Christian conception of justice.

"The impressive recklessness exhibited by the Nazi leader is ill-suited for his claims for leadership in the government. I do not accord him the right to consider that the minority which follows his orders of itself constitutes the German nation, nor the right to look upon all other Germans as outlaws.

"I advocate a state based on justice, a real commonwealth of the people, and an authoritary conduct of government as ordained by God."

Threatens to Use Force.

The chancellor referred to the deity with the same possessive intimacy with which former Kaiser Wilhelm sought to convince Germans that he was the man to lead them back to happiness and security.

"I am firmly determined to stamp out the smoldering fires of civil war and to suppress the increasing political unrest and political acts of violence," he cried. "If necessary I shall use force."

Von Papen then announced his economic program by means of which he hopes to set Germany on its feet again. He will submit his program to President Paul von Hindenburg at Neudeck, East Prussia, tomorrow, and which the aged field marshal is expected to accept.

Von Papen's associates tonight expressed their confidence that at the same time Von Hindenburg will give his chancellor authority to dissolve the reichstag when it convenes on Tuesday and grant him dictatorial powers to enable him to enforce his program.

Seven Points in Program.

The chancellor's economic program includes:

FIRST—A financial scheme to provide jobs for between one to two million men.

SECOND—A new high tariff on farm products to benefit farmers.

THIRD—Wage cuts.

FOURTH—Practical labor for youths.

FIFTH—Administrative reforms "to adapt public expenditures to the country's poverty."

SIXTH—Increased voluntary labor service.

SEVENTH—Revival of private industry.

Encourages Private Industry.

"Our currency must not be endangered," he said. "We desire no devaluation of the mark. We shall make no artificial experiments.

"We regard personal private enterprise as the most important source for giving impetus to our economic life. Hence, the government opposes all interference with the sphere of private economy. The problem now is to imbue new confidence for the future into private initiative."

The chancellor assured Germany that the worst of the republic's difficulties have been surmounted.

"The days are over when the fruits of our labor are poured into the bottomless barrel of reparations," he said. "We shall restore private initiative. The agreement reached at Lausanne made this possible."

Needs $500,000,000.

Von Papen said that 500 million dollars is needed to carry out his program. He plans to obtain this sum with the assistance of the Reichsbank through negotiable tax certificates. He proposes that when the taxpayer pays his turnover tax, property taxes, and traffic taxes between Oct. 1, 1932, and Oct. 1, 1933, he shall be given tax receipts, part of which may be used to obtain credit. These tax certificates can also be used to pay all taxes except income tax between 1934 and 1938.

The money obtained is to be used to a great extent to "repair and improve plants which have been neglected in recent years and get them ready for the day the depression ends." This, Von Papen predicted, will be soon.

To encourage the employment of more workers, the government intends to grant a tax rebate of $95 a year for each man employed under the new laws.

Predicts Jobs for 1,750,000.

Von Papen said he believes that these measures will secure jobs for 1,750,000 men.

"This will reduce the expenditures on dolea," he said. "The income tax on the newly employed will counterbalance the sums advanced by tax certificates."

To please the agriculturists Von Papen promised a new high tariff on farm products.

The wage cuts, he said, will be brought about by allowing enterprises employing new men to pay wages under the legal tariff providing that the total wage bill is increased.

Since youths graduating from schools of Germany have been unable to find jobs in this era of unemployment, the government plans to organize a year of practical service which must be served before students are allowed to enter the universities.

Pledges Further Reforms.

Von Papen touched only lightly on proposed administrative reforms, stating that the size of districts has been increased "as befits this era of automobiles and telephones." He promised further reforms "in keeping with the country's new poverty."

Voluntary labor service will be enlarged with the help of $32,000,000 which the Reichsbank has promised to advance. This will provide jobs for 200,000 youths in homesteading and house building, repairing houses, streets, and canals.

"The work we have planned can be accomplished only by authoritative, independent government, aware of its obligations to God and the nation," the chancellor concluded.

WATCHMAN IS ROBBER WHEN HE ISN'T WATCHING

Charles Rydberg, 26 years old, 4910 South Honore street, is a private watchman. It has been his custom to wear a star while on his rounds, which cover an area extending 73d to 75th street and from Yates avenue to Exchange avenue.

Early yesterday some one living in the vicinity called the police and reported that a star decked policeman was having trouble getting into the rear of a restaurant at 6504 South Halsted street. Policeman Joseph O'Brien of the Englewood station, who went to the scene, found that Rydberg—it was none other—had overcome the trouble and was inside.

Rydberg said that he had finished watching the property on his beat and had gone to another one with the intention of committing a burglary. He was also reported to have confessed last night to committing ten burglaries on his own territory.

ONLY MINORITY ON FARM BACKS HOLIDAY STRIKE

Movement Waning, Report Iowa Observers.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Milo Reno's Farm Holiday association, which he launched as a state and dreams of making a national movement, seems to be going the way of the soldiers' bonus expedition, the refugees of which, stranded here, are helping the farmers in an attempt to establish a milk blockade for the free milk they get out of it.

Glowing tales of the wildfire growth of the farmers' strike for higher prices have emanated from Reno's office here, but his right hand man, Charles Gross, admitted somewhat mournfully today that it would be impossible to estimate the number of sympathizers "because many who sympathize with us didn't want to sign their names to pledge cards and many who signed up changed their minds later."

Top Estimate 10,000.

But it is safe to estimate that not more than 10,000 farmers in the state of Iowa, birthplace of the holiday movement, are in sympathy with it. That is the number of members in the Iowa Farmers' union, also founded by Reno, at the highest estimate. Members of the Iowa Federation of Farm Bureaus, conservatively estimated at 50,000, are almost to a man opposed to the holiday scheme, if for no other reason than because it is an offspring of Reno's farm union.

Besides this vast opposition to the farm strike idea there are such milk producing coöperatives as the Nebraska-Iowa Nonstock Milk Producing association and the Des Moines Cooperative Dairy Marketing association, both on record as having nothing to do with the picketing of highways to stop deliveries. These coöperatives are similar to the Pure Milk Association of Chicago and 168 other large organizations of their kind in the United States.

The Nebraska-Iowa coöperative has 1,800 members and supplies more than 75 per cent of the milk produced in the Omaha-Council Bluffs shed, with four counties in Iowa and five in Nebraska.

Opposed to Picketing.

"Our organization has had nothing to do with the picketing of the highways leading into Omaha," said Lawrence Mark, vice president of this cooperative. "None of our members is affiliated with the holiday association. We are not exactly against the principle of the movement but we do not approve picketing—particularly the forceful stopping of trucks. If we ever decided to strike, we'd do it voluntarily, to a member, and we'd virtually shut off the milk supply of Council Bluffs and Omaha. But we will have nothing to do with this picketing."

"This association is not responsible for the picketing of roads leading into Des Moines," said a statement issued by officials of the Des Moines coöperative. "If milk is withheld from the city market it will be due to the efforts of an organized group from the outside."

Missourian Disapproves.

In addition to these coöperatives, William Hirth, president of the Missouri Farmers' association, has expressed his disapproval of the holiday movement on the ground of futility. Even if he thought it had a chance to succeed, said Mr. Hirth, he would still be opposed to violence as an attempted means of boosting prices.

Impartial observers of the farm movements in Iowa, home of Smith Wildman Brookhart and his radical following, express the opinion that the holiday scheme was launched in an effort to put life into the moribund farmers' union. They point out that the annual dues to this organization are payable July 1, and that under existing agricultural prices the farmers lose their enthusiasm for the union when it comes to kicking in $3.50.

Pledge cards of the holiday association are supposed to be accompanied by 50 cents, according to the "national by-laws," but the farmers have been pretty slow in coming through, Gross lamented.

The holiday scheme contemplates the shutting off of all live stock, grain, and produce from the market until "cost prices" are forthcoming. Typical "cost prices," according to Gross, are 93 cents for corn, $3.17 a hundredweight for milk, 63 cents a pound for butter, $11.25 for hogs, and $10.15 for cattle.

Price Up; Consumer Pays.

The distributors of the Council Bluffs area have refused to enter into new contracts with the producers until the blockade is called off. At Sioux City, where the holiday movement first took the form of picketing, and virtually its only stronghold, some degree of success has been met. The distributors raised the base price from $1.40 to $1.80 by the simple process of giving the farmer .3 of a cent a quart more, themselves .2 of a cent more, and shouldering the total boost of 1 cent upon the consumer, who now pays 9 cents instead of 8 cents a quart.

The holiday blockade is still in effect at Sioux City on all products except milk and on all products on the Iowa side of Council Bluffs-Omaha, but it is still in the "peaceful persuasion" stage here and its ultimate effectiveness is doubtful. Polk county farmers diplomatically maintain a noncommittal attitude. At heart they are opposed to violence, or even picketing, but they don't like to express themselves—just in case the thing might work out.

Milk deliveries were made as usual today. Only five picket stations were maintained, after yesterday's boasts that the blockade would be "100 per cent," and there are more than 20 roads leading into Des Moines.

Trucks were turned back in some instances on the Merle Hay road, three miles northwest of the city, and on highway 60, three miles southeast, but the farmers returned voluntarily, according to the pickets.

"We don't have any trouble persuading them and we don't plan to use force," said one of the pickets on highway 60. The khaki shirts, veterans of the bonus march to Washington, have established "national headquarters" and claim to have received the blessing of Mr. Reno. Their members are scattered among the various picket posts, aiding the farmers in the "persuasion" work.

ILLINOIS WESLEYAN TO ACCEPT PRODUCE FOR TUITION FEES

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Expressing the desire to assist the farmers of the central states in sending their youth to college during this period of depression, Dr. H. W. McPherson, president, and Nate Crabtree, business manager of Illinois Wesleyan university, announced today the university will accept "farm produce to the full amount of the tuition per year and pay a premium above the market price."

This innovation, reminiscent of the earliest days of America when Harvard university, one of the first colleges to be founded on the soil of the western hemisphere, permitted exchange of farm produce for tuition, is expected to establish a precedent in the central west.

"Illinois Wesleyan will also permit any matriculating freshman girl whose parents are farmers the right to full board and room in the colleg dormitories in exchange for farm commodities to the amount of said board and room," President McPherson said.

WARNS ECLIPSE GAZERS TO USE SMOKED GLASS

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, yesterday issued a warning against harm that may come to human eyes if they are not protected while gazing at the eclipse of the sun Wednesday afternoon.

Several forms of eye disease, Dr. Bundesen pointed out, may result if precautions are not taken. He recommended that all watchers provide themselves with smoked glass or with dense, developed camera films, through which the natural phenomenon may be viewed safely.

The eclipse will begin at about 2:07 p. m. and will reach its maximum at about 3:29 p. m. About four-fifths of the sun's surface will be obscured in the Chicago area.

$5,000 Loot Recovered; Four Confess Burglaries

Stolen clothing, jewelry and other property valued at more than $5,000 was seized by Sergt. John Kustusch and his squad of the Woodlawn police district last night in a raid at the home of Earl Cantwell, colored, 32 years old, 647 East 67th street. Cantwell, his brother Harry and their wives, all Negroes, were arrested. They are said to have admitted a number of burglaries.

LEEDS TROPHY WON BY ZELCER IN AIR CONTEST

Five Start from Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Five flyers seeking $15,000 prize money definitely agreed late today to start at 2 a. m. [P. S. T.] tomorrow, the spectacular annual airplane race from the west coast to Cleveland, Ohio.

The order of take off was decided as follows: Clair Vance, 2 a. m.; Col. Roscoe Turner, Hollywood, 3:30 a. m.; Jimmie Wedell, New Orleans, 3:35 a. m.; Jimmie Haizlip, St. Louis, 3:40 a. m.; and Lee Gehlbach, Detroit, 4 a. m.

Vance, who plans a nonstop flight and has a slower ship than the others, chose the early hour in the hope of reaching Cleveland by dusk. Gerlbach preferred all the daylight possible in the forepart of his journey.

BY HUGH SEXTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Today's program at the national air races brought out a big crowd which saw twenty-one Curtiss Hawks from Selfridge field, the 17th squadron of the First pursuit group, Conqueror powered, arrive with four huge Keystone bombers, Cyclone powered, then a series of air stunts and contests.

Twelve Curtiss Hell Divers from Quantico, Va., of the marine corps, exhibited their dive bombing skill by landing bombs in a 150 foot circle accurately. Four autogyros staged a novel hurdle race, hopping across the airport like grasshoppers. Emil Kropf of Germany, Lieut. Jean Assollant of France, Lieut. Tenete Abriu of Portugal, and Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherly of Great Britain gave finished stunting performances.

Sixteen Leeds trophy racers from New York flashed past the finish line. First place was won by Felix W. Zelcer of New York, flying a Chicago built Laird racer powered by a Wright motor. John Wright of Utica, N. Y., was second in a Monocoupe (Warner powered). Lloyd O. Yost of Middletown, N. Y., was third in a Waco cabin plane (Continental motor).

Livingston Is Winner.

John A. Livingston of Aurora won his first race at the meet this afternoon, the Cincinnati trophy dash to that city and return. He finished far in the lead in his Monocoupe [Warner powered]. Second was S. J. Whittman, flying a racer of his own design, Cirrus powered. Roy Liggett in a Warner powered Cessna was third. Art Davis in a Taper wing Waco [Wright powered] finished fourth.

Harold E. Neumann of Moline, Ill., won a twenty mile race for planes powered by a Curtiss OX-5 motor. He flew a Travelair. He averaged 88.194 miles per hour.

Flying a new version of the little white "Pete" in which he won the title "Pylon Polisher" at Chicago two years ago, Ben O. Howard, Chicago mail pilot, ran away from the field to win the first hot closed course race this afternoon at an average speed of 175.44 miles an hour for the 50 miles. Today's racer was Mike, Menasco powered, with a trick landing gear that houses two small wheels in each of the pants. William Ong flew Howard's other new ship, Ike, to win second place. Johnny Livingston of Aurora finished third in his monocoupe [Warner motor].

Moore Has Motor Trouble.

Ray Moore of San Francisco was leading the race in a slim Keith rider. Menasco powered, with retractable gear, until he was forced out in the seventh lap by motor trouble. S. J. Whittman was close up with his Cirrus powered special racer.

The racing pilots tonight went on a "strike" and demanded that the prize money in the closed events be doubled. To date only $28,750 has been posted. If their demand is not met by 11 a. m. tomorrow they will refuse to fly, they declare.

Word came from Akron that Mrs. Louise M. Thaden had been stricken by appendicitis while en route from Baltimore and taken to an Akron hospital.

Maj. James H. Doolittle landed here this evening in the Wasp powered Gee Bee racer built for Russell Boardman to fly in the Thompson trophy race on Labor day. He will fly the plane in place of Boardman, who was badly injured in a crash week before last.

CALIFORNIA TOLD BY SMITH: "BEAT M'ADOO TUESDAY"

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Because of the wet and dry issues at stake, California's primary election Tuesday is of national significance in both the Republican and Democratic nominations for United States senator.

Today an echo of the bitter fued between Al Smith and William G. McAdoo was thrust into the Democratic senatorial wrangle when Davis F. Supple, San Francisco realtor and fraternal leader, acting as a Smith message bearer, returned from New York. Supple was one of the unsuccessful Smith delegation on the May presidential primary ballot.

"In a conversation with Alfred E. Smith last Tuesday in the Empire State building in New York with reference to the political situation in California," said Supple, "he evinced a keen interest in the senatorial contest between McAdoo and Justus S. Wardell and expressed his conviction that the Democrats who supported him in the last presidential primary would be doing a service to the party by supporting Wardell instead of McAdoo for senatorship."

Senator Samuel M. Shortridge's race for renomination by the Republicans also will be closely watched by national leaders.

OUSTED RECTOR USES 'MUSIC BOX' AT LAWN SERVICE

STIFFKEY, England, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Using a phonograph to supply music for hymns, the Rev. Harold F. Davidson, banned rector of this parish, today fulfilled his promise and held an open air religious service attended by 300 persons.

The rector had been forbidden by the bishop of Norwich to officiate within the church after being convicted last month of immorality by an ecclesiastical court. Standing at a plain table, Mr. Davidson led the singing and preached a short sermon.

At the close the vicar took a collection for his appeal fund. This will be used to take his case before the king and privy council after the bishop pronounces sentence officially.

MOLLISON BEGINS U. S. TO EUROPE RETURN FLIGHT

ST. JOHN, N. B., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Capt. James A. Mollison, with the most hazardous half of his trans-Atlantic adventure behind him, tonight turned his glance toward home and his bride of a month, Amy Johnson, noted aviatrix.

The intrepid young Scottish pilot flew 500 miles from Roosevelt Field, N. Y., to Nerepis, 18 miles from here, today and motored on to St. John to spend the night preparatory to his last assault on the distinction of being the only human to fly the Atlantic solo in both directions.

Plans to Hop Today.

Tomorrow, he will proceed to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, with the intention of hopping away at once on the final stretch of his return flight from New York to London in his tiny Puss Moth plane, the "Heart's Content."

He promised he would keep a sharp watch for the missing plane "Green Mountain Boy," piloted by Clyde Lee and John Bochkon. It has been unreported for more than 90 hours on a flight from Barre, Vt., to Oslo, Norway.

Hindered by fog shrouding the Bay of Fundy, Capt. Mollison elected not to land at the Municipal airport here and set his ship down easily in a field near Nerepis. He left New York at 10:50 a. m., Chicago daylight saving time, and arrived at 3:45 p. m., a flying time of 4 hours 55 minutes.

Cables Wife.

The flyer went to a nearby farmhouse and telephoned news of his presence to airport officials. He was driven in an hour or so later and went to bed early.

Capt. Mollison is completing a venture that began last Thursday at Portmarnock, Irish Free State. A few minutes more than thirty hours later he came down at Pennfield Ridge, N. B. It was the first westward solo crossing by an aviator.

Last Sunday he continued on to New York. He spent the next week being entertained by numerous notables and waiting for the word of good weather from Dr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist. He got it today.

Pole First Around Europe.

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Francisce Zwirko, Polish flyer, won the International 'Round-Europe flight which started from Tempelhof airdome last Sunday and ended there today with a 300 kilometer speed race.

Fritz Morzik, the German who won last year and the year before, was second, only three points behind the winner. Reinhold Poss, another German, was third.

Twenty-six of the original 41 contestants finished the 7,500 kilometers [4,660 miles] flight.

PILOT OFF FOR INTERNATIONAL BALLOON RACES

R. J. BLAIR.

R. J. Blair, member of the pilot staff for the airship Puritan, stationed at Pal-Waukee airport, left yesterday for Akron, O., to join W. T. Van Orman, whose aid he will be in the Goodyear balloon entered in the international balloon races which start at Basel, Switzerland, on Sept. 26. Their balloon is the Goodyear XIII., with an 80,000 foot gas capacity.

Blair and Frank Trotter outdistanced veteran balloonists in 1930 to win the national race from Houston, Tex. They established an unofficial record by keeping their 35,000 cubic foot bag aloft forty-eight hours. The team of Blair and Trotter finished second in both the 1931 and 1932 national races, and it was Blair's showing in those events that caused his selection as Van Orman's aid. Van Orman has won the international race and the James Gordon Bennett trophy three times.

Eighteen entries will take the air from Basel next month, including three from the United States, the army team under Capt. William Flood, the navy team under Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, and the Goodyear team. After the race Blair will return to Chicago to pilot the Puritan during the World's Fair next year.

WOMAN'S JAW BROKEN PULLING TOOTH; SHE DIES

According to Dr. Joseph A. Pfister, 5244 Pensacola avenue, he was called into the case for consultation on Aug. 23 by a dentist known to him only as Dr. Adams. He found that Mrs. Wasik's jaw had been fractured while a wisdom tooth extraction was in progress and decided to operate to prevent infection. After the operation Mrs. Wasik's condition improved, but she was unable to shake off the pneumonia which developed.

The New City police learned from members of Mrs. Wasik's family that the tooth extraction had been performed in the office of the Boston Dentists at 4653 South Ashland.

MEET THURSDAY TO DEBATE NEW MINE INVASION

Leaders Delay Action to Realign Forces.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Sunday calm reigned in the Illinois coal regions today. The policy committee of the striking miners who have been in revolt against acceptance of the new $5 wage scale for two weeks met at Gillespie, but deferred action on all matters until Thursday, when 400 leaders of local unions are to gather again to decide on future strategy.

The situation in southern Illinois is the problem of first importance to the strikers. There most of the mines are working with substantial crews and the aim is to induce these men to leave the pits and align themselves with the protestors. Reports that a bulk of the Egyptian diggers already are of that state of mind were carried to the policy committee today.

Abortive Attempt.

The first expedition to Franklin county—with the Zeigler mines as an objective—was an abortive attempt, for 300 armed deputy sheriffs met the cavalcade, Wednesday night, belabored its leaders with clubs, and sent their 10,000 unarmed followers back home nursing a sizable grudge. Whether another march will take place depends upon the temper of Thursday's meeting.

The policy committee also was informed again today that miners in Indiana, Kentucky, and Alabama stand ready to send delegations if a new invasion is planned.

The Peabody company mines in the midland tract here were the scene of the first picketing demonstration. Only about 100 men have worked since, some 1,500 others throwing themselves wholeheartedly into the strike. They have picketed the four shafts morning and evening in an orderly fashion, under the eyes of five National Guard officers, commanded by Capt. Carl J. Meacham of Decatur.

Might Bring in Outsiders.

The mining company has set Tuesday as the deadline for the strikers to return to work. If they remain out several alternatives may be resorted to. One would be to close the mines. W. C. Argust, general superintendent of the company, said today that it did not contemplate that action. Outside labor might be brought in to work the pits. A number of offers have reached Argust from miners, both in Illinois and outside the state, who are willing to come here and work.

"But we would be loath to do that," said the manager.

A third action which could be taken would be the revocation of the local charters by the United Mine Workers of America. There was talk here today that this would be done by the end of the week unless the miners returned to work.

Dismiss 30 Warrants.

The procedure worked well at Zeigler last week. John L. Lewis, president of the U. M. W. of A., took the charters of the two locals there while they were on strike. They hastily reorganized, applied for and were granted new charters, but 20 men, charged with inciting the strike, were not allowed on the new membership rolls and therefore cannot work in the mines. If Jack Glasgow, president of this subdistrict of the national organization, made the recommendation to Lewis, it is believed that it would be followed and the charters revoked.

Warrants charging thirty Taylorville miners with inciting riot in connection with the picketing here week before last were dismissed by the company late yesterday, but 103 men from other communities are still accused of that offense and thirty-two have been indicted by the Christian county grand jury. The dismissal of the warrants against its own miners was regarded as a sign that the company will let bygones be bygones if the miners return to work. They showed no indication of doing so today.

CHILD VICTIM OF AUTO CRASH ATOP MOUNTAIN IN COLORADO DIES

Estes Park, Colo., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Lucille Day, 10 years old, died today following an automobile accident last Friday night atop Fall River pass in which her aunt, Miss Mary S. Day, driver of the machine, was killed.

The child's sister, Jean, 12, who disrobed to protect her from the cold mountain air after the accident, did not know tonight of Lucille's death.

The car in which Miss Day and the two girls were riding plunged 400 feet down a steep mountain side when Miss Day was unable to see because of the fog and snow.

HOME LOAN BANK IS SURPRISE TO EVANSTONIANS

Evanstonians who usually are in close touch with matters of interest to the suburb expressed surprise at the news that their city had been chosen as one of twelve that will get the new federal home loan banks.

"I knew nothing about it," said H. Dyer Bent, president of the Evanston chamber of commerce. "The chamber made no campaign to bring the bank here. There was no pressure and the selection simply means that Evanston's merits were so outstanding that they could not be overlooked. We are gratified, of course."

Pierre G. Beach, president of the Evanston Real Estate board, added that he had heard nothing of the possibility of getting the bank for his city. When the federal authorities begin looking for a site for offices, he said, his organization will do all in its power to help.

Mrs. Anna Roberts, 55 years old, 1564 West 67th street, died of heart disease early yesterday in the midst of a card game in the home of William Enright, 6758 Perry avenue.

2 DROWN WHEN AUTO DIVES INTO MICHIGAN RIVER

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—A girl and man, both of Kalamazoo, drowned here early today and four others escaped death or serious injury when an automobile in which they were riding plunged into the St. Joseph river.

The bridge was open to let a steamer through. The gates, which operate by electricity, are said to have failed, remaining in the air while the bridge swung to the St. Joseph side of the river.

Miss Joyce Ormiston, 24, and Glen Burkenstock, 26, pianist, were the two who drowned.

Those who escaped are Miss Mildred Brink, 19, Kalamazoo, engaged to Burkenstock; Vera Hadley, 25, Benton Harbor, telephone operator; Martin Opem, 26, Zumbrota, Minn., drawing teacher, Benton Harbor High school; E. E. Johnson, 26, St. Joseph, employe of the Auto Specialties company.

Rasco Roberts, 70, bridge tender, collapsed after the accident and was taken to a hospital. He said he had just come on duty. It was his first accident.

The tragedy was the second since the State street bridge was built many year ago.

CHINESE RAIDERS ATTACK MUKDEN; FIGHT JAPANESE

Burn Arsenal; Besiege Radio Station.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 29 [Monday].—Chinese raiders reported to total 1,000 swarmed into Mukden, Manchuria, shortly after midnight this morning, set fire to the arsenal and air base buildings and battled furiously with Japanese troops and police until daylight. They fled to the south toward Hunhopu, pursued by the Japanese, Mukden dispatches stated.

The raiders besieged the Mukden wireless station, one of the principal points of attack, for several hours. All available Japanese troops and police mobilized to engage the attackers. The steady rattle of machine gun and rifle fire and the rumble of tanks through the city threw the populace into a virtual panic. Many hand-to-hand duels took place.

The fire this morning was reported spreading rapidly from the arsenal and fire brigades also battled the flames at the air base.

Bribe Seen As Cause.

The uprising was attributed to the bribery of Lin Tze-chang, commander of the Hun Ho peace preservation corps, by Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian war lord. Lin, who was appointed commander of Chang's third army was believed to be at the head of the night's expedition.

The raiders, it was learned, had been concentrating secretly near Mukden for several days.

Forty Chinese police at Nankuan, a suburb of Mukden, were disarmed by Japanese forces today as a precautionary measure.

Dispatches to the newspaper, Nichi Nichi, reported that one Japanese lieutenant and one private were killed and several injured.

Sino-Jap Row Year Old.

The Sino-Japanese clash which led to last winter's Japanese military campaign in Manchuria and the warfare at Shanghai occurred after a Japanese-guarded South Manchuria railway bridge near Mukden was blown up on the night of Sept. 18. The Japanese, charging that Chinese soldiers touched off the blast, swept on into Mukden, brushed aside the little resistance they met and established headquarters there for subsequent activities.

PARTY FOR GIRL, CONVENT BOUND, ENDS IN TRAGEDY

The party was given in honor of Anna Netzel, 18 years old, of 1315 George street, because she was scheduled to enter a convent next week. Relatives and friends attended. Her mother, also named Anna, 45 years old; her father, Frank, and five brothers were also present. There was eating and singing and dancing.

Mrs. Netzel was among the gayest. As a waltz started she grabbed the arm of her brother, Ned Matt, 1746 Girard street, and they swung happily around the room. Suddenly Mrs. Netzel collapsed. Dr. Evan L. Barryte, 2104 Belmont avenue, was summoned. He pronounced her dead of a heart attack.

Great-Granddaughter of Daniel Boone Dies, Age 75

BOARD MEETING TO DECIDE NIGHT SCHOOLS' FATE

The fate of Chicago's night schools will come before the board of education for decision Wednesday afternoon. The 1932 appropriations for this purpose are practically exhausted and school officials agree it is problematical whether the evening schools will open on Sept. 19.

School attorneys have been asked for an opinion on the legality of retaining the students' $5 registration fees, which heretofore have been returned.

Harry Brackett, school auditor, will start today working on a request of several school board trustees that he ascertain whether money can be transferred from other appropriations for the educational fund to finance the night schools without charging fees.

The school board appropriated $300,000 for the night schools this year, most of which was expended from January to June. School officials estimate it will take between $150,000 and $200,000 to run the night schools for the year.

In 1931 the school board spent $473,924 for instruction and $199,774 for operation of the evening schools.

If the evening schools are opened they will be conducted in the Austin, Crane, Englewood, Fenger, Lake View and Schurz high school buildings.

SHIP HITS WHALE; TWO PROPELLER BLADES BROKEN

New London, Conn., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—United States Coast Guard Destroyer Welborn C. Wood, in command of Lieut. C. W. Lawson, arrived here today with two of her starboard propeller blades broken owing to a collision with a sulphur bottom whale, which was estimated to be about 90 feet in length.

The destroyer was on regular patrol duty, traveling 22 knots, and while plowing through a moderate sea, 40 miles west of Nantucket lightship, the crew of 84 aboard the Wood experienced a sudden jar that gave them the impression the ship had struck a ledge or submerged wreck.

After churning the ocean waters with his gigantic tail the whale managed to work clear of the Wood.

HAS TWO WIVES, SO HE PREFERS TO STAY IN JAIL

Wake Thrown in Uproar as Brother Makes Charge.

For two days Charles Malousek, householder of Brookfield and Naperville, has refused to leave jail. He is in jail because he has the two households and two wives.

Mr. Malousek is not attached to a particular jail. He has spent one day at Naperville and another in a cell at Wheaton. He says he is satisfied to be in any jail that will protect him from two brothers of his wife No. 2.

Brother Upsets Wake.

The fact that Malousek has two wives was revealed at a wake for Mrs. George Hoffman, the mother of the second Mrs. Malousek in Naperville. A brother-in-law, Albert Hoffman, caused an uproar at the wake by announcing Malousek had another wife at 3631 Arthur avenue Brookfield. With the declaration he leaped upon Malousek. They were parted by the mourners.

Later a second brother, George Hoffman Jr., swore out a warrant charging Malousek with bigamy and he was taken to the Naperville town jail.

The father-in-law, George Hoffman Sr., took pity on Malousek and got a bail bond for him. Chief of Police Edward Otterpohl unlocked Malousek's cell and for two hours his wife, Gertrude Hoffman Malousek, and her father pleaded with him to leave. At length the father lost patience, tore the bond and threw it in Malousek's face. Then Chief Otterpohl locked him up again.

"Jobs" Night and Day.

Malousek was removed to the Du Page county jail at Wheaton yesterday and the second wife appeared there with a new bond. He again refused to leave his cell saying he feared her brothers. He is to be arraigned on the bigamy charge in Wheaton today.

Malousek married Gertrude Hoffman a year ago. He told her, she said, he had to work days as a special policeman in Brookfield. He told his first wife that he had a night job in Naperville. Attorney William Frederick, representing Malousek, said a divorce action against the first wife is pending.

COLLAPSE PREVENTS MRS. HUTTON'S RETURN TO ANGELUS TEMPLE

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, evangelist, collapsed today as she prepared to return to the pulpit of her Angelus temple after an absence of five months from preaching duties because of illness.

Five to six thousand persons crowded the temple when, at the start of the services, it was announced that "Sister Aimee has just collapsed" and "is unconscious at this time."

After the services it was explained the evangelist had recovered consciousness.

Dead and Dying Locusts Cover Buenos Aires Streets

[Copyright, 1932, By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—The streets of this city are sprinkled with dead and dying locusts, which were swept here from the west and north by Argentina's annual Santa Rosa storm, so called because it almost invariably occurs within a day or two of the church holiday of that name on Aug. 30. The locusts, covering 100 square miles in the provinces of Santa Fé, Entre Rios and Cordoba, come from the hot jungles of Chaco. They died in the cold and rain.

CUT KANE COUNTY TAX VALUATIONS BY 20 PER CENT

Step to Save $1,000,000 for Taxpayers.

William P. Mettel, chairman of the Kane county board of review, yesterday announced a 20 per cent reduction in the county's 1932 real estate assessments. The reduction was demanded by taxpayers in a public meeting in the Geneva city hall on Aug. 11. It will save the taxpayers about $1,000,000, making the 1932 realty levy $4,000,000. It was about $5,000,000 in 1931.

The total of realty tax valuations for this year, as turned in recently by the township assessors, is $82,330,243. The 20 per cent reduction would make this $66,064,195. In 1927 the valuation was $78,455,853 and in 1929 it was $83,066,721.

Second County to Cut.

Kane county is the second county in the Chicago area to reduce its assessments within the week. On Wednesday the Will county board of review ordered a 10 per cent cut after taxpayers demanded a 25 per cent reduction. Last year Will county assessments were reduced on an average of 12 per cent.

The Kane county reduction was opposed by the municipalities of Aurora and Elgin and the school boards. The tax spenders declared they would not be able to operate efficiently on the reduced income. This contention was answered by Chairman Mettel in a statement announcing the reduction.

Will to Take Pay Cut.

"The board of supervisors is agreed that operation is possible on the reduced income," he said. "We are willing to take a reduction in our pay and will curtail our expenses. Other tax spenders must do likewise.

"The valuations have been too high. It is a time in which governments must reduce their expenses as individuals have."

Mr. Mettel said he believed schools could operate throughout the year on the reduced income.

ROBBER IS SHOT; POLICE NAB PAIR AFTER HOLDUP

Two policemen sped to the delicatessen of Sam Warshawsky, 3069 Armitage avenue, yesterday in response to a radio alarm of a robbery there, shot one of two bandits and captured him and his partner. The wounded man, Charles Brougham, 22 years old, was convicted of larceny five years ago and placed on probation. The other prisoner is Michael Norwicki, 32 years old, 3625 Belmont avenue. The policemen who made the capture are William Geisler and John A. Quill of the Shakespeare station.

MICHAEL NORWICKI

After responding to the radio call Quill went to the rear of the store and Geisler entered at the front. The bandits, whose backs were to the street, whirled and trained their pistols on Geisler as he entered. He fired, and Brougham dropped, shot in the shoulder. Norwicki dropped his gun and surrendered.

Arrest Made in Killing of Speakeasy Proprietor

Walter Leonard, 24 years old, 1705 West 19th street, was arrested yesterday for questioning in the slaying a week ago of Nello Pellegrino, 1215 South Damen avenue. The latter was shot to death at 14th place and Clinton street by two men who appeared at his speakeasy and forced him to accompany them. Leonard denied having anything to do with the slaying.

Snatches Woman's Purse Containing $1,000 in Gems

Mrs. Sarah Paltz complained to police yesterday that a well dressed youth snatched her purse containing $5 and diamond rings valued at $1,000 at Wrightwood and Hamlin avenues.

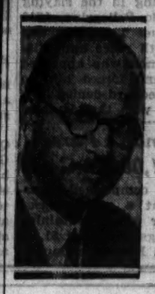
BEGIN THIS WEEK ON FISCAL YEAR BUDGET OF 1934

Department Heads Told to Submit Estimates.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Preparation of the budget for the 1934 fiscal year beginning July 1 next will be started by President Hoover and Budget Director J. Clawson Roup this week.



J. CLAWSON ROUP. [H. & E. Photo.]

Cabinet members and all heads of independent establishments have been directed to submit their estimates of financial needs to Director Roup by not later than Wednesday. On Thursday the budget director will begin hearings at which the departments will be given an opportunity to substantiate their estimates.

No Hint As To Economy.

No information has been given as to whether the 1934 budget will be larger or smaller than the one submitted to congress for the current fiscal year last December. For the current fiscal year President Hoover asked congress to appropriate a total of 4 billion 643 million dollars. The amount appropriated by congress amounted to 4 billion 309 million dollars, a reduction of 334 million dollars below the estimates, including the economics effected by the 150 million dollar economy bill. These appropriations included the initial capital for the finance corporation, the federal land banks and funds expended by the veterans' administration for adjusted compensation.

May Excel Appropriation.

In view of the fact that the economy bill applied only to 1933, all the executive departments and independent establishments are expected to prepare estimates on the assumption that the pay cut provision of the bill will not be carried on for another year. The effect of this step would be to increase the budget figures for these specific departments by approximately 100 millions above the appropriations granted for their use this year.

10,000 ITALIAN BOYS LEARN HOW TO BE SOLDIERS

ROME, Aug. 28—(AP)—Proudly wearing their black shirts and carrying real rifles, 10,000 boys from 14 to 18 years of age encamped in a tent city outside Rome today for the fourth annual encampment of the Fascist avanguardisti, or advance guards.

Their period of training will continue until Sept. 9.

The black shirted youths will take part in mock battles, trench warfare, machine gun practice, and anti-aircraft maneuvers, with officers of the regular army and the Fascist militia looking on as judges and observers. The high point of their meeting, however, will be a review by Premier Mussolini.

ROOSEVELT AT RECEPTION; SMITH DECLINES BID

Westhampton Beach, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was the guest at a luncheon and reception in this summer colony today to which his chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, Alfred E. Smith, declined an invitation.

The governor had spent the night at the home of his former law partner, D. Basil O'Connor, where the luncheon and reception were held.

Mr. Roosevelt drove here after stopping at New York City on his return from Seagirt, N. J., where he delivered a campaign speech on prohibition yesterday.

When Mr. Roosevelt reached here, former Gov. Smith was at the Hampton Bays summer place of his son-in-law, Maj. John Warner, 12 miles from here. O'Connor said Mr. Smith had been invited to the reception and luncheon, but replied he would be unable to attend.

Today there were 85 at the luncheon and an additional 200 at the reception. Among those who accepted invitations were Maj. Warner and his wife, Mr. Smith's eldest daughter, and John J. Glynn, nephew of Mr. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Glynn have a summer place adjoining the O'Connor estate.

Gov. Roosevelt tonight motored to New York City to confer with Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago. The Democratic financial campaign is believed to have dominated the conversation.

Mussolini and Herriot Awarded Goethe Medals

BERLIN, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini of Italy and Premier Herriot of France are among 41 recipients of a gold medal bestowed by President Von Hindenburg in connection with the celebration of the Goethe centenary at Frankfort-on-Main, it was learned today.

100 MILLION FOR WARSHIPS PLAN OF NAVAL BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—A new naval building construction program for the 1934 fiscal year begining July 1, next, will be completed by the navy general board within the next three days and submitted to Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams his consideration.

CHARLES F. ADAMS.

It is understood that it will call for the commencement of construction during that year of warships which when completed, will cost in excess of 100 million dollars.

Whether Secretary Adams will send a new building program to the President together with a recommendation for its submission to congress in December will not be decided until after the cabinet member has consulted with ranking admirals on and off the general

Indications today were that the board program would include a one year installment of the Vinson 800 million dollar 10 year program now pending before the house naval affairs committee.

It is known that the board will recommend beginning the 17th 8 inch gun cruiser permitted under the treaty. This ship can be laid down during the 1934 calendar year. It is already authorized. The board is also expected to urge the laying down of two cruisers, one a flying deck cruiser carrying 48 airplanes, and one airplane carrier.

The board will also recommend laying down additional airplanes and submarines.

ROOSEVELT ATTACK ON PROHIBITION IS FICTION, SAYS DRY

Edward E. Blake of Wheaton, executive chairman of the prohibition national committee, in a statement issued yesterday declared that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for President, used fiction for fact in his recent speech attacking the dry law.

"Mr. Roosevelt, by using fiction for fact, tries to make the prohibition camel a goat, and ignores the fact that the Democratic 'jackass' administration in states and cities has produced the lion's share of the lawlessness, racketeering and crime of which he complains," said Mr. Blake. "Tammany Tiger administration produces blind tiger results.

"Mr. Roosevelt speaks of the 'tragic failure' of prohibition. He talks of preventing the return of the saloon, thus admitting the saloon has been banished. Pretty good work for a tragic failure. Properly enforced, the prohibition law would utterly destroy the outlet for illegal booze, and make racketeering unprofitable."

Fumes of Refrigeration System Rout 20 Families

Twenty families, tenants of an apartment building at 227 Englewood avenue, were driven to the street early yesterday by ammonia fume which escaped from a leak in the building's refrigeration system. Chief Howard Andrews and firemen of the 12th battalion donned gas masks, found the leak, and stopped it.

MUSIC FESTIVAL TO SING ON FOR FREE ICE FUND

Captured on phonograph records, the music that thrilled 125,000 persons sitting under the stars in Soldiers' field on Aug. 20, will play on and on for the benefit of babies in needy tenements families. All the net profits from the sales of the four doublefaced records will be turned over to the fund.

There were a good many people in Chicago who couldn't attend the music festival. There were thousands upon thousands throughout the United States who listened to the broadcast over a national network and thrilled every time Quin Ryan, W-G-N radio announcer, gave a few sidelights on the huge assembly gathered for the great festival of music.

Mighty Chorus Sings On.

Well, now is the opportunity for those people to hear again the Hallelujah Chorus directed by Noble Cain; the prize winning Allerton Glee club led by Frank Bennett, and "Ol' Man River" sung by John Burdette, accompanied by the festival band. Now is their chance to hear "America," "Sweet Adeline" and "Down by the Old Mill Stream" sung as only an assembly of 125,000 could sing it.

On other sides of the records are the famous "1812 Overture," by Tschaikowsky, played by the festival band and directed by Victor Grabel; "On the Road to Mandalay," sung by Waldemar Schroeder, prize male soloist; the Berne, Ind., chorus, directed by David Embler; "Happy Days" and "Semper Fidelis," by the Chicago Federation of Musicians' band, led by James C. Petrillo, and "O Southland," sung by a Negro chorus directed by J. Wesley Jones.

Ordering Made Easy.

All you have to do, whether you live in Kansas, the Hawaiian Islands or Peoria, is to indicate the records you desire on the coupon, which will be found elsewhere in this edition, and mail it as directed, together with your remittance.

THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund has for years provided the money that sent ice wagons calling on underprivileged homes, so that little babies' milk might be kept sweet. This year the need has been multiplied because of unemployment and distress in thousands more homes than in past years. Because the need is so aggravated, the sale of the Chicagoland Music Festival Records has been undertaken.

It was felt, too, that many of those who took part in the festival singing would wish a souvenir, and that they would be happy to buy the records when the receipts were to go to as worthy a charity as the Free Ice Fund.

PERSIAN GIVES CHICAGO TEMPLE FOR FIRE WORSHIP

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Chicago is to have a temple for fire worshippers, the bequest of Sir Dorab Tata, multimillionaire steel and power magnate, who died in Germany last month.

Being of Persian descent, Sir Dorab was a pious follower of Zoroaster, whose apostles were the Magi, or wise men of the east. The Magi, among other things, carried to Bethlehem an urn of the sacred fire which had been lit by their prophet one thousand years before.

Part of this very flame is to be housed in Chicago, New York, San Francisco, and Colon, so that numerous Parsees and Persians engaged in the iron, steel, silk, and import trade in these centers will no longer be without a place of worship.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. STIMSON'S INTERPRETATION.

Secretary of State Stimson's discussion of the new diplomacy both the London Times and the Manchester Guardian find most worthy of note and approval because of the declaration that the Briand-Kellogg treaty necessarily implies "consultation." It is suggestive to us that what seems the much more novel and important declaration that the treaty commits the signatory powers "not to recognize any situation, treaty, or agreement which will be brought about by means contrary to the covenant of the league of nations or to the pact of Paris" is completely ignored by the Conservative organ and rather lightly touched upon by the Liberal as referring to the Manchurian situation. The Times and the Guardian have little in common in their views or sentiments in international affairs, but they are both quick to welcome any statement from America which seems to carry us toward commitment to coöperation in European international conflicts.

We can understand that the doctrines suddenly brought forth by Mr. Stimson as to nonrecognition must seem even to the Guardian rather vague and to the Times' imperialism embarrassing, if not dangerous. It is true that the doctrine may safely be assumed to be not retroactive, but we doubt that any government, right or left, of the powers now dominating international affairs, save perhaps our own, will care to commit itself to a doctrine which disparages the moral validity of their titles to some much prized possessions, to say nothing of its possibilities of diplomatic embarrassment in adventures of the future.

But though Mr. Stimson was careful to say that his views on this occasion were not official, we think the American people would do well especially to consider Mr. Stimson's interpretation of our obligations under the Paris treaty. After all, he is secretary of state and undoubtedly his view will have the approval of our internationalists, so when he asserts that we are committed not to recognize any situation, treaty, or agreement brought about by means contrary to the covenant of the league of nations he asserts a doctrine we cannot afford to ignore. What is it but an underwriting of the covenant? What, if adopted by the United States, would it be but a deliberate entrance into the league system?

It may be argued that Mr. Stimson's doctrine does not commit us to accept the judgment of the league members that the particular means which have brought about a situation, treaty, or agreement are contrary to the covenant, but that would lay us open to the charge of evasion and bad faith and in fact would be a course very difficult for any American government to take unless public opinion in the United States were highly wrought. The practical consequence of our accepting Mr. Stimson's view of our obligations under the Briand-Kellogg treaty would be to draw us habitually into compliance with league action and in effect disparage our independence as materially as formal membership in the league would do.

The United States may often coöperate with the league of nations when coöperation seems advisable to our government, acting advisedly upon a given situation with the approval of the nation. But the essence of our traditional policy in opposed to such commitments as Mr. Stimson assumes and the nation in accepting the Briand-Kellogg treaty had no such intention as Mr. Stimson imports into it. We think an appropriate occasion should be taken advantage of by the senate to deny his interpretation.

AMNESTY IN FINLAND.

Finland, being happily out from under its experiment in prohibition, is about to release the prisoners held for violation of the law now abandoned. The government is preparing a bill of amnesty which will affect 20,000 persons. There are two reasons for this, one of equity and one of convenience. It is regarded as unjust to continue the punishment of people when their offense has ceased to be one, and undesirable to have the jails filled with them and not have room for actual criminals.

The experiences of nations with prohibition have been identical. Each has matched the other. They have filled their jails, depleted their revenue, increased the number of lawbreakers, increased their disorders, and stiffened the neck of opposition. Each nation as it has been able to drop the experiment has returned to composure, increased its treasury receipts, satisfied its citizenship, and reduced its disorders. The least probability of success with prohibition was in the United States, which offered a great diversity of habit and opinion to a regulation requiring unanimity, forty-eight separate governments, responsive to the will of the citizens, but subordinate in this highly personalized question to the Union they form, and a great coast line and border exposed to smugglers.

Where the undertaking was most dubious the law was buried deepest in the fundamental structure, completing the mistake. The other prohibition countries went easily back to a normal life. The United States must struggle back, but the issue is in the congressional elections this year, and America may restore to the states the undivided authority they were foolish to share with the federal government.

TAXES ON LAND.

Assessor Jacobs announces a rule for the assessment of personal property in office buildings by a classification based upon a standard of rents. In the Illinois system of hit or miss taxation working formulas which will at least approximate fairness must be extemporized. In this formula Mr. Jacobs seems to have used a method which is the base of the English rates. It will be worth considering when, and if ever, the state is in a position to rewrite the whole of its tax law.

The American real estate tax, as it operates in Illinois, makes the owner of property, particularly when used for income, something more than a taxpayer. He is a tax collector. The state holds him responsible for the taxes. He collects them from his tenants. In prosperous times when his space is occupied and his renters are paying their bills the scheme will work without imposing a hardship, but it is being learned that a tax system should not be judged by how it works in good times, but by how it stands up in hard times.

In England the occupier pays the tax, which is based upon rental value. The owner is not held for space which is unoccupied. He is not caught between rising taxation and decreasing revenue. The actual rentals are available as a base for the assessment and in property occupied by the owner an estimate of rental value is easily arrived at. American taxation is destroying the desirability of real estate holdings. They can be dangerous possessions. It is not good public policy to make the ownership of land undesirable. American taxation has discouraged it.

WASHINGTON IN SATIRE.

The success of satires using Washington material has encouraged the production of a sequel to one of the books. "More Merry-Go-'Round" follows the "Washington Merry-Go-'Round." The capital is exposed on all flanks to jest and badinage. Its life is filled with pompous trivialities and sham. Its views and its ambitions have become inbred. Its officialdom has detached itself from the common lot of the average American and has been busy building up a pyramid of caste, eager for preference, privilege, and precedence.

That is probably inherent in a bureaucracy living upon expectations of heavy tax revenues to be spent arbitrarily for the support of a special class. The society produced is petty and vainglorious. The rewards sought are such as impair the character, and the competition for them produces ripe fruit for the satirist. As compensation for the sense of inferiority which comes over Washington when capitals of titled aristocracy are considered, the American bureaucracy jealously guards every perquisite which falls its way.

If the newspapers reflected daily the true picture of the Washington scene the plays and books dealing with it might not be such distinct successes, but the Washington newspaper men accept the life as the one accustomed and seldom puncture its pomposities. If the people are to get an idea of the gilded life in the golden days which no depression could depress they must seek it outside the average Washington correspondence.

YES, YES, SENATOR.

Senator Dickinson of Iowa in a talk to the members of the Chicago Bar association said that citizens should legislate themselves to live within their incomes and should not rely too much upon congress, which was meeting perplexities to the best of its ability. The average citizen will reply to the senator: "You are telling us." The citizen is adjusting his budget to new taxation. He is not at all certain what the income will be, but he knows what the next tax schedule will ask of him. Government is about to bear down hard, but not, so far as can be seen, upon itself. Its revenue is diminishing, its tax rates are going up, its expenditures are increasing. No citizen can run his affairs upon such a showing as is in the daily treasury statement with outgo increasing and income decreasing.

The citizen's budget is one which must deal with realities. The government budget relies on Santa Claus.

Editorial of the Day

THE MINNESOTA PRESS GAG REVIVED.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Judge Paul W. Guilford of Minneapolis, upholding the suppression of a small newspaper there, utilizes an apparent loophole in the United States Supreme court's decision of June, 1931, invalidating that state's notorious newspaper gag law. The Supreme court, while ruling that the law contravened the rights of property and freedom of the press, specifically invalidated only clause B of section 1, relating to "malicious, scandalous, and defamatory" newspapers, on which the case at issue hinged. The court made no mention of clause A, relating to "obscene, lewd, and lascivious" publications, under which copies of the Public Press recently were seized by police and the paper's sale forbidden.

Since the Supreme court found constitutional rights were violated by clause B of the law, the same grounds would hold good for pronouncing clause A invalid. Every state provides legal remedies for defamation, and also has laws for punishment of offensive publications. Recourse to a general press gag, which in Minnesota provides even for suppression before publication, is entirely unnecessary. Minnesota expresses the idea in the free press clause of its constitution, which reads: "The liberty of the press shall forever remain inviolate, and all persons may freely speak, write, and publish their sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of such right." Despite this forthright declaration, the state Supreme court upheld the gag law.

A ban of this sort on newspapers because of alleged obscenity is in no degree worse than a ban on the grounds of malice. Both offenses may be largely matters of opinion, on which various magistrates may disagree. A gag law means censorship, and may produce judicial tyranny. The authors of public evils may be able by its use to suppress large newspapers that attack them, just as these minor publications have been suppressed. The Public Press case may revive the issue and bring action by the Supreme court upon the section that Judge Guilford finds still in effect. Or it may lead Minnesota to repeal the obnoxious law, which it should have done immediately after the Supreme court decision.

MARKET LETTER.

THE SPECULATIVE PUBLIC, that public which trades in margined stocks, so far has not made much money on the rise in security values of from 40 per cent to even 200 and 300 per cent of their low prices. Of course, those who decided the time had come for the switch of hoardings from socks to stocks have now a profit. Those who owned their securities outright and were not frightened into selling by financial hysteria have enjoyed appreciation, just as they suffered depreciation while the bourse chaos was in full swing.

What, then, has caused the market rise? Opinions naturally vary. Our idea is that foreign investors, recovering from their distrust of the dollar, began to buy cautiously. For the last six months most selling in this country had been of the distress order, to pay debts, where the equity remaining on the collateral had reached the danger point, or to pay taxes. Thus even a mild rise strengthened collateral and caused withdrawal of selling orders.

Under such circumstances there was what brokers call a "vacuum," and much less buying than in normal markets sent quotations rocketing. Perhaps you remember stocks had risen greatly in percentage value before there was much activity. Then there were three and four million share days of professional activity, with buying also by public day to day traders, who constitute a small part of the so-called stock market public.

Nine out of ten people who hope to make money in stocks have wished to buy, but feared business was not picking up fast enough to warrant the rise. The public constitutionally is bullish and not bearish. Brokers' loans have not increased enough to indicate there was any wide public participation. That participation is more likely to come when prices are 20 or 30 points higher, if the rise is sustained. Then the old gambling hysteria again and the inevitable plucking.

At any rate, the market is less vulnerable than if the public was in up to the hilt as in 1929. Stability around these levels, even still further mild increases, would strengthen confidence. Continued wild upswings might produce a nose dive. Therefore we see no reason to change our advice not to get too far from conservatism's shore without a financial lifebuoy.

On the bourse, those with notions for Marshall Field found limited offerings. There was only fair demand for The Fair. Dollar day sales helped the Penney, at least indirectly. Safeways came nearer to acting its name. Coppers were walking the beat again, with only occasional pinches. Since promoters long since have ceased pouring water on the troubled oils that selling gave way to accumulation.

"Mop" still has considerable cleaning up to do, although original speculative holders are pretty well wiped out. Mother Lode is still more load than mother. General Tank is fuller, but still with plenty of room for a new top. J. R. Thompson is now using both arms. Gold Dust looks more like twins than for some time. Yellow Truck common remains yellow. Mohawk Carpet has a broad base to expand. Tarnish is being removed from International Silver. National Distilling was liquidated following its dividend announcement.

The Wake-Line graph of activities finds baseball active, car loadings almost stationary, even when the old bus is in motion, and electric consumption low when there are young women in the family.

PLAINT OF A DREAMER.

When I awake each morn I always wonder
If some one has not made an awful blunder;
For, seemingly, I have just dozed and nodded,
When I must needs be waked, and pushed, and prodded.
Thus, unheeding my tormentor's fateful tap,
I turn over for another little nap.

When I have passed beyond this mortal seeming,
And naught is left to me save age-long dreaming,
I wonder if on Judgment Day's dread morning,
When bugles issue forth their fateful warning,
I shall find my sleep account still in arrears,
And turn over for another million years!

Wake-Line: It was at Wrigley field. One of the Cub heroes was at bat. The sweet young thing was all agog. "Oh," she gushed to her escort, "isn't he wonderful? He's the best looking boy on the team." The escort brooded as the green eyed monster nibbled at him. Then, unexpectedly, the hero, with the count three and two, allowed one in the groove to pass unmolested. Whereupon, the escort cracked: "Yes, he's the best looking boy on the team all right, but he's always looking at a third strike." UNKIE.

GOING HOME.

With this issue the present conductor of this column takes off the shoes in which he has floundered for the last four weeks and leaves them, rather in need of resoling, just outside the locked office sanctum where R. H. L. will find them on his return. To those who coöperated with the composite Wake-Line we wish to express appreciation. If any interest should attach to our afternoon whereabouts this coming week, we might mention Addison and Sheffield avenues or Cicero avenue and 35th street. Au revoir!

POISON IVY.

A CONSIDERABLE number of plants are, in some degree, poisonous to those who handle them. Of these, poison ivy is much the most troublesome, though its relative, poison sumac, is responsible for some skin diseases.

The poisonous principle of poison ivy is a resin which is found in all parts of the plant, but which is most abundant in the young, rapidly growing twigs, branches, and leaves. When the resin touches the skin of a person who is sensitized to it—one who is capable of being poisoned by it—there is a local inflammation which is characterized by intense itching. Presently the red, itching area is seen to be occupied by crops of small, pinhead blisters which push their way through the skin. When these small blisters burst a watery fluid oozes out and a raw surface is seen. If the area becomes infected with pus germs the oozing fluid changes to pus. The opinion that poison ivy blisters appear on any skin over which this fluid has oozed is not correct, according to the evidence in hand.

The patient can tell by the itching whether his disease has run its course or not. When it stops the eruption is on its way to recovery.

One method of prevention consists in thorough washing of the exposed parts. If this is done promptly and thoroughly it is reasonably effective, otherwise it fails. The custom is to wash the skin with warm water and laundry soap. Washing in ordinary gasoline—some brand that contains no lead—is effective.

Exposure may consist in wearing gloves, shoes, or garments that have been soiled with the poison within the last several years. Once the resin gets into a garment it will remain there, capable of poisoning for several years.

Soiled garments can be freed of it by washing in gasoline or in hot soap suds followed by thorough rinsing. Vaccination to desensitize by any of the several methods proposed is both dangerous and ineffective. Washing the acute stage eruption with plain gasoline, free from lead, is generally all that need be done.

One of the best remedies for the eruption in this stage is a one to five watery solution of ferrous sulphate. This is applied freely and frequently. Another is a one to twenty watery solution of permanganate as an eradicator.

HEAD LICE.

J. N. writes: The following is a tried remedy for head lice: Take common powdered sulphur and mix with an equal quantity of vaseline. Rub this well into the scalp at night, tying a cloth over the hair to protect the pillow. The head may be washed the following morning, or brushed well. Repeat this treatment three times, about five or six days apart. Sulphur is a good tonic for the hair and relieves itching scalp.

KAHN OR WASSERMAN TEST.

F. M. B. writes: You spoke of tertiary syphilis having a tendency to destroy the partition in the nose. My boy is 14 and has had an open septum several times. Now he has a congestion in the nose.

1. Is there any way I can find out whether the boy's trouble is syphilis?
2. Is there a cure?
3. Please explain tertiary syphilis.

REPLY:

1. A Kahn or Wasserman test should settle the question. This can be made in any medical laboratory.
2. If there is a hole in the septum that will remain. If the hole is due to syphilis adequate treatment of that disease should prevent the total destruction of the septum and caving in of the nose.
3. The chronic stage of syphilis is called the tertiary stage. In this stage the disease is generally inactive, though there is always danger that it may become active. As a rule it is noninfective by this time.

MIGHT DO SOME GOOD.

T. B. writes: Seven years ago I spent five months in a tuberculosis sanitarium and the doctor told me not to worry, as my lungs were all right. Since then I have worked and am feeling fine, but once in a while I get a pain in my chest. I am very thin. I never cough and I don't get colds on my chest. Would you advise me to take up swimming and gymnasium work to build up my system because I am so thin?

REPLY.

There is about an even chance that swimming and gym work would help you by whipping up your appetite and your metabolism. Can you fatten by dieting and cultivating calm and poise? Probably the occasional pain is of no consequence.

FACE DOMINATORS.

R. V. C. writes: You are wrong about its being the nose that dominates the face, and it is strange how a person in your position could make such an error, an error in which any physiognomist could correct you. It is the mouth which dominates and gives expression and character to the face. A face with a poor nose may still be pretty and handsome, but never with a poor mouth.

REPLY.

The eyes should have some champion.

NOT CONTAGIOUS.

Constant Reader writes: 1. Is catarrh contagious? I have been in close contact with people and no one has taken it.

2. I am very worried. People talk about me and turn away. Please state if there is a cure.

REPLY.

1. It is not.
2. If you read the advertisements in the papers you doubtless suspect that you have halitosis.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please give me any information you can on the Nagle avenue or Narragansett avenue paving? I understand contracts have been let either by the county or city. Who is the contractor? S. C.

I wish to advise that this department has under contract the paving of North Narragansett avenue (North Nagle avenue) from Irving Park to the Northwest highway. This contract was awarded by the county board on Nov. 19, 1930, to the Arcole Construction company, Niles Center, Ill. The proposed pavement is to be of Portland cement concrete, twenty feet wide, with a ten foot earth shoulder on each side. Construction has been delayed because it was necessary for the city and the utility companies to install their respective underground work. We have also encountered right of way difficulties on this road, especially where the street crosses the Indian Boundary line. We hope, however, to have the road completed this fall. D. M. CAMPBELL, Assistant County Highway Engineer.

MORTGAGE.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought a mortgage on a two flat building from a small bank. No interest has been paid for three months and the bank says there is nothing to do but to foreclose and that the bank will handle it for me. If I turn the papers over to the bank, and during the time it handles the case the bank should fail [1] what would be the result? 2. Would I be in the same situation as the depositors? M. M.

1. There might be some delay, but ultimately you should recover your papers without loss.
2. Not if the papers were still in the bank's possession and traceable as yours.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEPENDS UPON POLICY.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About two years ago I was forced to quit work by the company's doctor for lead poisoning. I was then paying for my insurance at the same company. In case of sickness of two weeks or over the company paid $12.50 a week for a period not less than two weeks nor over twenty-six weeks. All I received was $134. Am I entitled to twenty-six weeks' pay? W. S.

Your rights depend upon the wording of your policy. If the insurance company has not paid you the amount that it owes you under the policy then we advise you to place your claim in the hands of an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DOES NOT SHARE.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died nearly a year ago and left no will. I was born when he and my mother were only youngsters and unmarried. He married later to another. I lived with them. Am I to share some of the property? D. E. S.

The answer is, no.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 29, 1916.

WASHINGTON.—Unless the railroads or the unions promise concessions, President Wilson will go in person before a joint session of congress either tomorrow or the next day and propose legislation designed to avert the impending general railroad strike. Mr. Wilson said he saw little hope of effecting a settlement by negotiation and that he had decided to ask the aid of congress. The legislation he will propose includes: Establishment of the 8 hour day for all employés of interstate railroads; addition of two members to the interstate commerce commission; creation of a permanent commission to which it would be obligatory for carriers and their employés to submit all disputes, and provision enjoining strikes and lockouts pending decision of the commission and for sixty days thereafter.

WASHINGTON.—The chiefs of the railroad brotherhoods announced that if the railroad strike is called for Sept. 4 they will attempt to stop the operation of all trains. The sealed orders issued to the 640 district chairmen make this definite statement: "So far as your legal right to strike is concerned, there is no difference between a mail train and a freight train. You have identically the same rights to refuse to perform service on a mail train as you have to refuse to perform service on a freight train." One of the leaders said: "We hope to tie up all freight and passenger trains."

LONDON.—Rumania, having declared war on Austria-Hungary, has already suffered her first casualties in the European war from which through two anxious years she held aloof, only to be finally drawn into the vortex as the fifteenth nation. From Berlin, where the kaiser retaliated upon the Rumanian decree against his ally with a counter declaration of war against the new Balkan entrant, there comes the report of fighting on the Transylvania frontier between Rumanian and Teutonic troops. From Vienna comes a report which says the advance guards of the Rumanians and Teutons came into contact at Rothenthurm pass, Transylvania, and in the passes south of Kronstadt [Brasso]. The German announcement says: "Rumanian prisoners were taken."

ATHENS.—Greece is drifting into the war with each day's developments in the Balkans. Gen. Constantine Moschopoulos, new chief of staff, reasserted his friendship for the allies, as did former Premier Venizelos.

PARIS.—A German attack on the French positions at Fleury failed, the war office statement says. On the Somme front, in the region of Estrees, Belloy-en-Santerre and Libons, an artillery combat occurred.

BERLIN.—British and French troops made repeated attacks on the German positions in the region of the river Somme, on the western front, but the attacks failed, the official war statement says.

PETROGRAD.—Attacks by German troops at two points on the northern part of the Russian front near Koldycheva lake and south of the Karanovichi-Luninlets railroad were repelled, the war office announced. In Galicia, north of Mariampol, the Russians captured a wooded position in their advance on the railway town of Halics. On the Caucasian front the Russians drove the Turks from trenches on the bank of the river Masia Darasi, which joins the Euphrates at the village of Nurik, and crossed to the western bank.

CHICAGO.—The engagement is announced of Miss Elizabeth Wells, daughter of Mrs. M. D. Wells and sister of Mrs. Charles Atkinson and Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw of Lake Forest, to Tracy Lay McCauley of the United States navy.

FORT WAYNE.—E. A. Hackett, publisher of the Fort Wayne Evening Sentinel, died after an operation at the age of 65.

LONDON.—Capt. Jack Astor of the First Life guards was married to Lady Charles Mercer Nairne, widow of Lord Nairne, second son of the marquis of Lansdowne, who was killed in France early in the war. Capt. Astor is the youngest son of Baron Astor of Hever castle, who before being elevated to the peerage was William Waldorf Astor, formerly of New York.

THE TUITION FEE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—I hear that some students of Crane Junior college [particularly those displaying communistic tendencies] are raising a cry of protest against charging a tuition fee of $100 a year at Crane. They have even begun to petition against this "outrage."

As a student at Crane, and one who has been struck rather badly by the depression, I, too, do not find the tuition fee quite savory. Nevertheless, whether I shall be able to attend or not, I believe the charge of a fee far better than having the school closed entirely.

Many students of Crane college are willing to pay the tuition fee rather than have it closed. They, like myself, consider it a necessary evil which has been brought about by the corruptness of our local government.

Moreover, are not the so called Reds always moaning and groaning about the existing unemployment? Consider the number of teachers and other employés who will be left without work in the event that Crane college is closed! Consider the number of students who will be seeking employment!

The arguments in favor of keeping Crane open are too numerous to be mentioned here—not only numerous, but important. The statement, "better closed than open with a tuition fee," is caused by the jealousy of those who cannot attend Crane. SARAH BAYLEN.

HIGHER EDUCATION.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—From newspaper reports comes the information that the Chicago board of education is considering charging $100 a year tuition at both Crane Junior college and the Normal school.

By passing this bill, the board of education intends to collect only $127,500 from Crane students and $37,500 from Normal students. This is a small amount to the city while it is a large amount to the students. It will have a tragic effect on the majority of those who want to attend these institutions. The young men and women that go to Crane Junior college and the Chicago Normal school are children of working men and small business men, who, due to the depression, are not financially able to pay the $100 tuition charge.

In normal times those desiring to acquire education could find jobs and pay for their tuition, but this is not the case now. If the proposed tuition fee is adopted we will find thousands of young people who would ordinarily be in school in the ranks of the unemployed.

A tuition charge is not fair to the students. They would apparently be penalized for being honest American citizens who want to continue their education. If they were criminals, the government would spend enormous sums of money to keep them confined in jails, but since they are ambitious young people, willing to become intelligent citizens and leaders, they must pay tuition at a free college that never had tuition charges since its inauguration before the world war.

The colleges have a definite place in our municipal school system, not only due to their long existence but also due to the necessity for them. Twentieth century machine civilization demands that there be free schools of higher learning. Modern education calls for something more than the three R's. All workers' children should have the same educational opportunities as those of the wealthy. New York City realizes this point and it has three free four year colleges. JOHN FITZPATRICK, President, Chicago Federation of Labor.

ARRESTED FOR HIS OWN SAFETY.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—On Aug. 16 a news item on the front page of THE TRIBUNE indicated that a certain Victor Suierts had been arrested for "his own safety" at Benton, Ill., the previous evening. The name is slightly garbled, though that can easily be excused on the ground of typographical error. But the other element in the report needs more explanation, lest a hurried reading of the news item convey an erroneous idea of the event.

In any circumstance being arrested for one's own safety seems slightly paradoxical. One can hardly imagine any one being arrested for "his own safety" who had had all his personal papers confiscated from his room in his absence; who had been sent for by two armed deputies, one being stationed at the front door and one at the rear basement door of the rooming house (not at the town square, where the danger was); one who was quizzed and cursed for forty-five minutes by three deputies, a sheriff, and a sheriff's wife; one who was told by the deputy who had arrested him that had he (the deputy) known his prisoner was suspected of being a redneck he would have beat "the hell out of him" at the rooming house before bringing him to the jail; one who was told he had been in Kentucky on other student trips (which was untrue) and had come to Franklin county and started two redneck groups there (which was a cooked up story)—I say it requires some stretch of the imagination to realize that such a person was arrested "for his own safety."

The only way one can really account for such rendering of news items is that the officers of "law and order" are prone to distort the facts of arrests which are done for expediency's sake and with no real charges to make against the victim. Or, perhaps, the news reporter is willing in a large degree to accept the words of these officers as authoritative and factual. In either case news of this kind should be read with several grains of salt.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—I recently came across a document in the museum at Fort Ticonderoga, New York, which reads as follows:

"This Napsack I Caryd through the War of the Revolution to achieve the American Independence. I transmit it to my olest sone Benjamin Warner Jr. with directions to keep it and transmit it to his olest sone and so on to the latest posterity and whilst one shred of it shall remane never surrender your libertis to foren envador or an aspiring demegog.

POST-OLYMPIC INCIDENT.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—My friend was entertaining a few of the Finnish Olympic stars when they were in Chicago last week. On Friday afternoon she was standing outside of her home with three of the fellows waiting for her husband while he went to get their car when a police squad drove by. The police stopped and went through the pockets of these athletes, causing great embarrassment to the boys and their hostess, as a crowd gathered.

Just because the athletes were of heavy build was not sufficient reason to warrant their being subjects of suspicion. I'm sure they won't be shy of broadcasting their opinions of American police. E. S.

BRITAIN TO SEND STRONGER SHIPS TO U. S. WATERS

Will Replace Squadron in West Indies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—An important reorganization of Great Britain's naval forces stationed in the West Indies off the coast of the United States will be carried out in the near future, it was learned today. The admiralty will act in accordance with its policy of keeping the British overseas squadrons at full strength.

The present squadron in the West Indies consists normally of the Delhi, flagship of Rear Admiral R. A. R. Berl-Drax, and four smaller ships of less than 5,000 tons. They are lightly armed and travel at only a 29 knot speed.

Vessels Are Outclassed.

The vessels are heavily outclassed by the large 8 inch gun cruisers of other navies and the admiralty is determined to reorganize this squadron with better ships.

The flagship Delhi will soon be relieved by the Norfolk, one of Britain's latest 10,000 ton cruisers. In due course the Dorsetshire, a sister ship, and the 8,400 ton York or Exeter, or possibly both, will proceed to the American station.

The small "D" cruisers in the American waters, on being relieved, will be transferred to the Mediterranean where they will act as auxiliary vessels to the four 10,000 ton vessels comprising the first cruiser squadron in those waters.

It is also learned that the Leander and its sister cruisers, the Achilles, Neptune, and Orion, now under construction, may form the new second cruiser squadron of the home fleet.

London Treaty Vessel.

The Leander will be ready for trial runs in the late autumn. This ship is the first British cruiser to be constructed under the London naval treaty. It is 554 feet long, with a beam of 55 feet and displacement of 7,000 tons. Its speed is 33¼ knots.

Vital parts of the warship are protected by armor plates. The cruiser carries eight 6 inch guns and four 4 inch anti-aircraft guns. The Leander has only one funnel.

AUTO TWICE STOLEN IN DAY.

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The sedan owned by B. W. Denham, Racine, stolen from Racine Saturday night, is believed to have been stolen again in Kenosha where it was found abandoned today. Police told Denham to come and get his car, but when he arrived at the place it had been reported at, it was gone.

BRITISH TEXTILE STRIKERS GIRD FOR HARD TIMES

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Today was the gloomiest Sabbath the north country has known for years, for thousands of striking textile workers faced the fact that they would not plod their accustomed way to the mills tomorrow.

With the entire weaving section, involving upward of 200,000 workers, engaged in the walkout, an ominous fact was that the equally large spinning section also must make a decision as to whether to take a ten per cent wage cut or quit their jobs. They will vote on the matter within the next ten days.

Even if the spinners decide to accept the slash, observers commented, it can hardly help them long because without the weavers the entire industry must slow down and finally cease. Lancashire has no use for spun produce that can not be woven. The total number of workers threatened with unemployment is close to 500,000.

AUSTRALIA KILLS GOLDEN GOOSE BY SUBSIDY TO LABOR

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RABAUL, New Britain, Aug. 1.—[By Mail.]—The Australasian empire, extending from the south polar seas to the equator, presents ever expanding social and economic frontiers, but the conquering human energy of exploration and development seems to have been sapped at its source by the political outlook and methods at the seats of power in Canberra and Wellington.

"What is the use of working for the government?" is the question that many a business man and natural organizer is asking today.

He has found that the development of new industry results in most of the profits going to the government in taxes. He can work much less and risk much less, and still have almost as much income.

And So He Takes It Easy.

And so, instead of sending expeditions and adventuring capital into the untouched, unexplored heart of Australia or New Guinea, he takes life easy, while political commissions, instead of finding new sources of wealth, plan new methods of taking away what is left of the lessening national income.

At Sydney there is the spectacle of a new basic wage hearing. It is something like a railroad rate hearing at home. The question, which may take months to solve, is not what industry can pay in wages but what the worker thinks he needs in order to maintain his comfort and that standard of living to which the commonwealth has pledged its political fortunes.

A Japanese visitor to Australia once commented that the commonwealth was run by a "coolie government." It is true in a sense, for the men who handle the ship cargoes in Australia are a powerful union, while those that do similar work in Japan have little to say about finance or wages.

Stevedores Are Gentlemen.

A glimpse of the docks at Townsville, in tropical Queensland, is an illustration. The workers are no mere roustabouts, such as most of the ports of the world offer. They are white men in a white man's country, made so politically and maintained by the taxing power.

Yet Queensland is no paradise for the workers. At Cairs recently there was a riot. It came about through the desire of the townspeople to take possession of their city park for show purposes and the insistence of a group of unemployed who had been camping there for months, fed by the dole, to remain.

The police, under the dictation of the Labor government, would not drive the men away and so the citizens, 1,000 strong, and led by their mayor, marched on the camp and ordered the men to leave. The workless army had armed themselves with knives and bricks and boards bound with barbed wire and when it was over and they had been dispersed several men had to go to the hospital.

Comment on Revival Loan.

The answer of the government to the unemployment problem is a "revival loan" to be spent on productive works. The North Queensland Register has this to say about the scheme:

"As at least 75 per cent of the revival loan will either be spent on works that are not required, or on schemes that will never be reproductive, it seems to us that the only effect of the loan will be to postpone the evil day, and make the ultimate smash more intense."

The policy of the Labor party for thirty years in opposition to the encouragement of private enterprise is bearing fruit in many ways.

A pension cost of 19 million pounds a year [the pound is $3.46 at current rate of exchange], relief work and doles 10 millions more, while cost of hospitals and interest charges brings a total of 85 million pounds to place on the shoulders of seven million people.

Sugar Comes High.

Sugar, the greatest industry of Queensland, a politically protected industry, is now coming in for review by the national government. For the sake of having sugar produced and milled by white labor at high wages the consumers of Australia are paying more for their own sugar than the people of England pay for it.

There are half a million blacks in the New Guinea mandate territory who might be drawn upon at wages approximating 50 cents a month.

The new government in New South Wales is not so tender of the feelings of labor and has just decided to close a state coal mine because it can buy more cheaply in the public market.

The search for gold is now the most active new industry in Australia. By motor and camel caravan, the desert and the hills of the unknown northern territory and remote Queensland are being invaded. The Golden Mile territory in western Australia is booming. Parties are pushing into the dim blue ranges of New Guinea, their outfits carried by a string of black boys over ranges 13,000 feet high.

OPPOSES NEW FRENCH INFLATION.

BAS-EN-BASSET, France, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Germain-Martin, minister of finance, said today in a speech here that the government has no intention of pursuing any measure resembling inflation. A recurrence of the speculative period of 1920 to 1926, he said, would be fatal to France.

DEFENDS THE USE OF SIAMESE HOSE LINES AT FIRE

Daniel J. Carmody, acting fire commissioner, yesterday defended the practice of using "Siamese hose lines" in fighting large fires. Some criticism was directed at the department recently, the contention raised being that there is a delay in "siamesing" the lines during which fires spread. By "siamesing" is meant the practice of joining two hose lines to a single nozzle.

Heavy and powerful streams of water are needed, the commissioner said, to get large or spreading fires under control. The use of a single 2½ inch hose is impracticable, he said, because of the friction loss and the fact that at large fires the water from this size hose turns into vapor before reaching the fire.

"At large or spreading fires," the commissioner said, "the engines usually are some distance from the flames. A single line of 2½ inch hose stretched 1,200 feet from the engine will have 45 pounds pressure at its 1¼ inch nozzle under 319 pounds engine pressure, which approximates a maximum delivery of 309 gallons per minute. This stream would be effective a distance of 66 feet horizontally and 70 feet vertically. It would be practically useless at a large or spreading fire because of the loss of 274 pounds due to friction.

"By siamesing this line with another of the same size and length, using the same nozzle, an engine pressure of only 121 pounds would be required for a nozzle pressure of 45 pounds. If the engine pressure into the Siamesed lines increased to 237 pounds a nozzle pressure of 90 pounds would result, which approximates a maximum delivery of water at the nozzle of 438 gallons per minute. That stream would be effective a distance of 89 feet horizontally and 98 feet vertically."

SOVIETS CHANGE SCHOOL PLAN TO STOP 'CRIBBING'

MOSCOW, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The central committee of the Communist party has issued an edict marking a significant departure from the communistic theory of education followed since the beginning of the soviet régime. Hereafter the work of individual students will be emphasized. The theory of group instruction is to be abandoned. Under it students were self-disciplined, teachers were mere clerks, and "cribbing" was widespread.

Following the principle of "individual responsibility" established in industry, the new ruling renounces the system modelled upon the so-called Dalton plan formulated by Miss Helen Parkhurst, American educator, under which students studied in "laboratory brigades" without tests or examinations, the theory being that more capable students would raise the standard of the backward in the class.

The new edict, while emphasizing the importance of collective study, now introduces for the first time individual ratings, makes final examinations compulsory, and greatly increases the authority of the teacher.

ENVOYS OF PEACE SAIL FOR BRAZIL'S CIVIL WAR FRONT

Ten Day Truce Sought in Sao Paulo.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 28.—Peace permeates the air. By courtesy of the government the cruiser Bahia is sailing tomorrow for Santos carrying two committees, one composed of leading intellectuals, including former President Wenceslau Braz, Count Alfonso Celso, Gen. Sodre, and Dr. Miguel Couto, and another representing industry and commerce.

WENCESLAU BRAZ.
[Underwood & Underwood.]

Upon arriving at Sao Paulo the committees plan to enroll the intellectuals of commerce and industry to exert pressure on the Paulistas, proposing a ten days' armistice to talk peace. In the meantime the governors of Minas Geraes and Rio Grande do Sul are being pressed by commercial and industrial bodies to make suggestions for peace formulas.

President Vargas continues to state his willingness to talk peace, imposing the condition that the Paulistas lay down arms.

Loyal Forces Claim Victory.

RIO DE JANERIO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Federal troops in the field against the rebels of Sao Paulo reported today they had captured the town of Ribeiropolis, an important highway junction sixty miles northwest of Bury.

The day's bulletins also announced capture of the railway stations at Eleuterio, Atailvanoguerira, Prata and Mococa, on the border between Sao Paulo and Minas Geraes. Fourteen federals were killed and twenty-eight wounded in these engagements.

Belated dispatches from the town of Manaos said federal naval forces had won an engagement 800 miles up the Amazon. The federals commandeered two cargo vessels, armed them and sank two similar ships which had been commandeered by the rebels at Obidos.

Ecuador Mutiny a Mystery.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Communication with Quito was impossible today and the rest of the country was without knowledge of what had happened in the capital since yesterday, when brief dispatches said part of the army garrison had mutinied, proclaiming President-elect Neptali Bonifax president of the republic.

There were reports of heavy fighting, but confirmation could not be obtained, for the military had taken over all communications and permitted the sending of only commercial messages.

Before the wires went down yesterday loyal troops were sent to Quito, artillery from Ambato, infantry from Tulcan, and additional units from Rio Bamba.

The last word from the capital was that Provisional President Moreno had taken refuge in the Argentine legation. Congress has declared Bonifax ineligible to hold office, claiming he is not an Ecuadorean citizen.

Bolivia in New Note.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 28.—(AP)—In a note sent today to neutral governments seeking to end hostilities between Bolivia and Paraguay, Bolivia asserted that she still is willing to suspend hostilities in the Gran Chaco on the basis of present positions of troops.

The Bolivian government also is willing to solve the dispute either by arbitration or other peaceful means, the note said, but it considers that responsibility for the present conflict cannot be attached to Bolivia.

Paraguay Pessimistic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 28.—Bolivia's latest note to neutral countries is interpreted here as defiance and that the nation is "looking for trouble." Bolivia's insistence to retain her present military positions in the Gran Chaco is taken to mean that she feels that it would provide considerable military advantage.

The general feeling here is pessimistic, and it is believed that nothing short of an ultimatum from Argentina, Brazil, Chile, and Peru is likely to deter the Bolivians. The Paraguayan government charges that Bolivia's possession of three recently seized forts endanger the Mennonite colony, which is defenseless.

A cabinet meeting was held today to consider Paraguay's next move in view of Bolivia's rejection of the neutrals' proposal, which called for a cessation of hostilities and the withdrawal of troops, followed by arbitration.

Indiana Youth Kills 45 Pound Wolf on Farm

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Wolves from the Kankakee river in the southern part of Porter county are invading farms and carrying away live stock and poultry in large numbers. Robert Morris, 15 year old farm hand, shot a 45 pound wolf after it had attacked a pig.

'THIRD DEGREE' DEATH CASE ENDS IN A MISTRIAL

Mineola, L. I., Aug. 28.—[Special.]—The trial of Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappen and Detectives Harry Zander and Leslie W. Pearsall of the Nassau county police for manslaughter in connection with the death of Hyman Stark, fatally beaten while a prisoner, ended in a disagreement in Supreme court here today.

After 19 hours of argument, during which their voices were frequently heard in the court yard below, the jurors emerged bubbling over with a tale of dickering which at one time brought them to agreement on an acquittal for Pearsall and Zander, later discarded in favor of a mistrial for all.

After the jurors had been discharged by Justice John B. Johnston with the "thanks of the court," two of them, Clarence E. Phillips of Valley Stream and William Masterson of Westbury, said their "hopeless deadlock" had been due to the insistence of four other talesmen on a guilty verdict against Tappen.

when you're stoking the furnace every morning

"PLAYING nursemaid to the furnace never did appeal to me", says Mr. R. C. Koepp, 5897 N. Kilbourn Ave. "It's no joke to wake up on winter mornings to find the house as cold as a barn. I decided to chuck furnace-tending and give myself and family real comfort. Now I heat my home with gas, and the furnace takes care of itself.

"I can sleep 30 minutes longer on cold mornings, and after dinner I can settle down in front of the radio with my evening paper, and know my furnace is keeping step automatically with the weather. I'd think twice before I'd give up my gas heat for any other modern convenience you could give me."

And Mrs. Koepp likes gas heat, too. "I never even think of the furnace during the daytime now that we have gas heat, and I'm saving money on my household budget also. Housekeeping has become a real pleasure—my curtains and draperies need to come down less frequently, and the amount of extra help required to keep the house clean has been cut in half."

Now you can TRY Gas Heat

Now you can TRY gas heat—and prove its economies to your own satisfaction—by renting a gas burner for as little as $5 a month (no rental charge during June, July and August). This burner fits right into your present steam or hot water boiler or warm air furnace. If you decide to buy, the rentals apply on the purchase price. If you are not completely satisfied we will remove the burner and restore your heating plant to its former condition. Get the facts now—the heating season is almost here. Send the coupon, or phone Wabash 6000. No obligation, of course.

FIND OUT FOR YOURSELF

Don't be fooled by misleading statements about the cost of gas heat. Gas for house heating is delivered to you through a separate meter and is billed at a new low wholesale rate. Gas heat offers you advantages in cleanliness, health and comfort—savings in redecorating costs. Considering these advantages, this clean, automatic heat will cost you no more than the fuel you now use—it may cost you actually less!

7 ROOMS—HEATING COST $122.93

Gas heat is now so cheap that every Chicago home should have it. The cost of heating Mr. Koepp's 7-room home at 5897 N. Kilbourn Ave. (pictured above), under the former rate for a full heating season was $209.47. If the present low wholesale gas rate had been in effect, the cost would have been only $122.93. Why not find out how low the cost would be for your home? Don't wait longer. Get the facts—have a representative of your gas company call. He will give you a reliable estimate on the cost of gas heat for your home, and you won't be obligated in any way.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company,
122 So. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen: I would like to know how much it would cost to heat my home with gas under the new low wholesale rate. Also tell me how I can rent a gas burner for my present furnace. This does not obligate me in any way.

SOVIETS IGNORE PLEA OF FAMINE; SEIZE ALL GRAIN

Russia Opens New War on Its Peasants.

BY DONALD DAY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 28.—A war to the death between Russia moujiks and bolsheviks entered a new phase in the last fortnight, Dictator Josef Stalin having decreed a new blow at the peasants.

Delegations of peasants have appeared before both M. M. Kalinin, peasant president of Russia, and Stalin, the dictator of soviet politics. They have been turned away from the Kremlin and the commissars have rejected their pleas to keep their crops.

Stalin informed the moujiks that the stringent enforcement measures regarding grain, including the death sentence, would be continued until the crop has been gathered. Ignoring pleas of a bad harvest and complaints of a famine, Stalin said that government's estimates concerning the present crop will not be changed and that deliveries must be fulfilled.

Death Sentence Imposed.

In the last week the soviet press has contained a score of death sentences imposed on peasants charged with stealing or hiding grain, throwing rocks into threshing machines, wrecking tractors, and even setting fire to grain stores to prevent them from being shipped to state elevators. A dispatch from Moscow today said a woman and four men were sentenced to death in the Ukraine yesterday for stealing grain.

From the Don district it is reported that ten women were sentenced to two years at hard labor. They were charged with stealing watermelons. The head of the soviet Supreme court has issued instructions to local judges to impose more severe sentences on persons convicted of stealing government property, which now includes all possessions and even the crops of collectivized farms.

The newspaper Pravda even mentions the execution of a woman charged with stealing sheaves of grain in the fields her husband owned before a collectivized farm dispossessed him.

With the 2,000,000 tons of grain reserved for famine depleted and last year's crop a failure in the Ukraine and upper Volga districts, the Kremlin is desperately determined to collect the estimated tonnage of the commissar of agriculture. A portion of the present crop already has been sold abroad despite the fact that famine is prevailing in the Ukraine and the northern Caucasus, which are important grain growing regions.

Decree Proves Failure.

Stalin's decree permitting peasants of collectivized farms to share a part of their harvest after deliveries to the government have been completed has proved a complete failure. The Kremlin has been forced to undertake a new campaign against the so-called socialized villages and rumors of impending cuts in bread rations are causing dissatisfaction and anxiety among town dwellers.

The Communist party has announced the mobilization of its forces against the moujiks who are held responsible for Russia's short rations and whose opposition to bolshevik policies are again threatening to starve out the population of the towns.

With 5,000,000 additional workers employed in industry during the last four years and the next five year plan contemplating the employment of additional millions, A. Mikoyan, commissar for supplies, is urgently demanding increased food supplies. Otherwise Russia's program for industrial development must be again revised.

REPEAL WOMEN TO POLL ALL IN CONGRESS RACE

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Women of the United States enter this week actively into the campaign for the end of national prohibition.

The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform announced today that, starting next Thursday, it will poll all candidates for congress on uncondition repeal of the 18th amendment.

This is the question that will be submitted to the nominees of all parties and to other aspirants to seats in the national legislature:

"If elected, will you support a resolution for the straight repeal of the 18th amendment and the restoration to each state of its power to regulate the manufacture, sale, and transportation of intoxicating beverages within its own limits? Such resolution to be submitted to conventions in the several states for ratification or rejection."

"This question," said Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, in announcing the poll, "will be asked of the candidates of both parties, and we shall expect a frank, clear cut and definite reply, irrespective of party platforms.

"We want to know whether the Democratic candidates intend to stand by their party platform. We want to know whether the Republican candidates will support a resolution for outright repeal rather than their national platform. And upon this knowledge we shall base our campaign activities in the various states."

JEALOUS SUITOR ADMITS KILLING MAN AND WOMAN

Suicide Balked; 2 Others Shot Are Recovering.

Frank Martin, alias Huck, a 250 pound bootlegger, confessed to Capt. Hugh McCarthy of the Burnside station last night that he shot and killed Mrs. Harriet Fadler, a divorcée, and Jack Whittingham, and wounded her daughter and another man in the Fadler home at 7925 Rhodes avenue early yesterday. Jealousy was the motive.

The wounded were Nadine Fadler, 16 years old, and William B. Brewster, 27, of 8200 Ellis avenue. They are recovering in the Jackson Park hospital. Whittingham, who was 30, and lived at 8110 Ellis avenue, had accompanied his friend, Brewster, to the Fadler home for the first time and was a more or less innocent victim of the shooting.

"I went to Mrs. Fadler's home to kill her and then to commit suicide," Martin, who is 50 years old, told Capt. McCarthy. "When I arrived I found the two men there. I entered the rear door. Nadine ran toward me and I shot her. Then I caught Mrs. Fadler in the bedroom and killed her. I shot blindly at the men killing Whittingham and wounding Brewster. Brewster took my gun away or I would have killed myself. I was drunk and didn't know what I was doing."

Martin intimated that he killed Mrs. Fadler because he feared she was "giving him the air." This suspicion arose, he said, when he learned she had been away from home for three days last week. He said he had been giving Mrs. Fadler $400 a month. Mrs. Fadler, he said, and Herman G. Fadler, of Lansing, were divorced a year ago. Fadler was her second husband. Nadine was born of her first marriage. Martin will be taken to the inquest at the county morgue at 10 this morning.

MARION H. FOSS, WILSON & CO. ENGINEER, DIES

Marion Henry Foss, 47 years old, of 5448 Cornell avenue died yesterday after a long illness. He was a son of the late Gus Foss, prominent member of the Chicago Board of Trade and a nephew of Thomas E. Wilson, the packer.

For the last three years Mr. Foss had been consulting engineer for the United Chemical and Organic Products company of Calumet City, a subsidiary of Wilson & Co. For seven years previously he had been a consulting engineer for the parent organization. Mr. Foss was born in Wilmette and educated at Stamford and Boston Technical college. He worked as a mining engineer in Nevada after leaving school.

In 1915 Mr. Foss married Elisa Opdyke at Salt Lake City. Mrs. Foss and two children, Charles and Martin, survive. Other survivors are his mother, Mrs. Gus Foss; two brothers, Frank K. and Samuel B. Foss, and four sisters, Vera Foss, Mrs. Clifford Brown, Mrs. Aldrich Harrison, and Ms. James Ballard. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at Oakwoods cemetery.

AGRARIAN STATES OF EUROPE ASK NEW TRADE DEALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Aug. 28.—The eight countries forming the agricultural bloc of central and eastern Europe formulated a set of demands to be presented to the forthcoming international economic conference at their final session today.

It was decided to demand the immediate removal of existing restrictions and prohibitions handicapping the normal exchange of commodities and the adoption of new trade agreements. Concessions will be demanded from such industrial countries as the United States, Great Britain and France, to whom the agricultural states are debtors. The concessions include acceptance of agricultural products instead of cash.

The bloc will also try to obtain a large loan. The total indebtedness of these states to America, England and France is several billion of dollars and the annual interest is about $85,000,000.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for W. O. McFatridge, 57

Funeral services for William O. McFatridge, 57 years old, of 2150 Millard avenue, who for twenty-five years was traffic manager of the Link Belt company, will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow from his home to Blessed Sacrament church. Mr. McFatridge died suddenly of a heart attack in his home on Saturday. Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Nolan McFatridge, his mother, and two children.

F. G. ZIMMERMAN, RAILWAY SUPPLY DEALER, IS DEAD

Fred G. Zimmerman, for many years well known in the Chicago railway supply business, died Saturday in Louisville, Ky., friends here learned last night. Until a year ago he was a vice president of the Okadee company, the Biloco Railway Equipment company, and the T-Z Railway Equipment company. Since then he had been in the same business in Louisville. His home was in Hoopeston, Ill., although he was born in Thornton, Cook county. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the Oaklawn cemetery.

BIG FIRE AT TARRYTOWN.

Tarrytown, N. Y., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Four firemen and one civilian were injured today in a fire that swept through Orchard street in the heart of the business section. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

TALL CORN HIDES TRAIN; COUPLE IN AUTO KILLED

De Kalb Residents Lose Lives in Crash.

A field of tall corn obscured the vision of a De Kalb couple last night and they were killed when they drove their automobile in front of a fast Chicago bound Burlington train 12 miles southwest of Aurora. The victims were Andrew B. Johnson, 58 years old, and his wife, Lena, 55, of 144 Harrison street, De Kalb.

The Johnsons had attended a Norwegian picnic at the fair grounds in Sandwich and were returning home in state highway 32. The accident occurred on a crossing about one mile west of the town in De Kalb county. The crossing is unprotected excepting for cross-arms. The wreckage burned.

Husband Killed, Wife Hurt.

Michael Worth, 42 years old, of 6942 Parnell avenue, was killed and his wife, Margaret, 38, was seriously injured when they were run down by an automobile while crossing the street in front of 6830 Stony Island avenue this morning. At the Jackson Park hospital it was said that Mrs. Worth would die.

Frank Vetter, 20 years old, of 1735 East 83d street, a clerk, who drove the automobile, said he did not see the Worths until it was too late. He was held. Worth was an automobile mechanic.

There were three other automobile fatalities in Cook county, increasing the motor toll in Cook county to 765 since Jan. 1. The victims:

Miss Margery Koltz, 24 years old, of 1753 Wabansia avenue. Killed yesterday when the automobile in which she was a passenger hit a tree in front of 1925 North Paulina street. Four companions received minor injuries.

Luke Carringella, 34 years old, of 909 Lytle street. Killed at Taylor street and Blue Island avenue by an automobile which did not stop after the accident. The car contained four men.

Mattie Hardy, 75 years old, colored, of 4620 Wabash avenue. Died yesterday of injuries suffered April 21 when she was hit by an automobile at 48th street and Wabash avenue.

Two other deaths occurred outside of Cook county. John Sorenson, 68 years old, a farmer living near Richmond in McHenry county, was killed by a new car driven by Anton Radzuns, chauffeur for Daniel Peterkin, 199 Lake Shore drive, an official of the Morton Salt company.

Boy Killed in Gary.

Richard Brandt, 4 years old, of 1749 Central avenue, Whiting, Ind., was fatally injured by an automobile driven by Mrs. Lena Born of Chesterton, Ind., in Gary.

Rachel Edelstein, 13 years old, of Milwaukee, was seriously hurt and several other persons were cut up in a collision at 57th street and Drexel avenue last night. One of the cars was driven by Fred Hobscheid, 28 years old, 6148 St. Lawrence avenue, former tackle on the University of Chicago football team. Rachel was in a car with her aunt and uncle.

Lunchroom Owner Ends Life by Slashing Throat

James Levandin, 40 years old, owner of three lunchrooms, was found dead, his throat slashed, on the back porch of his home at 918 North Central Park avenue early this morning. Police said that he had cut his throat with a butcher knife which was found beside his body. Levandin had been suffering from dropsy and heart disease and was despondent over his illness. His restaurants were located at 47th street and Prairie avenue, Armitage and Grand avenues and Western and Montrose avenues.

Gunman Locks Up Owner of Drug Store; Gets $300

A gunman yesterday morning entered the drug store of Ollie Eimerman at 17 North Genesee street, Waukegan, and after binding the proprietor and locking him in a rear room escaped with $300 from the cash register. Elmerman was alone in the place at the time. He loosed his bonds about an hour after the bandit's departure.

HORNER TO CONTINUE DOWNSTATE CAMPAIGN TOUR UNTIL OCT. 23

Judge Henry Horner, it was announced yesterday, will continue his downstate campaign touring until Oct. 23. This, it is said, will make the Democratic gubernatorial nominee's stay among the 101 counties outside of Cook county a record breaker. His get acquainted methods are considered unusually advisable this year, because the Republican organization, with Len Small as its governorship nominee, has taken an anti-Chicago slogan as its battle cry.

Judge Horner is scheduled to complete his handshaking trip in two more weeks and then will open up with a series of set speeches which, so far as possible, have been avoided up to this time. His addresses at the meetings that will start on or about Sept. 12 are to deal more formally with the issues of the campaign than his neighborly talks up to that time.

Today the Democratic nominee is to be at Vienna, Metropolis, and Cairo; tomorrow at Mound City and Anna, and he is due to wind up the week with visits to Pontiac and Gibson City, with possible stops at Dwight and Kankakee on Saturday.

HERRIOT'S TALK TO BRITISH CHIEF IS NEW MYSTERY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Considerable mystery surrounded the conference between British officials and foreign ministers and other diplomats over the week-end.

Most prominent of these was that between Sir Herbert Samuel, home secretary and Premier Edouard Herriot of France on the island of Jersey. Official quarters said the conference was without any political significance. Nevertheless, it was learned, that the two statesmen discussed such problems as passport difficulties and immigration. Herriot also sought information of the recent British imperial conference with an eye on the forthcoming Franco-British trade negotiations.

Another mystery meeting was between Prime Minister MacDonald and Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council. Although they are next door neighbors in Downing street, the two met at MacDonald's Hampstead house. The details of their talk was not disclosed.

Boy Gets His Money's Worth on Rented Horse

George Brown, 13 years old, a Negro, went to the James H. Cappers riding stables at 3555 Church street, Niles Center, and rented a saddle horse Saturday morning. When he had not returned the horse at midnight, Mr. Cappers asked Evanston police to look for him. They found him early yesterday in the vicinity of his home at 1009 Emerson avenue, Evanston, still riding the horse. The animal, which was exhausted, was returned to the stables and the boy was ordered to report today to juvenile authorities.

Funeral Services Held for David R. Ettinger

Funeral services were held in the chapel at 2701 North Clark street yesterday for David R. Ettinger, president of the Riggs Optical company, who was found poisoned in a hotel room in New Orleans Thursday. Mr. Ettinger had been missing for four days. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lelia Ettinger and his parents.

Dr. Neumann, New York Hospital Physician, Dies

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Dr. Fritz Neumann, 61, of Lenox Hill hospital in New York died at Mount Zion hospital here today after an illness of three weeks. Dr. Neumann had been visiting his son-in-law and daughter, Rabbi Irving F. Reichert, head of Temple Emanuel, and Mrs. Reichert. He was accompanied here by Mrs. Neumann and a son, James R. Neumann of New York.

TITLED BRITONS PUT UP IRISH CASTLES FOR SALE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Four great Irish estates owned by British aristocracy are for sale. Whether these sales are altogether due to hard times and taxation cannot be learned, but in some quarters the reasons given are political.

Among those leaving Ireland is Lord Harewood, son-in-law of King George and Queen Mary. He inherited vast Irish properties from his uncle, Lord Clanriekarde. Many valuable paintings already have been sold. Lord Harewood is offering Portumna castle, County Galway, for sale. The castle was badly damaged by fire during one of the Irish political upheavals.

The duke of Devonshire is eager to sell Lismore castle, in County Waterford. The duchess of Devonshire is Irish and previously the couple spent much time there. The estate possesses some of the finest salmon in Ireland. The marquis of Lansdowne, the duke of Devonshire's brother-in-law, will sell his Dereen estate in County Kerry. Sinn Feiners once destroyed the old house. Sir John Nugent, Irish baronet, has marked for sale his country home and the Lake of Daravaragh. He is coming to England to live.

WM. W. GEARY FUNERAL TODAY IN EVANSTON

Funeral services will be held this afternoon in the First Baptist Church of Evanston for William Warren Geary, employé of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. for twenty-five years, who died Saturday in his home at 1017 Grove street, Evanston, of a heart attack. He was 53 years old.

Mr. Geary established the Kansas City office and salesroom of the company. He was later made western salesmanager and then manager of the city sales division. He is survived by his widow and two sons, William Warren and Robert Egehoff Geary. Burial will be in Kansas City.

Robert J. Menzies, Rail Official, Dies in New York

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Robert J. Menzies, freight traffic manager of the New York Central railroad, died late yesterday at his home in Brooklyn after a long illness. He was 64 years old. Mr. Menzies was a former president of the New York Traffic club. His widow and daughter, Mrs. Philip Luce, New Rochelle, N. Y., survive.

John B. Warfield, Former Tobacco Co. Official, Dies

New Orleans, La., Aug. 28.—(AP)—John B. Warfield, 65, member of a prominent Maryland family and nephew of Mrs. Johns Hopkins, wife of the noted benefactor of the university of that name, died here today. Mr. Warfield formerly had been general manager of the American Tobacco company in the far east.

MOVE POLICE RADIO SYSTEM INTO NEW HEADQUARTERS TODAY

The broadcasting headquarters of the Chicago police radio system will be moved from the tenth floor today to a new soundproof studio on the twelfth floor of the police building at 11th and State streets. Frank Rafferty, chief radio engineer, and his assistant, Frank McLaughlin, spent yesterday testing the new apparatus.

The new quarters have facilities for 18 operators to take alarms from the public over the police 1313 lines, as well as for six operators on the private police lines which run to every district station in the city, and for two operators who will handle calls from police squads.

When a complaint of robbery, murder or other serious crime comes in the supervisor may connect one of the two announcers on duty directly with the call, permitting the announcer to dispatch squads to the scene without the delay of relaying the alarm through a police operator.

The announcer can press a button at any time and a system of signal lights will indicate the squads available for assignments in any particular district and the squad call numbers. In addition to handling calls of the Chicago department, which are broadcast from stations on the north, west and south sides, the radio system also serves 51 suburban police departments.

The central coast guard station has received two short wave radio sets from Washington, which will be installed in power lifeboats so as to assure swift action in emergency lake calls.

SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Here is a quick and easy way to take off a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—with never a hungry moment. A way any doctor will tell you is safe and sure.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in glass of water half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses your system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute. Cut down on sweets and desserts. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns to energy instead of weight.

If you are tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

Two Boarding House Novels Are Reviewed

Have Same Setting but Different Themes.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Last of Wisdom," by Eleanor Chase. [Sears.] Published last Thursday.

"The Case Is Altered," by William Plomer. [Farrar & Rinehart.] Published today.

TWO novels from either side of the Atlantic and by young authors, both of whom, according to their admirers, are "coming into their own," and both with boarding houses as their background, are published almost simultaneously. They have not any relation, however, other than the purely circumstantial one of their milieu.

ELEANOR CHASE.

"The Last of Wisdom" is the second novel by Eleanor Chase, whose "Pennagan Place" was an unusually good first novel. "The Case Is Altered" is the fourth published volume of prose from the pen of William Plomer. "The Case Is Altered" was the July choice of the English Book society and comes to us with glowing critical tributes.

One of the books is a light hearted tale and the other, despite the author's trenchantly humorous style, is a tale of tragedy and the cruel reaches of the mind.

"The Last of Wisdom" is more the story of a small middle western city than it is the story of the boarding house in an unfashionable street in that city. Its title is taken from Antoine Bret. "The first sigh of love is the last of wisdom." The city, called Eden, I will wager my best last year's Paris outfit (which is still my best!), is Oshkosh, Wis., the author's home town, and it is with real skill that she has caught its uniqueness while giving it the general characteristics of all middle western towns.

In Eden everybody calls everybody else by his or her first name, but there is a definite social structure into which the son of the town man-of-no-work is pigeonholed quite as definitely as the daughter of the mill owner and the daughter of a lazy truck farmer.

The boarding house inmates consist of a snappish old maid who owns the house—and to whom love comes in more than one unexpected form—a cooing young widow who automatically turns on her charm at the appearance of anything male, her unpleasant child, a retired major who has been in India, and a gentleman who suffers from every advertised ailment, besides the hero of the book, who is the son of a gentleman of parts who has never done a day's work, who has the manner of a Croesus, and who, by a fluke of fate, does achieve Croesushood for a long enough time to readjust the affairs of the town.

Eleanor Chase has done an excellent job of mildly satirizing community life. "The Last of Wisdom" is no masterpiece, but it has real charm and gayety and that, my dears, has the same effect upon readers that beauty, even if on the near side of dumbness, has on the susceptible male. "The Last of Wisdom" has "It."

A London boarding house is the scene of "The Case Is Altered," and all of the real events of the book take place within its walls. In it are housed a lower class woman who wants the world to believe her of the upper crust, an impoverished gentlewoman, a husband and wife who are mismated, a young man who cannot make up his mind about his feelings toward the girl who loves him, and the boarding house keeper, a young, vital, attractive Jewess, her small and unpleasant daughter, and her husband, who is the victim of impassioned jealousy. As the book progresses the evidences of that insane jealousy become more and more evident, culminating in a grisly tragedy.

The general tenor of the book is not, however, tragic in the least, for the author has a sharpish sense of humor which illumines the pages. Here is a sample of it: In describing Miss Haymer, who was "fantastic and flamboyant," he says: "When she went out Miss Haymer . . . tottered along on heels that were rather too high, supporting, like some caryatid, a large, old-fashioned hat, decorated with a bird or two and some fruit, as in her hey-dey. . . . To look at her you would say that when she went to bed her toilet would be almost a dissolution . . . the removal of hat, wig, and shoes would at once take cubits off her stature; out would come teeth, off bracelets and stays, and, with the removal of that perennial velvet band, down would tumble a cascade of chins. Heaven alone knew what supports and safety pins, screws, straps, skewers, and stanchions might hold the old girl together. Perhaps she took all to pieces, like one of those ready made houses with every section numbered; perhaps after the arduous day she went all limp, and folded herself up and put herself away in a drawer, quietly going to bed in her bones."

Brown Jackets Worn with New Evening Pastels

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—As soon as a fashion, regardless of how attractive it is, ceases to be exclusive, ultra-chic Parisiennes avoid it like the plague. Since the epidemic of white and off-white dresses with bright colored velvet jackets swept Paris, the cream of French chic has been searching frantically for something new—and above all, different. Some smart women are wearing shoulder length black lace shawls, while a few others are wearing capes. White and ivory colored dresses are being deserted for other shades—even though these be the palest of pastels, like pale apricot, rose, and blue.

One of these new evening ensembles, both smart and different, is sketched today. It is from Vera Borea, the young Italian countess. The dress is in the palest tea rose color, in a soft, silky crêpe. A girdle in the same color starts from the back, wraps around the waist twice, and ties in a bow at the front. There are little jutting sleeves over the shoulders that are made in one with the bodice. The instep length skirt, which has a scalloped hem, has two bias bands which cross, surplicewise, below the waistline, both in the back and front. These bands descend into the skirt at the sides, gradually widening, giving it fullness.

Printed Hose Welcomed by Wise Shoppers

Black Heels Are Another Style Feature.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

YOU no longer go without an extra egg in the morning or plan to lunch daintily but savingly each noon in order that you may collect the necessary cash for silk stockings, but you do spend quite a large portion of your weekly wage for this very important ankle accent.

You can't convince any spending shopper that the hosiery business isn't a remarkably flourishing affair, and the hosiery collector with a yen for facts and figures can glibly shock any doubters with the average yearly amount of money the average gal spends for these filmy fancies.

Even though we can almost buy three pair of stockings for the one pair price paid three years ago, the problem of acquiring a plentiful supply of outwitting runs, of matching tints and shades and heels and toes, is still the great indoor recreation and usually the inevitable early morning start of either a perfect or dismally dull day.

There isn't much privacy in the public or home life of any pair of well mated socks . . . eagle eyed critics in public gleefully wait for the chance to whisper about zig-zag back seams, or to pounce on the devastating ruin of a run. At home the same pair have little leisure, they are either stretched, ready for the mending needle, or soaked in soapy liquid and then hung by the heels to spend the night in readiness for another hectic day on the pavements.

But we still wear them and buy them . . . new shades and new ideas are welcome as royally as ever. Hosiery designers, seemingly, never run out of ideas or poetic and fantastic names for their tints and colors.

You'll probably get quite excited over the new printed hose . . . clever new stockings that ought to be very successful and much in demand. They are just what they are named, a thin sheer chiffon, printed with two designs that ought to do lots for your pedal extremities. You will find them only in two shades, a taupe (and a good old fashioned taupe is being welcomed as a returned prodigal this fall) and a tan beige.

One printed pattern is an all over design, very small and precise, achieved with a diamond and dot effect. The other design is eye filling and a trifle audacious, but perfect for the slenderly right ankles. Nine dots in a shade or two lighter than the taupe or tan beige are printed in a vertical line as a cloc-ed pattern . . . and the tops of these cloc-ed stockings are printed bands of the same sized dots. This the new dotted line for stocking shoppers to watch!

The many fashionable ensembles will need the new metallic beige hosiery . . . a sheer chiffon hose of a dusty gold color contrasted with coal black heels. Black heels are deservedly popular, for one thing, you can mend them with black thread, which is always available, and because, no other shade can slim an ankle so effectively as black.

Taupe and beige stockings will be extremely good for fall dresses, and black heels are being featured in many other shades of street stockings. Wide open mesh hose are out of all fashionable pictures, the mesh stockings for fall and winter will be patterned after delicate small lace designs with emphasis on square and round mesh. The smartest and newest shades for hose are the brown tints, off blacks with a tinge of tan, beige with a decided brown cast, and a lovely brown beige.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

HERE is opera given in so spacious a manner that it entertains an audience about equal to ten capacity audiences of the Civic Opera house or the Auditorium. There was word that some 35,000 persons were present last night, and the statement was not hard to believe.

Down at the end of the field and facing the south curve of the stadium was the stage, simply, even severely decorated with a few pillars, a sphinx, one or two other items indicating Egypt. Below on the ground level was the orchestra. The audience was partly on the field, but mostly on the mountainous heights of the stadium.

Both stage and field came into play for the pageantry of the Triumph scene. Cast, chorus, ballet, and band were on the stage. Mounted horsemen galloped about in front of the audience and around the curve of the arena. Processions in costume crossed the stage and the ground level. Toward the end a group of horse and foot soldiers escorted two elephants and two camels, the four looking comically bored, but they were greeted with delighted applause from the audience.

Under the circumstances, open air, and vast open spaces, it was not to be expected that fine points of interpretation could be put across. No one should have expected them. Just the same, it was a great show in its marshaling of effects of sight and sound. The cast consisted of competent singers, not invariably exact on their cues, but workmanlike and at times brilliant.

The chorus, mostly from the Civic Opera company with the addition of the Mundy choristers as prisoners in the Triumph scene, sang like a collection of stars. The ballet, also from the Civic Opera company, was as good as it had ever been in the Civic Opera company and was applauded in kind. Conductor Creatore, the same Creatore who used to do marvels of showmanship with his own hand, knew the score thoroughly, kept up a brisk, stirring pace, and held his heterogeneous forces together with a firm hand.

There were a few accidents which were not blamed to the company. The wind blew down a pillar or two with a determination suggesting that the opera should have been "Samson and Delilah" and not "Aida." The wind, too, carried over the sound of a recital on the carillon of the Century of Progress during one of the softest scenes of the music, and unfortunately neither in tune nor time with the orchestra.

But altogether it was a highly entertaining evening and a complete and crushing answer to all those who have been maintaining that 1932 was not the year for opera.

Saleswoman Gives Tips on Using Perfumes

Let Alcohol Evaporate from Stopper.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You may be interested to know what goes on on the other side of the cosmetic counter. You go in to buy a perfume, say. You're on this side of the counter. You bring your nose, a few prejudices and a few preferences.

But that woman on the other side of the counter who knows her perfumes has been through a school of education you may never suspect. She knows, as one of her number tells it in a current monthly trade paper, that one should shake the perfume bottle thoroughly to be certain there are no minute drugs left at the bottom. Also, shaking this way, one moistens the glass base of the glass-top stopper. [Corks are not used in fine perfume, she tells.]

Now, having done this, one removes the stopper—but the smart saleslgirl does not place it to the caller's nostrils. Not yet. Instead, she sways the stopper back and forth in the air gently, almost majestically, one might say. This is so that the alcohol shall evaporate completely. Even a small quantity of alcohol left behind may cause an extra fine perfume to smell no better than a cheaper one. This alcohol is the reason for the charge one hears so often that "all perfumes smell alike."

Alcohol removed, waving the stopper puts the perfume really on the air. Now, out of the above advice intended for the women behind the counter, the woman on this side of it may take a tip. Should she buy a bottle in a hurry or be presented with perfume as a gift, she might follow the alcohol-removing process advised above.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Come on—let's make me a prophet! I predict that "70,000 Witnesses" will start a cycle of football mystery films.

Want to take me on?

Here is good, fast, suspenseful, surpriseful stuff with general and diversified appeal. The football fan gets his money's worth. The mystery hound finds rich, elusive scent to keep his excited nose to the ground. The piece has romance—else why, I ask you, is Dorothy Jordan in the cast? As for comedy—well, just leave that to good ol' Charlie Ruggles. When I tell you the picture is acted to the nines under smoothly efficient direction, you SHOULD feel that the Oriental's a pretty good place to park the anatomy this week.

The story? 70,000 witnesses see a famous gridiron star collapse on the football field after making a record breaking run. His death is almost immediate. An autopsy follows showing that decease was not due to natural causes; but there is no evidence as to the agent of destruction. And now pos-i-tive-ly, that's all I'm going to tell you about the story.

For the first time I sincerely liked Phillips Holmes. Something gratifying has been done about the sickliness of makeup which, I believe, has played a large part in the ineffectualness of his characterizations. His portrayal of the victim's best friend is a sincere and compelling one and, as a quarter back, he does NOT look like Little Eva. Others who please you immensely are Charles Ruggles as a newspaper scribe and radio announcer and—must it be said?—lover of the flowing cup; J. Farrell MacDonald as coach; Lew Cody as an unscrupulous financier of sorts; David Landau as the dark, still, determined Nemesis of the perpetrators of the crime, and Kenneth Thomson as the team doctor. Dorothy Jordan is sweet and able, and minor rôles are in good hands.

The solution of the mystery will make you inquire: "COULD that happen?" Well, I asked Dr. Evans and he allowed that, though the thread of possibility was slight, the thread was there.

See you tomorrow!

Ann Ashcraft Wedding Plans Are Announced

Name Attendants for Autumn Rites.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A LARGE retinue will precede Miss Ann Ashcraft when she advances to the altar of St. Mark's church in Evanston to become the bride of Raymond Otis Mitchell, on Saturday, Sept. 10. The ceremony at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon will be one of the prettiest of the fall nuptials, but it will be witnessed by only a small number of relatives and intimate friends.

A much larger crowd will have an opportunity to greet the bride and bridegroom and their attendants at a reception to be held a half hour later in the gardens of the Evanston residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr.

Eight young women and thirteen young men will march in the bridal procession. Of these all but four girls and four men are out of town friends, most of them classmates of Miss Ashcraft and Mr. Mitchell.

Miss Virginia Ashcraft will be her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft III. will be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will include Mrs. Lucy Hill Pickford of Boston, Miss Babetta d'Utassy of Cedarhurst, L. I.; Miss Sally Coburn of Greenwich, Miss Margaret Carrington of Newark, N. J.; Miss Jane Martin of Highland Park, and Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh of Chicago.

Vance McCaulley of New York will be Mr. Mitchell's best man. On the list of ushers are Joseph B. Terbell Jr. of New York; the bridegroom's brother, John L. Mitchell of St. Paul, Minn.; Paul J. Fitzpatrick of New York; W. Hubert Kennedy and John N. Lindeke of Minneapolis; Milton Knight of Toledo, O.; Howard L. O'Fallon Jr. of St. Louis; John W. Milton of St. Paul; John T. Abbott, Edwin M. Ashcraft III., Malcolm W. Stevenson and John H. Pierce of Chicago.

Mrs. Terbell Will Be Here.

Mrs. Terbell [Phoebe Logan] will accompany her husband, arriving this week in time for Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Logan's annual party to celebrate Mrs. Logan's birthday. Mrs. W. Hubert Kennedy, a sister of the bridegroom, and her small daughter, Mary, will accompany Mr. Kennedy. The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Mitchell of Minneapolis, will arrive on Sept. 8.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey gave a luncheon yesterday at her Lake Forest residence for Mrs. Henry B. Stimson of New York, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Hugh Johnston McBirney. More than a dozen friends of the former Isabelle McBirney were present.

A committee of Service club girls will be on hand today at the fall millinery opening of a downtown department store. The president, Mrs. Stanley Zaring; a former president, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr., and Mrs. John Dern will act as hostesses from 10 until 4 o'clock. Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh will head a group of models, including Mrs. Edwin H. Hagey, Mrs. Scott Dow, Mrs. Horton Conrad [Betty Knode], Mrs. Henry Sincere, Miss Grace Fitzmorris, Miss Alice Bremner, Miss Jane Willett, and Miss Lura Schreiner. In addition to showing perky present day modes, the girls will model some relics of the elegant '80s and '90s.

Mrs. Wentworth on World Trip.

Mrs. John Wentworth will depart today for a trip around the world with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Boalt of Minnesota. Their first stop will be Honolulu and from there they'll visit the orient. Mr. Wentworth plans to join his wife somewhere along the route and return with her in about three months.

Miss Frieda Foltz, who certainly isn't shirking her job of arousing interest in the Republican Labor day rally in Riverview park, has asked members of the committee to meet tomorrow evening at her residence. From there they will go to Riverview for dinner and for an inspection of the rides, games, and other attractions.

George L. Dickson will be host at the party with Miss Foltz and the guests will include Prince and Princess Rostislav, Miss Betty Scriven, Mr. and Mrs. Murray P. Brush, Miss Janet Fairbank, Miss Florence Noyes and her fiancé, George Senseney, Howard Raftery, Walter Frazier, and David Leavitt.

The Chicago charities, a nonpartisan group of which Evan Evans is chairman and Mrs. Joseph B. Long treasurer, will receive all of the proceeds of the rally.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham and their young son, Johnnie, will depart on Wednesday for their annual visit with the senior Mrs. Winterbotham at Franconia, N. H. Mrs. Winterbotham and Johnnie returned last Friday from a two months' holiday on a Wyoming ranch.

Frederick Countiss has asked all of his young friends to participate in a rodeo on Wednesday at Lake Geneva.

Miss Beatty and Brother Return.

Miss Veronese Beatty, her brother, Roslyn (better known as "Rusty") of Highland Park, and Jack Fortune returned on Thursday from a fortnight's visit with Miss Jane Fortune at her summer cottage at Roaring Brook, Mich. Other Highland Parkers at Roaring Brook are Mrs. Lucius Alvin Hine and her son, Lucius, who have summered there for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leland Cross and their daughter, Miss Virginia Cross of New York and Scarsdale, who have been at the Ambassador East for a few weeks, have moved into the William C. Whitcomb apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

The Crosses, who have many friends here, are to remain in Chicago for an indefinite stay. Virginia attended Miss

The Death Watch

By Edgar Wallace

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Dunn of Scotland Yard is in pursuit of a band of thieves who some years before had robbed the Canadian Bank of Commerce in London. The robbers spent nine years in jail for the theft, but the loot was never recovered. Peter's buddy, Inspector Sam Allerway, was dismissed in disgrace, accused of taking a bribe from the head thief, and killed himself. Peter, the only baronet in the service, kept right on working after he came into his title and fortune. It was his form of fun and he wanted to vindicate Allerway. The year after the robbers were released Peter, on a vacation, cruising on the Thames, recognizes a servant in a supposedly haunted house as one of the robbers. Peter stays to investigate. The house is owned by Mr. Hannay, and is one of two identical villas lying side by side. Hannay's has been improved, while the other is deserted and decayed. Neither Hannay nor his daughter, Pat, believes the ghost stories, but the servants leave one by one. Hannay invites Mr. Hersoff, a scientist living in the neighborhood, to be his guest. Pat, driving near her home, nearly collides with Peter's car.

INSTALLMENT VII.

A GHOST'S MAGIC.

"I don't want to know your name," Pat said haughtily.

"The first name is Peter—" he began.

"I'm thrilled," she said. "Will you please back your car?"

Peter's gesture was one of despair.

"May I make a confession? This is a new car, and I don't know how it works. I only know the self-starter and the brake."

She looked at him suspiciously.

"It doesn't sound true, does it? Well, it isn't. Before I back I want to ask you something, Miss Hannay, and first I want to apologize to you for giving you such a fright."

"If you imagine I'm frightened by a—" She hesitated for a word.

"Say it," he said gently. "Don't spare my feelings. 'Brute' was the word you were thinking of——"

Why, sir, who would have poisoned him? I was watching him.

"I wasn't," she said tartly and looked round.

But he was indifferent.

He paused inquiringly, and saw her start.

"What do you mean—ghosts?" she said, a little breathlessly. "What do you know?"

Peter shrugged his shoulders.

"I was in a boat the other night. One of your maids came flying down the hill, babbling of bogeys."

She did not reply, but just stared at him. And then:

"Will you let me go?" she asked.

He put his car into reverse and drew clear, and her machine jerked forward and went flying up Quarry hill. Peter followed at a more leisurely pace, but when he came to the open road at the top she was out of sight.

So that was the man . . . ? She was not quite sure of him. Usually she could place men, especially young men, but for the moment he eluded classification. He was not unpleasant, but she resented his assurance, which made her feel something of a fool, certainly a little on the inferior side.

As she came up the drive to Chesterford she saw a stranger standing by her father's side under the white portico, but she instantly recognized him by the description her father had given as the redoubtable Herzoff. Mr. Hannay introduced him.

"I'm afraid I'm taking advantage of your father's hospitality, Miss Hannay—I am the unexpected guest."

She smiled at this.

"Not altogether unexpected. We're glad to have you. I hope you won't die of indigestion, for the new cook will not be here for two or three days."

Apparently he had been on the point of leaving when she arrived. He was driving over to his hotel to collect his baggage. She thought that, if she had not known who he was, she would have placed him as a scientist. He was what a scientist should look like, she thought.

"It will be charming to have him, but why is he coming to stay with us just now?" she asked. "By the way, does he play tennis?"

Mr. Hannay shook his head.

"I'm afraid he doesn't. The fact is, he's rather keen to go into this ghost business."

She made a wry little face as she walked into the house.

"Does he know all about it, too?"

"Why 'too'?" asked Mr. Hannay with a frown, and she told him of her adventure.

"I don't know who this young man is, but apparently the fact that we are troubled with ghosts——"

"Don't say 'troubled with ghosts'," said Mr. Hannay irritably. "It sounds as though we were troubled with cockroaches."

"Who is he?" asked Mr. Hannay.

Patricia, peeling her gloves, sighed impatiently.

"I don't know, daddy—he's just a young man. And rather impertinent. No, I wouldn't say that—not impertinent. But he's a little unusual."

"Does he live about here?"

She changed the subject.

"What did you tell Mr. Herzoff?"

Hannay was rather vague. He had told him about the voices and the people talking and the death watch. . . .

"Did you tell him about the dog that was found dead on the lawn?" she asked quietly.

Mr. Hannay winced. That was the one subject that he did not discuss. He had bought a dog, a trained police dog, and it had died in most peculiar circumstances. Higgins, the new butler, had been the sole witness, and there was the dog, stiff on the lawn, to support the testimony.

Higgins came in at that moment, a melancholy looking man, with a weakness for taking away drinks that had not been drunk and tidying unnecessarily.

"You saw it, Higgins?"

"Yes, miss, I saw it. You were talking about the dog, sir? I don't want to see anything like it again."

"He might have been poisoned," growled Hannay.

Higgins shook his head sadly.

"Why, sir, who could have poisoned him? I was watching him. He walked out on to the lawn. I could see him plainly in the moonlight. And then I saw this woman in white come out of the trees, and she sort of lifted her hand. The old dog howled and just dropped."

"And the next minute, sir"—impressively—"I heard the death watch—right in my room where there isn't any panelling."

Largest Cast of Talkie Era Is Completed

BY ROSALIND SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 28.—The casting for "The Sign of the Cross" has been completed, the biggest job done in casting since the advent of talking pictures. De Mille will use seventy-five hundred extras in the course of the next two and a half months. This does not include artisans working on costumes, sets, and props for the mammoth story of Rome in the early A. D.'s.

From research, De Mille says it took a Roman lady two to three hours to have her hair dressed. It takes Claudette Colbert, as the Empress Poppæa, half a day to get her hair gilded, lacquered, and silvered into shape for her rôle.

In one scene in "The Sign of the Cross" De Mille himself is wielding the bow and arrow in an archery scene in which thirty Christian martyrs are to be shot. Though the men are to be protected with triple mail and horsehide, De Mille does not want to put the responsibility for any accidents on an assistant, so he is exercising his own skill as an archer, in which sport he is an enthusiast, and taking responsibility for any accident himself.

Bill Cowan, the director, was bowing and receiving compliments on the beauty of his baby daughter, child of Lenore Coffee, who is a swell looking girl herself.

Bill made some crack in German in answer to the admiring comments about his daughter. Decoded, it meant, "Well, an apple does not fall far from the tree," and offered to bring some stunning baby photographs of himself to prove his assertion that the baby daughter looks like he did "at that age."

Hawthorne Garden Club Holds Annual Flower Exhibition

Members of the Hawthorne Flower and Garden club, composed of employés of the Western Electric company, held their annual fall flower and garden show yesterday in the Garfield park conservatory. There were 1,245 exhibits of cut flowers and potted plants, and several thousand spectators visited the show. K. N. Knapp of La Grange won the sweepstakes prize with a giant dahlia.

The annual fall flower show of employés of the Commonwealth Edison company, People's Gas, Light and Coke company and Public Service company of Northern Illinois will be held today and tomorrow. The show, in the Edison building, 72 West Adams street, opens at 1 o'clock today and is open to the public.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Capt. The Hon. Edmund Hugh Clifford, governor of the Bahamas, and his aid, Lieutenant Commander Edward Edmonstone, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Leary Jr. over Sunday.

Miss Emma Thorne, who has been in Lenox for the summer, will return home Sept. 7.

Mrs. Lewis A. Park and Miss Laura S. Evans have left the Pierre for Sewickley, Pa.

Swiss Chard Provides Two Distinct Dishes

If you have a leaning toward spinach but find it a bit aggressively tangy—and if you like celery but grow a bit weary of it always appearing in the same familiar guises—then the perfect answer to your culinary difficulties is—chard.

This interesting green vegetable combines all the best features of spinach and celery and yet has a little milder and, to many, a more tempting flavor than either. The chard heads, each made up of dark green leaves and a thick, white midrib, have the advantage of coming on to the market relatively free from sand and soil, which does away with the endless washing required by most greens. From the nutritional slant also chard can speak for itself. It contains somewhat less iron than in spinach, but more of the bone building calcium and varying amounts of all the vitamins, especially A, anti-infection vitamin.

The cooking of chard is easy, too, and because the midrib generally is cooked separately from the leaf, two distinct dishes may be conjured from one crisp batch of chard. For the simplest preparation simply cut off the root, which releases the leaves. Wash these as carefully as you would lettuce leaves. Discard the wilted or dead ones, and strip off the good leaves from the midrib. The leaves may be cooked until just tender [10 to 15 minutes] in an open kettle with very little water. Season to taste with salt, pepper, butter and vinegar if desired. The midribs require longer cooking and may be braised or boiled and served as asparagus stalks are in a cold salad. This last hint is too good to pass up, so here's a recipe for your files as a starter for chard specials:

¼ teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
2 medium sized bunches chard.

Strip the leaves from the midribs of the chard, putting them aside for cooked greens. Plunge the midribs into boiling salted water and blanch five minutes. Drain out the ribs and place in a casserole with the butter, which has been slightly browned. Season with salt and pepper and bake covered in a slow oven [300 degrees F.].

SWISS CHARD IN RAMEKINS.

This recipe gives a delicious way to use the chard leaves stripped from the midribs. Cook the leaves as directed and season to taste with salt, pepper and butter. Press the greens into ramekins, filling only 2-3 full, and on top of each break an egg. Season again, dot with butter and sprinkle with a grated peppy cheese. Place the ramekins in a shallow pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] until the eggs are set.

CHARD AND SALT PORK.

A delightful flavor combination may be managed by the addition of ½ cup cubed salt pork to the shredded leaves of two bunches of chard which have been cleaned and stripped from the midribs. Add one medium sized onion sliced thin and cook only until the onions and pork are tender. Turn into a hot serving dish and garnish with slices of hot, hard cooked egg.

SWISS CHARD SALAD.

Strip the leaves from the midribs of one to two bunches of chard and cook the ribs as directed above. Chill and arrange four ribs per serving on lettuce or endive leaves. Pour a tart French dressing over each and serve well chilled.

Young Man Tells Why He Avoids Girls' Parents

Take Him Too Seriously, He Complains.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Remember, the other day, we asked why young men avoid meeting the parents of girls they appear to like? Well, the young men have answered.

"Allow me, a young man of 23," says W. L. S., "to express my opinions along the subject of boys 18 to 22 and 23 not wanting to meet the folks.

"There are many types of boys—therefore, there are many reasons why they avoid meeting parents. If a boy is bashful, he will probably fight to evade meeting anybody at all. Many boys are self-conscious. Some have a fear that they might not be liked because of a difference in nationality or because they are of a different religious sect. Many boys feel a friendship would be looked upon as more serious and they may not think enough of the girl to want her parents to believe they are serious.

"Boys who haven't the best intentions toward a girl will not want to meet her people.

"I have met families where there was a wisecracker of the matchmaking type who passes remarks that are embarrassing.

"But as far as objecting to meeting a girl's parents because there would be no privacy—that is hokum. Fellows aren't always thinking of privacy with the girl. The main cause, I think, is that a fellow does not want to lead a girl on so far as to meet her parents, causing the latter to believe that their daughter has finally met a boy she expects to marry."

Another young man, "Frank," avoids the girls' invitation for the same reason of future-son-in-law adoption in her parents' manner. The girl, "Frank" volunteers, may forget you and any romantic incident in connection with you—but her parents will not. He has known parents to say: "O, that fellow! He's nothing but a trifler. He goes out with every girl."

Because parents of the girl may extract a few hints from the reasons given by young men for avoiding the home site, tomorrow I shall present another communication or two on the subject.

Farewell Party Guests to Enjoy Thrilling Movie

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Was your name in that list of lucky boys and girls scheduled to attend our farewell party of the season? If so, there's a big day in store for you, one filled with thrills, excitement and fun. Yes, all of these are contained in that unique mystery picture, "70,000 Witnesses," which we will see on Thursday.

The picture certainly boasts something new in plots and that's saying a great deal when you think of how many mystery stories and mystery movies have flooded the country in the last year or so. Here the murder is committed on the gridiron and the victim, a star half back, meets his fate as he is about to make a touchdown. The business of discovering the culprit takes you through some mighty thrilling situations.

There's a stage show there, too, which is a grand variety of song and dance and comedy. The lucky hundred will receive their invitations in a day or two.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Nellie Katherine Perry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oren Perry of Pleasanton, Kas., to Walter E. Roth, son of Mrs. Augusta Roth of Oak Park, was solemnized last Saturday afternoon at the Fourth Presbyterian church. The ceremony was followed by a dinner and reception at the Drake hotel. The bride is a graduate of Drury college and received a master's degree from the University of Wisconsin. After a honeymoon at Lawsonia, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Roth will reside at 431 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park.

Ann Ashcraft Wedding Plans Are Announced

Bennett's finishing school at Millbrook on the Hudson and is looking forward to renewing her acquaintance with Chicago schoolmates. She was to have been one of the season's debutantes in New York.

Mrs. John MacGregor and her young son and daughter have returned to their residence in Winnipeg after a month's stay with Mrs. MacGregor's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Barker of Highland Park. They came from Canada as soon as they got word a month ago of the terrible motor accident in which the popular Barker boys, Robert and William, almost lost their lives.

Mrs. MacGregor brought a family nurse with her to care for the boys when they were brought home from St. Francis hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell will return tomorrow from a fortnight's vacation on a ranch in Wyoming. Their daughter, Miss Barbara Wendell, has been visiting her relatives in the east all summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rowe were week-end guests of the Charles R. Cranes at their summer place in Lake Geneva. Broward Hall visited Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Finney at the same resort over the week-end.

Miss Elizabeth Claire Rowe, who is spending the summer in Osterville, Mass., will go to New York in the early autumn and will not return to Chicago until the Christmas holidays.

Tennis Meet at Sacred Heart.

The athletic committee of the Alumnae of the Convent of the Sacred Heart is sponsoring a ten day tennis tournament which will close on Wednesday with the presentation of the winner's cup on the convent courts at 6250 Sheridan road.

Among the young amateur players who have been taking part are Mrs. A. Frank Cuneo, Miss Virginia and Miss Margaret Amberg, Miss Josephine and Miss Nancy Bremner, Miss Marion and Miss Gertrude Barrett, Miss Janeanne and Miss Rosalie Smyth, Miss Louise Clark, Miss Janet Kimball, Miss Jane McKinley, Miss Marion Randolph, and Miss Mary Louise Berryhill.

At the request of members of the alumnae, small boys will be received this year in the first and second grades of the convent, which, like its sister institutions in the United States and Europe, has hitherto been devoted only to the education of girls and young women.

Episcopal Rector Given Leave to Study Music

Leave of absence for one year has been granted to the Rev. Henry S. Rubel, rector of St. Michael's and All Angel's Episcopal church, Berwyn, by Bishop George Craig Stewart, it was announced yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Rubel, who is known as a successful song writer, will go to New York where he will devote his leave to study and writing. Mrs. Rubel, the former Dorothy Deuel, known on Broadway as a dancer, has been conducting dancing classes in the Berwyn parish house for the benefit of the church.

THE STAGE

"The World Between," a drama by Fritz Blocki, Chicago newspaper writer, will be the first offering of the season at the Adelphi theater, opening Sept. 18. Earlier reports of this production, which will be sponsored by Blocki himself, R. G. Lydy, and Ben Bernie, have mentioned the Selwyn theater as the scene of the engagement. However, Ralph T. Kettering, manager of the Adelphi, signed a contract with Blocki and his associates last Friday.

The cast will include De Wolf Hopper, Frank Shannon, Sally Rand, Elizabeth Day, and David Scott. The stage direction will be in charge of David Itkin. "The World Between" was acted by amateurs under the auspices of De Paul university last spring. After that experimental production Blocki subjected his manuscript to a thorough rewriting. The play is a fantasy with a strong supernatural element in its story.

Cornelia Otis Skinner will begin her American appearances in her new program of character sketches, which bears the title of "Incidents in the Career of Empress Eugénie," at the Casino theater, Newport, R. I., tomorrow. The entertainment was received in London last spring as an effective sequel to Miss Skinner's "Wives of Henry VIII."

Two new plays by John Drinkwater, author of "Abraham Lincoln," "Bird in Hand," and other plays that have had international success, are scheduled for early staging in London. The first is "All Clear," a melodrama, the action of which take place between the dinner hour and midnight. The second is a comedy of manners called "Laying the Devil." C. C.

Wise Parents Don't Brandish the Word 'Coward'

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Don't brandish the word coward about too freely, if you have boys. Remember that fear and cowards are not synonymous. Remember that fearlessness and bravery are not synonymous, either.

Remember, too, that a boy who feels fear and has not yet learned to overcome it doesn't enjoy the experience of being afraid. I keep saying "boy" in these admonitions because parents, especially fathers, are more apt to expect bravery of their sons than of their daughters. Bear in mind, too, that there are as many kinds of bravery as there are fear.

There's the bravery that makes a boy who fears the dark go down into the cellar to attend the furnace, trembling in his boots all the while. There's the bravery that makes a boy fight a bigger boy to protect his smaller brother or his beloved dog. And there's the bravery that makes a boy who fears pain and feels it keenly, who hates and dreads ether, face the need of an operation and walk quietly to the operating table and climb up on it.

Each one of these boys may be brave in each of these ways and not so brave in another.

Many a boy has cringed under the epithet cowardly who didn't deserve it. And many a boy has been rewarded with the word brave or preened himself under the name of hero who didn't deserve it, in the sense that we mean today.

Study your children. Help them to get rid of their fears, or if they can't, to conquer or ignore them. And don't, brandish the word "coward" about.

CUBS WIN TENTH IN ROW, 5-4; LEAD BY 8 GAMES

DEPRESSION MAY MAKE BASEBALL A SPORT AGAIN

Boys'll Be Glad to Play for Fun.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—The collapse of some of the minor leagues of the baseball industry is to be deplored, of course, as tending to debase the American standard of living in that department, but there may be some artistic consolation in the fact that this will tend to de-industrialize the national game. Ball players will play ball regardless of the inability of magnates to pay them wages and if the industry disintegrates there will still be ball games.

Not all the players can be accommodated with jobs racking pool balls in pool halls, or 'tending the gasoline pumps at roadside filling stations and, if the worst comes, those who are ball players by nature undoubtedly will be found banding together and roving the country in the manner of the old fashioned American répertoire show.

So They Unionized.

The actors of those days did not require million dollar temples in which to beat their chests and agitate their eyebrows in the recitation of the soliloquy, but were prepared to do their stuff in town halls, lodge halls, and barns and even in Kansas. Old time actors insist that the drama was indeed an art then, which is an implied criticism of the industrial and corporate era of the stage in which the producers formed trusts and the actors, under the guidance of practical men, made a corresponding admission that art was labor and established a trade union.

The old fashioned actor was proud of his proteanism which made him feel equally at home as little Eva, as the off stage sounds of the hound pack and as the melancholy Dane. In the industrial phase of the drama he found himself assigned a type and, though the material rewards of his art had been small and uncertain when he was called upon to play a variety of characters, he did not have to lay off during long intervals of waiting for some author to write a character into a new show which called for his particular height and gait and his particular kind of nose.

Keepers Even Get Errors.

The ball players also found themselves placed under artistic restraints as the game developed into an industry. As to physical comfort they were much better off under the management of the baseball industry which is the most tyrannical trust of all because it is alone in its field. The magnates provided luxurious hotel and railroad accommodations and gave them dressing quarters comparable to those of an expensive suburban golf club, all in addition to conditions of labor which were close to the ideal.

The grounds were laid out by engineers, executed by landscape gardeners and maintained by expert field hands who spend many hours of loving toil on their hands and knees removing dandelions and little pebbles so that the baseballs would not take erratic hops to embarrass the athletes. In fact, so smooth were the ballyards in the major leagues that when a ball did take a mischievous bounce over the head of the then verdant recruit, Fred Lindstrom, in a world series game between the Senators and the Giants in 1924, the incident became historic as an error for the keeper of the greens.

It Made for Silly Ideas.

But though they performed under very pleasant physical conditions, the ball players, like the actors, gradually lost their versatility and thus much of their art. They became specialized laborers assigned to certain limited tasks. The pitchers fell into a routine of one day's work and four days rest and it was tacitly acknowledged that a pitcher should not be required to hit but only to go through the most perfunctory motions of taking a turn at bat.

The other players were divided into four types—the infielders, outfielders, first basemen, and catchers—and two of these types were further divided into subtypes. The outfield was too broad a territory for the average outfielder so he became a superspecialist. He was a left fielder, a right fielder, or a center fielder.

The infielders became third basemen, shortstops or second basemen, so set in their ways and fixed in their types that if a second baseman was switched to shortstop, this move was deemed to be a daring experiment on the part of the maser mind in charge. If an infielder was moved to the outfield, or vice versa, that was important news and a legitimate subject for much reminiscent and reflective writing. It was as though a steamfitter had been called upon to make a watch with the tools of the plastering trade.

They Are Specialists.

The first basemen, most of them left handers, and the catchers, were not asked to essay other roles in the ball game, but players of all types were liable to a further restriction as to their preference for right hand or left hand pitching, like a midnight train on a suburban line, which is listed with a typographical jim-dash or lollypop meaning "does not run on Wednesday." The athlete in organized baseball was likely to find an asterisk or gee-whiz mark opposite his name meaning "does not hit against southpaws."

Due to the depression, many union

SCORE 2 RUNS IN NINTH INNING TO BEAT GIANTS

Cuyler and Hogan Hit Homers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The irrepressible Cubs, after seven days of routine winning, yesterday resumed their ninth inning thriller technique to defeat the seventh place New York Giants, 5 to 4. The Cubs went into the last inning in need of a run to tie and two to win, and they hammered in the pair which brought their victory string to 10 straight and 13 out of 14 since returning to Wrigley field from their eastern trip.

Yesterday's triumph tested the mettle of the Chicagoans perhaps more than any of their recent whirlwind finishes, for in the Giants' half of the ninth, with the Cubs leading, 3 to 1, Billy Herman had gummed up a potential game ending double play to leave two men on base. Then Frankie Hogan followed the mixup with a homer into the center field stand and the score was New York, 4; Chicago, 3, going into the last of the inning.

Koenig Starts Rally.

Hemsley was out on a grounder to Vergez to start the Cubs' ninth, but Koenig lined a single into right. Gudat, batting for Pat Malone, singled to right and Koenig dashed to third. Gibson relieved Luque and Herman fell to the ground dodging his first pitch. Billy got up and doubled to right on the next pitch, scoring Koenig with the tying run and putting Gudat on third. Woody English was given an intentional pass, filling the bases.

Gibson also dusted off Cuyler and Ki claimed he had been hit, becoming so intense that he started to disrobe to show Umpire Beans Reardon the bruise. Beans, however, told him to keep his shirt on and the game resumed. Cuyler then sent a short fly to Ott and Gudat raced home with the winning run as Ott made a panicky throw to the general vicinity of the plate.

The win, the third straight over the Giants and the eleventh taken from the Gotham team in 16 games played this year, increased the Cubs' lead to eight games over the idle Pittsburgh Pirates, who went into second place while the Brooklyn Dodgers were losing two games to the St. Louis Cardinals. The day's gain was one-half a game over the Pirates and one and one-half games over the tottering Dodgers, who now are 8½ games behind the Cubs.

No Game Scheduled Today.

Today is an open date. The Cubs and Giants will wind up the series tomorrow and Wednesday with single games.

The contest was viewed by more than 20,000 persons, a rather remarkable turnout considering the downpour of rain during the entire morning and the threatening weather which prevailed almost to game time, which was delayed to 3:15 o'clock to give the groundkeepers a chance to get the acreage in order.

The score up to the eighth was 2 to 1 in favor of the Cubs and all three of the runs were predicated on lucky breaks. In the third Herman scratched a single over Bell's head, stopped at third on English's double, and the pair came home when Cuyler's grounder took a crazy hop over Critz's head. In the fourth the Giants got a lucky run, Joe Moore scoring after getting on first on a single, which bounced over Malone's head, taking third on a bona fide single by Ott, and coming home on a force play.

Cuyler Hits Homer.

The first untarnished run was a homer which Cuyler knocked over the left field wall on Luque's first pitch. Luque had relieved Bell to start the eighth. Thus did the score become 3 to 1 in favor of the Cubs, going into the ninth.

Koenig threw out Joe Moore. Then Ott singled to right to start the Giants' ninth inning uprising. Terry grounded to Herman, who attempted to tag Ott as the first step in a double play. Ott, however, back pedalled and Herman gave up on the idea of getting Ott and threw to Grimm on first, but too late to get Terry. Ott in the meantime went en to second. The play was scored simply as a fielder's choice, no one getting an error and Terry, of course, being denied a hit.

The episode obviously grieved Malone and in his grief he slammed a pretty one up to Hogan, which Frankie promptly drove over the screen in front of the left center field stand. Marshall lined to Herman and Vergez was thrown out by E. English to end what seemed to be such a sad, sad session. Then the Cubs stepped out in the fashion heretofore related.

Malone 300 Pitcher Again.

Malone, though he gave way to the functioning Gudat in the happy ending tableau, was credited with his 13th win of the year and once more became a .300 pitcher, after having sagged two games under that 60-60 status.

The first threat of the game was developed by Lindstrom in the first inning. He doubled along the left field line with one down and went to third while Herman was throwing out Joe Moore. Then Grimm paddled through the mud to get Ott's foul fly.

In the third the Cubs, attended by Allah, scored two runs, getting all production under way after two were out. After Koenig and Malone had been retired, Herman bounced a single over Bell's head and stopped at third on English's double to left. Cuyler

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

It was a cinch to happen the way it did. I mean the Cubs practically clinching the National league pennant.

There seems to be no good reason for concealing the facts any longer. The Cubs won the pennant early in April, about three days before the start of the season. It was all over as soon as the members of the Baseball Writers' association voted that the Cubs had no chance to win.

The Associated Press last spring conducted a poll among the writers, and the Cubs by popular ballot were given third place. About 70 experts participated.

Out of that number only three predicted Chicago would finish in first place. Five awarded the Cubs second place, while 41 tucked them away in third. Three relegated them to the second division. This is the way the votes were recorded.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8
St. Louis	48	16	3	0	0	0	0	0
New York	15	44	7	1	0	0	0	0
Brooklyn	0	1	14	34	11	2	3	2
Pittsburgh	0	0	1	10	32	10	7	7
Philadelphia	1	0	1	0	10	9	25	15
Cincinnati	0	1	0	0	7	20	20	19
Boston	0	0	0	1	0	25	12	24

Well, as I said, it was a cinch that the Cubs would win after all that.

Offhand, some unthinking persons may believe these gentlemen of the press know nothing about baseball, but, of course, nothing could be further from the facts.

Among the boys who picked the Cubs to finish third were some Chicago writers. With a courage and fortitude that a Spartan would envy they have suffered in silence. If they had their way the truth would never be known. They are willing to stand on their selections and let the chips fall where they may.

But there is such a thing as smacking innocent men around too much, and in the interest of fair play I decided to set the boys right. They have been pulling for the Cubs all the time. And they knew there was no better way to clinch victory than to pick them to lose.

It took courage to oust a manager in midseason, especially when the club was in second place and rolling along as well as most of its followers believed it could.

Veeck was the man who put Charley Grimm in charge. And if Grimm were not in charge, where would the Cubs be today?

Just one guess.

The Illinois athletic commission, which supervises professional boxing in this state, is now investigating the status of amateur glove men. While the commission has stepped out of its sphere, it is hoped that its efforts will help to clear up a condition that threatens the prosperity of the sport.

Due principally to the Golden Gloves tournaments, amateur boxing thrives in Chicago as nowhere else in the United States. A crowd of 45,000 attended the international bouts between Germany and Chicago at Soldiers' field. Hundreds of young men who would still be working in obscurity have become widely known because of their participation in THE TRIBUNE'S meets.

When this newspaper put on its first tournament there was no amateur boxing to speak of in the metropolitan district. Now there are thousands of contestants and almost as many promoters. Most of these promoters are in the game to make a livelihood, not to develop interest in amateur sport.

The Amateur Athletic union within the last year has suspended 400 boxers for violations of the amateur code. Unfortunately it has no police powers to deal with the promoters. The athletic commission, on the other hand, has no jurisdiction over amateur boxing.

There will be no real progress unless the two organizations work hand in hand.

Mrs. Stanley Hack Wins Two Titles in Michigan

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Jay Cohn, Santa Monica, Cal., made a sweep of the singles competition today by defeating E. Lejeck, Chicago, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5, to win the men's title in the Michigan open tennis championships. Mrs. Dorothy Hack, Chicago, wife of the Cub third baseman, won the women's singles by defeating Catherine Wolf, Elkhart, Ind., 6-3, 7-5. Then she paired with Jack Harris, also of Chicago, to defeat the Chicago team of Louise Hofmeister and Leo Lejeck, 6-0, 6-1 and win the mixed doubles championship.

LYONS DEFEATS YANKS, 5-2, AND HITS HOME RUN

Sox Lose Second, 11-5; Ruth Gets Nos. 38, 39.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Ted Lyons was a pitching master today, not to mention him as the manufacturer of a home run, and the first place Yankees, who dearly love to hit, lost to the White Sox, 5 to 2, in the first game of a double header. Then the New Yorkers resumed their journey toward Pennantville. They hit as they never intended to quit and the White Sox were buried under the barrage, 11 to 5, before 31,000.

In turning out his masterpiece, which furnished the Chicagoans with their only triumph of the year in the Yankee stadium, Lyons allowed only five hits. For six innings he stood off the sluggers so stylishly that only two of them singled, and there were visions of a shutout for the team that thus far this season has dodged that embarrassment.

That added glory for the boy from Vinton, La., vanished in the seventh, and to make it doubly sure Babe Ruth came up with his 38th home run in the ninth. More was to be heard from the Babe later in the day.

Gaston Can't Last.

For a few fleeting moments in the second game it appeared as if Milt Gaston might duplicate Lyons' feat and that the Sox would dispose of Danny MacFayden as they had George Pipgras. Gaston started impressively and after his mates had profited by some bargains, went into the home fifth with a lead of 4 to 1. But Ruth promptly tied it up by hitting homer No. 39 with two on bases. Then Gaston was blown to pieces in the sixth and before the finish was reached a couple of other luckless fellows felt the sting of the Yankee bats.

FIRST GAME

Funk and Seeds handled the little matter of a run that started the Sox on the right foot in the opening inning. Funk doubled to right, went to third on Hayes' out, and crossed the plate when Seeds singled into left. Seeds was thrown out in an attempted steal and Sullivan tapped to the pitcher for the third out.

Appling made it 2 to 0 in the second. He led off with a triple to right center and scored while Lazzeri was throwing out Selph. Lyon's turn came next. He drove his homer into the right field bleacher to give himself a comfortable 3 to 0 lead.

Pipgras Saves His Head.

By resorting to such parlor-like tactics as almost knocking Pipgras' head off his shoulders, Sullivan was able to furnish his mates with a two run feast in the seventh. Grube started the inning with a hit through short and Lyons' sacrificed. Funk popped out, whereupon Pipgras lost his bearings. He walked Hayes and Seeds, filling the bases. Sullivan then turned loose a low whistling liner that sent Pipgras diving into the dust as a matter of self-protection. The ball shot into center field for a single, Grube and Hayes scoring. Appling filed to Ruth for the third out.

Lyons' dream of a shutout began to fade when Sewell walked and Ruth singled through short to open the seventh. Ted tightened up long enough to strike out Gehrig, but Lazzeri followed with a single to left, Sewell scoring. Dickey then grounded into a force play, and Chapman hoisted to Funk. After this, there was only one hit, that being home run No. 38 which Ruth slapped into the seats in left to start the ninth.

SECOND GAME

The Yanks waited until the second inning of the second game before getting down to business. Gehrig lined a single to right and Lazzeri did the same, but made the mistake of trying to go to second. Kress' throw to Appling nailed him. Gehrig, who stopped at third on the hit, scored on Chapman's grounder to Hayes.

The Sox climbed back to a tie in the fourth when Hayes, after walking, scored on a single by Seeds and Appling's fly to Chapman.

Grid Practice to Start Today for Cardinals

The Chicago Cardinals professional football team will hold its first practice of the season this morning at Mills stadium. For the last two months Dr. David Jones, owner of the Cardinals, has been working with Coach Jack Chevigny in an effort to round up new material and they are confident they have the strongest squad that has ever opened the training season for the club.

Risk and Prentice of Purdue, the former a quarter back and the latter a guard, as well as Moynihan and Nash, ex-Notre Dame centers, are expected to prove valuable additions to the roster. Other newcomers to the pro game to report are Wendt, Marquette, guard; Crakes, South Dakota, end; Martin, Illinois State Teachers, and Simas, St. Mary's [Cal.], quarter backs; Culver, Doane, and Stennett, St. Mary's [Cal.], half backs, and Schwartz, Washington, full back.

Ernie Nevers will be among those missing but the veterans who are listed for another season are McNally and Erickson, centers; Tinsley, Steinback and Williams, tackles; Kiesling and Handler, guards; Creighton and Rogge, ends, and Rose, Holmer, Hill, Malloy, Belding and McLain, backs.

RACING DRIVER KILLED AS CAR LEAVES TRACK

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Edward Leeper, 25 years old of Indianapolis, was instantly killed this afternoon when his car plunged off the Jungle Park race track, five miles north of Rockville, while it was being warmed up for the 50 mile feature race of the afternoon program. Leeper's car was the only one on the track at the time of the accident.

TWO DIE IN CRASH.

Woodbridge, N. J., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Frank Farmer and Bill Neapolitan, Philadelphia drivers, were killed today in the second five mile qualifying heat of the season's first automobile racing program here. Farmer was trailing Neapolitan and crashed into his car when he attempted to pass on the inside.

MICHELSON WINS BOSTON OLYMPIC CLUB MARATHON

Salem, N. H., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Albert [Whitney] Michelson of New York, member of the American Olympic team, today won the Boston Olympic club's marathon race from a brilliant field on the Rockingham Park mile track. The veteran crossed the line leading John Semple of Lynn, Mass., by three quarters of a mile.

Michelson, after the first mile, was never worse than third. He took the lead on the 13th lap, lost it to Semple, and then overtook the Lynn runner during the 23d mile. His time, was 2 hours 50 minutes 19 seconds, almost 20 minutes slower than that made by Juan Zabala when the Argentine captured the Olympic marathon championship.

Zabala, who announced his intentions of trying for all of the records from eight to 12 miles, led the field on its first dozen turns about the track. Although he was a lap ahead, he withdrew at that point.

Cubs Can Lose Every Series and Still Capture Pennant

The Cubs have 30 more games to play—13 at home and 17 on the road. The home games include two more with the seventh place Giants, four with the fifth place Cardinals, five with the second place Pirates, and two with the last place Reds.

The games abroad include four with the sixth place Braves, four with the Giants, three with the third place Dodgers, three with the fourth place Phillies, and three with the Reds.

In the season series to date the Cubs are ahead of every team in the league except the Pirates and the Cardinals. The Pirates have beaten them 10 times in 18 games. The Cubs and Cards are tied at nine all. The other season series stack up as follows:

Cubs	10	Dodgers	9
Cubs	9	Reds	8
Cubs	11	Giants	5
Cubs	12	Braves	5
Cubs	14	Phillies	5

It is apparent from the foregoing that the Cubs will have the Phillies, the Braves, and the Giants to thank if they win the pennant. They have beaten these teams 37 games as compared with 15 defeats. In the remainder of their schedule the Cubs will meet these three teams, hitherto pushovers, in 11 of the 17 games of their coming eastern trip.

The Cubs have six more games before that start on their last road trip. In view of the fact that they won 10 straight and 13 out of 14 so far at home, it is reasonable to suppose they will take one of the two remaining games with the Giants and two of the four with the Cardinals. In that event their standing when they depart on the road trip will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	76	54	.585

Their first stop is at Cincinnati, the tailend team which they have defeated nine games in 17. Certainly they can expect a split with the Reds in Cincinnati on Labor day. In that event the Cub standing on their departure for a four game series in three days in Boston will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	77	55	.583

They have beaten Boston 12 out of 17, but taking a pessimistic view, let us assume they split the double header and lose the two singles in Boston. Then the standing will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	78	56	.574

On to New York. Again they split the double header and lose the other two. Then the standing will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	79	61	.564

They are pretty mad when they lose 2 out of 3 in Brooklyn and two out of three in Philadelphia, assuming of course, that they do lose them, but they end the eastern trip, stop off in Cincinnati for one game, and lose, and then come back to Wrigley field with the following standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	81	68	.544

Now it's time to give the poor Cubs a break. Back home they take three out of five with the Pirates and the two last games of the season from the Reds. Then they will wind up the season with the following standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	86	68	.558

Now, then, to tie this mark the Pirates will have had to win 20 while losing 8 and the Dodgers will have had to win 19 while losing 6—all this, mind you, with the Cubs losing every remaining series on the road and dropping five of their 13 remaining home games.

And still you hear fainthearted Cub fans worrying about the rigors of their heroes' remaining 30 games!

DODGERS SLIDE INTO 3D PLACE; CARDS WIN TWO

St. Louis Takes First, 4-1; Second, 6-4.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The eccentric Dizzy Dean, who recently asked to be used in more games and was granted his request, pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to victory for the third time in five days in the second game of today's double header with Brooklyn. The Cards won, 6 to 4, after Paul Derringer captured the first for St. Louis, 4 to 1.

The double defeat sent the Dodgers into third place in the National league race, a half game behind the idle Pittsburgh Pirates, while the world champions passed up the Boston Braves, also idle, and went into a virtual tie with Philadelphia in fourth position.

TIGERS BEAT SENATORS, 15-7.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—(AP)—After losing three straight games, the Detroit Tigers turned a furious batting barrage on the Washington Senators today and won the final game of the series, 15 to 7.

The Tigers pounded three Washington pitchers for 21 hits and were never in danger after the fourth inning during which they made six runs.

Giants Score a Run.

Joe Moore opened the Giants' fourth with a high bouncer over Malone's head which he beat out for a single. Ott singled to center, sending Moore to third, whence he scored while Terry was forcing Ott, Koenig to Herman. English threw out Hogan and Malone tossed out Marshall.

Things then were quite peaceful until Cuyler got his No. 6 homer—his second in two days—to launch the eighth inning.

TENNES PILOTS OUTBOARD TO 2 SPEED TROPHIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lake Mills, Wis., Aug. 28.—Seven state outboard motor boat racing championships were decided here today and while Horace Tennes, 19 year old Loyola university student from Chicago, failed to win a title, he scored two triumphs that won the Koessler and Wellman trophies. Tennes, who qualified to compete in the Wisconsin title events by maintaining a summer residence at Eagle River, turned in a time of 9:15 in the eight mile open event for the Koessler cup and 5:38 for the second fastest five miles of the day for the Wellman award.

SPRINGTIME IS VICTOR IN EIGHT MILE BUOY RACE

The sloop Springtime raced through a rain and a hard southeastern wind to establish the best elapsed time for the eight mile buoy race off Belmont harbor yesterday. Its time was two hours, 28 minutes. The race to the buoy and back is a 16 mile haul. No other sloops competed in the race.

Jonnie won the Universal time prize. Other starters in this class finished as follows: Ariel, Aquila, Falcon, Orn, Altair and The Hope. In the cruising division the schooner Bagheera finished first ahead of the Privateer, Nira, The Comet and Velma. Freedom did not finish the race.

The Aquila won the Eagle class competition with the Falcon second and Oran third. Altair was fourth in the division.

Schmeling Begins Training Today at Speculator, N. Y.

New York, Aug. 28.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling leaves tomorrow for Speculator, N. Y., to begin training for his Mickey Walker bout. If the weather is good he'll get away by seaplane, if bad he'll take the train. The plane trip is less than two hours. Sparring partners preceded him today when Chester Matan, Lou Barbar, Joe Bangvic and Jack Shaw left for camp.

CROWD PREVENTS WOOD'S TEST OF MISS AMERICA X.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Gar Wood, American defender of the Harmsworth trophy, attempted to demonstrate his Miss America X. over the old Harmsworth course today, but a plethora of small craft on the river made speed impossible.

Principal interest had centered on whether Wood's giant hydroplane could take the turns as well as Miss England III., whose maneuverability at high speed has been demonstrated several times recently by Kaye Don, the British challenger.

Fearful of setting up a backwash that would menace the scores of boatsmen on the river, Wood slowed down for each turn. Traffic officers estimated that 150,000 persons watched today's exhibition. There was no estimate of the number who visited Wood's home, Grayhaven, where Miss America X. was on view during the day. There was a steady stream of visitors from 6 a. m. until nightfall.

JACK SHARKEY TO SECOND SCHAAF IN STADIUM BOUT

Boston Heavy Ends Boxing for Max Baer.

Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, is scheduled to arrive from Boston Wednesday morning to handle Ernie Schaaf in a ten round bout against Max Baer at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night. He will be accompanied by Johnny Buckley, who is co-manager of Schaaf with Sharkey.

Schaaf will finish boxing at Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon with several rounds against Ed Wills. He weighs 211 pounds after yesterday's workout, and expects to scale 210 for Baer, who likewise will weigh over 200.

Schaaf will be defending his position as No. 4 contender in the heavyweight division while Baer is seeking to advance from his No. 8 position. Only Max Schmeling, Stanley Poreda, and Johnny Risko are ranked ahead of Ernie in the latest ratings. Poreda defeated Schaaf at New York June 24. Risko's high ranking followed victories over Tuffy Griffith and Mickey Walker.

Baer Seeks No. 7.

Baer contends Schaaf's previous victory over him was due to his lack of experience. Since that bout Max has had fifteen matches and won nine, six by knockouts. He will be after his seventh straight against Schaaf Wednesday.

Baer lost a 20 round match to Paulino Uzcudun at Reno, Nev., last year. Schaaf defeated Uzcudun at New York July 25, scoring a knockdown in the 10th round of the 15 round bout. The Californian's most recent battle was a 20 round victory over King Levinsky at Reno July 4. Schaaf beat Ted Sandwina at New Orleans, La., Aug. 1 in his last start.

Schaaf has won 26 of 28 bouts in the last two years, 12 of them by knockouts. His most impressive bouts were against Young Stribling, Victorio Campolo, Tuffy Griffith, and Uzcudun. Baer's outstanding triumphs were over Levinsky, twice; Arthur De Kuh, Risko, and Tom Heeney, whom he knocked out in two rounds.

Dublinsky Boxes Callahan.

Andy Callahan, New England southpaw, will make his Chicago debut on the Schaaf card against Harry Dublinsky in the eight round semi-final. Callahan, a stablemate of Schaaf, claims the lightweight championship of New England following a victory over Sammy Fuller at Boston.

Les Kennedy, Butte, Mont., heavyweight, makes his second appearance in Chicago in an eight round match with Baxter Calmes. Previously Kennedy held Salvatore Ruggirello to a ten round draw. Les has won and lost bouts to Baer in California, where he beat Ace Hudkins and Dynamite Jackson.

Tracy Cox, Indianapolis lightweight, one round conqueror of Tony Sciolino, boxes Prince Saunders of the south side in another eight round bout. Saunders has knocked out Roger Bernard, Santiago Zorilla and Marty Goldman and defeated Eddie Shea.

Maroons Cut Grid Prices to 84c a Game

Football prices at the University of Chicago this season will be the lowest in the country and the lowest in the history of the Big Ten. Admission will be at movie prices, tickets averaging only 84 cents for each of the six home games on Stagg field. Announcement of a $5 season book price will be sent today to the football ticket committee's mailing list of 25,000. Season books last year were priced at $12.

The radical reduction in prices was determined upon despite prospects of the best Chicago football team in a decade. It is expected that the combination of a greatly improved team and the bargain prices will materially increase attendance.

Single Tickets $1.50.

Prices for single game tickets also have been lowered well below the average of prices at other universities this year. For the Indiana, Illinois, Purdue, and Wisconsin games the price will be $1.50, and the Monmouth and Knox games, which complete the home schedule, will be $1. The prices do not include the federal tax of 10 per cent, which must be levied on all admissions over 40 cents.

Purchasers of season books, in addition to receiving a $3 differential under the price of tickets purchased for individual games, also will receive first choice of seats. With a maximum capacity of 58,000, the Stagg field stands will permit placing all spectators, whether holders of season books or not, in sideline seats.

Repay Fans' Loyalty.

"We believe that because of present economic conditions a nominal admission is the just one to make," Director A. A. Stagg said in explaining the low price scale. "Our alumni and friends have been loyal to the Chicago team in more prosperous times, and we are showing our appreciation of their loyalty by enabling them to continue coming to our games by establishing prices which are in keeping with the times."

Those in touch with the athletic situation on the Midway expect Coach Stagg to produce the most effective football team he has turned out since 1924, and anticipate that the coming season will mark the upturn in Maroon athletic fortunes. In both line and backfield, Coach Stagg has for the first time in years a number of good men for all positions. All returning members of last year's team, which came through with a rush in the latter part of the season, are eligible, and there will be several outstanding players added from the freshman squad.

Depression Is Giving Game Back to Boys

actors of long specialized experience on Broadway are nowadays playing in rep shows in old barns and town halls in the hills of Connecticut and New York state, drawing their rôles out of a hat. Some of them are receiving only their quarters and rations, for actors will act and the theatrical business has gone very frankly broke. Word comes of a company, organized by an old time melodrama actor, who starred in the earlier works of Owen Davis, which has gone on tour in two salvaged omnibuses, playing casually at towns and villages along the route to Chicago where it is intended to establish barracks and a mess in a cheap flat, if and when the company gets there, and operate on a community basis in some disused theater. It will not be hard to find a disused theater in Chicago.

Every Man for Himself.

The theatrical business has been radically de-industrialized and, though the actors may not be eating as well as they used to, at least they are eating and certainly they are enjoying an artistic revival. Every actor is his own director and if an actor wishes to preach his lines or yell them that is his artistic privilege.

If the ball players go to the trouping they also will have to go in salvaged rolling stock, just playing their way, but for the first time in the life of the present generation they will enjoy artistic freedom to hit the first one if they wish without fear or discipline from the chief of operations. Moreover, they will play wherever there happens to be a ball player wanted and once more a man may truthfully call himself by the general name of ball player, not left fielder or third baseman, just as these actors are nowadays calling themselves by the inclusive name of actors, not juveniles, heavies, or English types.

AMERICANS TAKE FINAL RACES, BUT LOSE YACHT CUP

Seaside Park, N. J., Aug. 28.—(AP)—America won both races today in the finals of the seventh international sloop series on Barnegat bay, but the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht club of Montreal won the trophy on points in the four days of sailing.

The victories today were scored by Charles Dunbar, Yale sophomore. He took first place with the Ardo in the first race, and in the second came in ahead with the Shadow.

Canada scored 43 points to 35 for the United States.

Nature Achieves Rugged Splendor in Black Hills

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Spearfish Cañon, Black Hills, S. D., Aug. 28.—Our cabin lies up nearly 1,000 feet to a rocky peak on one side of this cañon. Marching up every foot of the steep slope are tall, smoky green spruces and beautiful pines. Thirty feet from the cabin Spearfish creek hustles along over little rapids and through swift riffles so that night and day we have the music of flowing water in our ears. Across the highway which winds through this magnificent cañon you see the rock topped ridge of the mountain range which confines this cañon on one side—miles of eroded cliffs almost submerged in the pine and spruce forest.

This is the setting for our camp today in the heart of the northern Black Hills region. They call them hills but here we are almost a mile high. And the tops of the peaks above us stand nearly a thousand feet above the cañon floor. Some hills!

To reach this cañon and the little cabin which now is home to us we came through Rapid City, then into the hills around picturesque and historic old Deadwood. After meeting some of the fishermen in Deadwood and a few of the old timers who spun stirring yarns about the days when every cañon valley was crowded with boys panning gold dust, we started by car for Spearfish and some fishing.

Lead, the town that is synonomous with the famous Homestake mine was the first stop. We found streets crowded when the shifts in the big plants changed, busy mills, the roar of the ore crushers and a bit of typical western hospitality. Then we began the invasion of the hills through some of the most beautiful scenery that we have ever seen in this western country. The smooth highway hugged one wall of the cañon as it took us up one thousand feet and then, winding and twisting through the forest, we finally came to Icebox cañon when the coolness of these mountain valleys at sunset was just beginning to be felt.

Entering Spearfish cañon we could not take our eyes from the noisy little trout stream which tumbles over the rocks and jumps over logs as it works out a route down the valley. By the time we saw it last night the sun was dropping below the top of the ridge on the western side of the cañon and thus was throwing the full force of its light on the buff, rock face of the eastern ridge.

Down in the valley along the creek the dark straight spruces were enveloped in the purple shadows that announced an early twilight in the valley. But before the day was done we had looked over Spearfish creek. There are Lochleven trout and some rainbows in this little stream which can be waded quite easily. The waders, the fly book and the 8½ foot rod will have to get busy tomorrow.

BONDS ERRATIC, WITH RAILWAYS AMONG LEADERS

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The bond market, after almost two months of steady gains, was seized with a sudden attack of jitters last week. Prices jumped in various directions.

The speculative rails were the unsettling factor. Some of the low priced carriers had advanced more than 300 per cent from their bottom figures of the year. Numerous others more than doubled their market values since the dark days of May and June.

Rails Gain Early in Week.

The market opened Monday with a rush of buying orders and the average for the rails jumped 3 full points, the largest single day's gain for this category in 1932. On Tuesday there was the greatest trading turnover since December. Although the rails here receded slightly, the industrials and utilities stepped up into the leading ranks.

Enthusiasm began to wane on Wednesday as traders continued to cash in some of their huge profits. The high grade loans of all classes held comparatively steady in the face of the gyrations of the speculative issues.

Some of Market Leaders.

The swiftest rising and falling rail loans included some of Allegheny corporation, Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Frisco, New York Central, Illinois Central, Chicago and North Western, Southern Pacific, Southern, and Pennsylvania.

New York traction issues slumped heavily at one time and, paradoxically, recovered substantially after the I. R. T. receivership was announced.

Although American Telephone issues were relatively firm, those of International Telephone, Western Union and Postal were subjected to pressure.

The United States government section moved indifferently with price changes narrow. Foreign loans were irregular. The Australians and Argentines were in demand most of the week while German obligations were unable to make any progress.

Form Group to Represent Frisco Road Bondholders

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Formation of a protective committee for holders of St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company prior lien mortgage bonds, series A and B, and consolidated mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, series A, was announced today. The committee is headed by Harold E. Mellon, of Boston. In a letter which will be mailed to bondholders the committee states that it has been formed at the request of substantial holders of these bonds who have not deposited their holdings under the proposed plan of agreement of readjustment dated July 6, 1932. The committee states, however, that "no deposit of bonds is presently called for."

Penn Mutual Life Insurance.

Will you please kindly inform me as to the financial standing of Penn Mutual Life Insurance company?—E. C.

Penn Mutual Life Insurance company started business 85 years ago. It is purely mutual.

Special reserves are more than sufficient for contingencies and the reserve basis is strong. Expenses are low and the mortality rate is favorable.

In 1930 the insurance departments of Connecticut, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and Virginia examined the company and reported that its accounting system was a model of businesslike efficiency and commended its policies of investing and underwriting.

The company has had rapid growth. Insurance in force at the close of 1931 was two billion 103 million dollars, against two billion 105 million dollars the year before, one billion 29 million dollars on Dec. 31, 1920, and $532,550,000 on Dec. 31, 1911.

Income in 1931 was $122,095,000 and disbursements including $17,218,000 dividends to policyholders, were $85,884,000.

On Dec. 31, 1931, bonds with a cost of $141,994,000 had an amortized value of $148,568,000, and stocks costing $12,238,000 had a market value [as of June 30, 1931] of $12,153,000.

Invested assets [on this basis] totaled $472,176,000. Of these, 2.3 per cent was in real estate, 42.6 per cent in mortgage loans, 30 per cent in bonds, 18.6 per cent in policy loans, and 2.6 per cent in preferred stocks.

The company had no common stock investments.

It is licensed to do business in all states of the United States except Texas.

It has an excellent reputation.

Emerson Motors.

Please give me what information you can in regards to Emerson Motors company, Inc. What is their present standing?—R. A.

Emerson Motors company, Inc., was incorporated in Delaware in 1916. Many extravagant claims were made in circulars offering the stock to the public. The general impression is that most of the company's efforts were expended in selling stock. It disposed of about $4,000,000 worth to the public.

In June, 1917, a federal grand jury indicted the company and 14 individuals for using the mails in execution of a plan to defraud the public. On the same day the company was placed in receivership.

We find no published quotations on the stock for years. We believe it to be worthless.

MARKET CLOSES SEVENTH WEEK OF STEADY RISE

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Prophets of disaster come and go but the market makers of Wall street go blithely on with their task of creating a psychology of better business. They have been at it for seven weeks now and the result, if not exactly a miracle, is the wonder of all beholders. Nothing like it has been seen in the recent history of stock speculation.

Here is a market that, starting apparently from nothing more substantial than hope, has more than doubled its valuation rating, going on from top to top virtually without a letup, confounding the cautious and belying precedent. It matters not that the list has long since outstripped the limits that imagination could fix for it on the score of "technical recovery" from its despair levels of early July, or that the steel industry, the motor trade, building construction and the major industries generally have shown no signs of stirring from depression. It is of no moment that the public continues to hold aloof waiting to be convinced beyond a doubt.

Backed by Buying.

The ballyhoo—appropriately backed by concerted buying orders—still works and, with nothing visibly barring the way ahead, sponsors of the boom project can see no reason for staying their hands or tempering their zeal.

Some of them indeed, remembering the dizzy heights to which the market attained back in 1929 and the great distances prices have yet to go before sighting those peak levels, profess an inability to see any immediate limit to the present movement. Certainly they submit, with United States Steel below 50 whereas it was selling in the fall of 1929 as high as 261¾, American Can winding up the week at 58¾ as compared with its bull market high of 184½, and Auburn Auto struggling in the 60's when it was once soaring at 514, there can be no reason for any great anxiety just because some trading favorites have risen 15 or 20 points or some of the low priced issues jumped to five or six times their recent rating. These diehards of the bull camp are growing a bit impatient with this talk of an "overdue reaction," a "technical readjustment" and the like. Granted that a reckoning may be in order if the fall business revival fails to develop, they insist that the hour is yet too early to cease operations on that possibility.

Volume Is Large.

Hence the continued feverish activity on the upside during the last week—activity which resulted in a turnover of 20,927,779 shares and an increase in values of anywhere from 1 to 15 points throughout the list. The fresh improvement extended to all departments and brought the market as a whole most effectually out of the so-called "trading range" into which it had fallen the previous week.

U S Steel.....	52¾	21¼	48¾	7½
Westingh Mfg.	40¾	15¾	38¾	1½

The market is now approaching the high levels of the year attained in March and observers foresee the development as the real test of the movement. Will the momentum gained so far, together with the fresh impetus given from the Hoover revival program and other coöperative plans for restoring prosperity, be sufficient to enable it to break through those levels or must it turn back, as so many skeptics are saying, and atone for its zeal? To Wall street it is the big question of the hour.

Norman Visits N.Y. Bankers, Then Slips Out

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Montagu C. Norman, governor of the Bank of England, who is on a "secret" trip to the United States, conferred with New York bankers here over the week-end. He arrived unannounced on Saturday from Har Harbor, Me., for a conference at the Federal Reserve bank, presided over by Governor George L. Harrison. Today Governor Norman met informally with New York financiers and left the city late in the afternoon, presumably to return to Maine.

The conference, it is understood, concerned itself with many topics of financial interest, rather than one to which paramount importance might be given. A section of the British press, according to cable received here, believes that war debts and reparations were given first attention. It was said in banking circles here, however, that this was not the case.

Is Man of Mystery.

The cloak of mystery which has always attended the visits of Governor Norman to America was intensified this time by the fact that on entering this country at Boston last week he traveled under the name of "Prof. Clarence Skinner." On disembarking he admitted his alias to reporters and assured them that he was only in America for a week or two for a holiday visit. The fact that, following his previous visits, events of international financial importance have occurred has led many to associate the present visit with some new event.

It is understood that Governor Norman will not go to Washington, since his plans for an early return to London preclude this. His last trip to Washington was in April, 1931, when, after conferring with Governor Harrison of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, he talked with President Hoover, Secretary Mellon, and Governor Meyer of the federal reserve board. Just a year ago Governor Norman arrived at Quebec, where he was visited by Governor Harrison. It was shortly after this visit that England went off the gold basis. His previous visit was followed by the announcement by President Hoover of the year's moratorium on debts owed the United States treasury by foreign governments.

British Credit Matures.

Governor Norman's conference at the Federal Reserve bank on Saturday coincided with the maturity of the remaining $50,000,000 of the $200,000,000 credit granted a year ago to the British treasury by a syndicate of 110 banks headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. The remainder of the credit, which was raised in defense of the British pound, was not renewed. In this connection, it is understood that the credit had not actually been in use since April 5.

The international credit to the Reichsbank, now outstanding in the amount of $90,000,000, will come up shortly for renewal. This credit, originally extended in the amount of $100,000,000 in equal amounts by the Bank for International Settlements, the Bank of France, the Bank of England, and the federal reserve banks, will fall due on Sept. 3. It is expected that the credit will be renewed and that the first announcement of the renewal will be made by the Bank for International Settlements, followed by announcements by the other banks. Renewal next month would represent the third extension.

BRITISH PAPER AROUSED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 28.—"Montagu Norman's visit to the United States is unquestionably connected with stabilization of the pound," writes Isidore Ostrer, economist and editor of the Sunday Referee, in an article published today.

Beneath huge headlines, Ostrer warns against the return to "old gold standard" and asserts it soon will be an accomplished fact unless British public rouses itself in time.

"I have repeatedly warned the public about being apathetic toward this subject," he writes, "and particularly not to forget that when the world economic conference meets it will be too late to have an opinion, as everything will be cut and dried before the meeting. The return to the old gold standard, which is unquestionably at the very moment being arranged, will inevitably bring the capitalist system down with a crash within a moderate number of years."

A similar guess as to Norman's visit appears in today's issue of the Sunday Chronicle. This paper asserts "the belief is prevalent in well informed financial and political circles" that the desire to restore Britain to the gold standard is behind Norman's visit to America." The general idea of British financiers, according to the Chronicle, is to make the change after war debts and reparations questions have been settled and after something has been done to reduce world tariff barriers.

City of Miami, Florida

BONDHOLDERS' REFUNDING COMMITTEE

The City of Miami, having failed to provide an adequate tax levy for the payment of its outstanding debt and having defaulted in the payment of interest which became due August 1, 1932, it becomes impossible for the Committee to consummate the plan of refinancing heretofore agreed to by the City. This action of the City seriously affects the rights of the holders of all bonds of the City of Miami, and the Committee has accordingly determined to accept the deposit of all bonds of the City, including bonds of the former Towns of Buena Vista and Silver Bluff, and the former City of Coconut Grove, which have been assumed by the City. The Committee will devote its efforts to vigorously enforcing the rights of all bondholders who deposit their bonds with it. Bondholders are, therefore, urged to deposit their bonds with the Chemical Bank & Trust Company, 165 Broadway, New York, N. Y., Depositary of the Committee, or The Merchants' National Bank of Boston, 28 State Street, Boston, Mass., Sub-depositary of the Committee, without delay. SEES EFFORT TO BREAK NITROGEN INDUSTRY IN U. S.

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Charges that foreign countries producing nitrogen are making a combined attack on the nitrogen industry of the United States were made today by Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation.

Garvan emphatically opposes acceptance of the recent proposal that 40,000 tons of Chilean nitrate by shipped here in exchange for 2,500,000 bushels of wheat held by the federal farm board.

"The proposed trade would mean the use of money belonging to taxpayers of the United States," he declared, "for the purpose of breaking down an American industry which has made the United States independent of the world for the nitrogen used in agriculture, in industry and in our national defense.

"It would mean the use of American money to support an international nitrogen cartel composed of Chile, Germany, France, England and all other European nitrogen producing countries."

He said the nitrate corporation of Chile recently reduced the price of Chilean sodium nitrate in this country $11 a ton, to $25 a ton during August and September, the lowest price on record and one "aimed at the destruction of the American sodium nitrate industry.

Instead of trading its wheat for Chilean nitrate, he urged the federal government to investigate the price tumble to see whether Chileans have violated the section of the tariff act which prohibits unfair competition and dumping.

New York Central's July Operations Show Loss

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The New York Central railroad company today reported for July net railway operating deficit of $161,870, compared with income of $2,717,056 in July, 1931. Its subsidiary, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad, had July net railway operating income of $76,483, compared with $258,112 in July, 1931.

Here and There in Business

The drinking habits of La Salle street brokers and traders have undergone drastic change during the bear market. Consumption of alcoholic beverages has fallen off sharply in the trading community in the last two and one-half years and gin has supplanted whisky as the popular exhilarant. In 1929 drinks were offered freely and if one preferred not to drink during the business day it was necessary to be on the defensive at ah times. The ways of virtue are easier now.

A survey of several leading investment types of the management type reveals nearly 43 per cent of the assets in cash and government bonds at the close of the June quarter. Third quarter statements will be scanned with interest by those curious to know where the recent buying originated.

One busines research agency points out that the rise in the price of raw materials may be due to curtailed production, as in the case of cotton. This means, according to this organization, that the raw materials producer loses through a lower output that which he gains through higher prices. The immediate outlook is not particularly favorable if this line of reasoning is correct.

Just when the phrase "new high" appeared to be pasing from the financial writer's vocabulary the opportunity to use it again presents itself. For instance, the index price of refined sugar made a "new high" last week.

The "check tax" appears to have few friends outside of Washington, D. C. Bankers are complaining that it is costing them deposits. A North Dakota banker reports through the American Banker that the tax has cost him five per cent of his deposits. A Hoosier banker says that men who used to carry $5 in currency in their pockets are now carrying $25.

The recent interest in the commodity market has led many brokers to expand their facilities. The Chicago Mercantile Exchange reports that B. F. Stein of Stein, Alstrin and company, has purchased a seat. The exchange's ticker service has been extended to St. Louis, the eleventh city on the circuit, and the second west of Chicago.

Associated Gas Reports on 12 Months' Earnings

Total gross operating revenues of $101,518,660 are reported today by the Associated Gas and Electric system in a consolidated statement for the twelve months ended July 31. This compares with $105,986,211 for the corresponding period of last year. Sales of electricity continued to be affected to a smaller extent than any of the other services rendered by the properties.

MERCHANDISE IN CHICAGO AREA MOVING FASTER

Continued indications of a steady improvement in general business conditions, with advances in commodity prices noticeable not only in wholesale merchandise but also in cotton and other basic textile commodities, characterized the last week in Chicago. This rise is reported to have caused the most widespread buying movement that the textile industries have witnessed since the depression began, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Corresponding with an increased purchasing of merchandise throughout the country, there was more activity among local wholesalers and retailers. Many out of town buyers were in Chicago and reported prospects for better trade. The wholesale business has shown the more marked improvement, while at retail the stocks of summer goods are said to have had the most satisfactory cleanup in several years. It is expected that the retail business within the next few weeks will be enlarged by the sales of fall merchandise for the children who are returning to school.

Commitments by steel producers in the scrap steel market are regarded as a sign of increased confidence, according to officials in the Chicago area. Slight gains have put the industry's activities up one point to between 15 and 16 per cent of normal activity. Officials declared that with credit easier, the price of scrap rising, and its current production limited, steel makers are disposed to accumulate it.

BUILDING LOAN GROUP TO MEET AT FRENCH LICK

Some 250 Chicagoans, headed by H. Morton Bodfish, will leave the city this week for French Lick, Ind., to attend the fortieth annual convention of the United States Building and Loan league. Mr. Bodfish, who is one of the five members of the federal home loan bank board, has been executive manager of the league for the last two years.

Survey Shows Liquidity of Management Trusts

New York, Aug. 28.—A survey of seven of the larger representative management trusts by the Allied General corporation discloses that a total of 43 per cent of their resources were in cash or government securities, 38 per cent in common stocks, 12 per cent in bonds and 7 per cent in preferred stocks of June 30. The trusts under review were the American European, Capital Administration, Fourth National, General Public Service, Lehman corporation, Prudential Investment, and Tri-Continental.

Graph Shows School Board Financial Task

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

That the reader may more readily appreciate the significance of the chart, may it be explained that public officials use the word "budget" in summarizing the total appropriations. An appropriation is an authorization by the board to the department heads to spend to the limit fixed for each item.

The graph shows that the board authorized the expenditure of $86,400,000 in 1929, then hopped the authorization up to $91,700,000 for 1930 and then jumped it to $101,000,000 for 1931. These are compared with a budget of $46,200,000 for 1922.

Disbursements Shown.

The second column, to the right of "budget," shows the disbursements. These increased from $41,900,000 in 1922 to $68,500,000 in 1929, $78,900,000 in 1930 and $73,800,000 in 1931. This column is divided into "outlays" representing expenditures for new buildings, sites and other permanent improvements, and into money spent for operation and maintenance of the school system.

"Taxes extended" is the third column. This means the taxes levied by the school board, after they have been reduced within the limits fixed by statute. "Taxes extended" are the actual taxes assessed against the property owners of the city. The graph shows that the taxes assessed for the benefit of the schools totaled $46,100,000 in 1922 as compared with $75,300,000 for 1929, $76,100,000 for 1930 and $85,200,000 in the levy for 1931.

Collections Drop.

The last column shows the amount of taxes collected. These totaled $43,000,000 in 1922, $50,000,000 in 1929, $39,800,000 in 1930 to date. The 1930 taxes are now in collection. The 1931 taxes have not yet been assessed, so the amount which will be collected is anybody's guess.

Tomorrow another graph will be printed showing the same information relative to the city government proper, followed by still another with reference to the sanitary district.

N. Y. LIFE FIRMS WRITE 14 BILLION NEW INSURANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 28.—Life insurance companies represented in New York which carry 80 per cent of the business in force in the United States showed new business of nearly $14,000,000,000 in 1931, according to a complete report announced today by George S. Van Schaick, state superintendent of insurance. Preliminary figures were made public last April. The combined assets of life companies in New York on Jan. 1, 1932, totaled $17,345,239,518, an increase during 1931 of $1,138,946,876 and more than 100 per cent increase since 1923.

More than $6,500,000,000 of present assets are mortgage loans and close to $6,750,000,000 are in bonds and stocks. The stock holdings are relatively small, being limited under the New York law to the preferred and guaranteed classes. The surplus and special funds, including $26,970,600 capital over all liabilities, amounted to $1,004,131,584.

CHICAGOAN ACQUIRES BIG STOCK INTEREST IN TRANS-AMERICAN LINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland Municipal Airport, Aug. 28.—More than 40 per cent of the stock of the Trans-American Air Lines, which operates from Detroit to Chicago and to Cleveland, has been acquired by Philip G. Kemp of Chicago, he revealed here today. More than 50 per cent of the stock is controlled by Richard Hoyt of Hayden Stone company of New York.

Air transport authorities who are here attending the national air races regard Kemp's acquisition as the forerunner of the establishment of two new lines by Trans-American, one a third route between Chicago and New York, the other a route from Detroit to Indianapolis and Louisville, connecting with the three major transcontinental systems.

The new line to New York would operate via Detroit, Cleveland, and Buffalo. The lines operating at present between Chicago and New York are United Air Lines, via Toledo, Cleveland, and Bellefonte, Pa., which has seven planes a day in each direction, and Transcontinental and Western Air Lines, via Columbus and Pittsburgh, which has one plane in each direction a day. The heavy traffic on United has made a third route between Chicago and New York only a matter of time.

Kemp returns to the air transport field after an absence of several years. He organized Universal Air Lines, Inc., of which he was president, and later became vice president of Universal Aviation corporation, which was the first operating unit of what is now American Airways.

SEES IMPORTANT STEP TAKEN TO NORMAL TRADE

New York, Aug. 28.—(AP)—An important step in the return to normal business conditions has been taken, said the Guaranty Trust company today, in its monthly survey of business conditions, through the substitution of "hope instead of fear as an active agent in business men's minds."

"It is certain that this change in mental attitude is a necessary prelude to any recovery.

The advance in security and commodity prices, the company stated, is probably attributable to a reaction from extreme pessimism.

"There has been no upturn in most branches of industry and trade, although some improvement has been reported here and there, principally among the smaller enterprises. Numerous reports have come to hand from factories that have stepped up their operations and reëmployed considerable numbers of workers.

"Such instances are still far too few to constitute a general upward trend, but with business passing through the dullest season of the year it was not to be expected that any large scale expansion would occur, and therefore, the sporadic increases in volume reported at certain points have been hailed as highly favorable signs.

"Even in industries that continue to operate at severely depressed levels there is a persistent tendency to believe that the seasonal revival ordinarily witnessed in the autumn may this year take on a more permanent significance. A conspicuous illustration of this tendency is to be noted in the steel industry, where, despite the extremely low levels of current operations, producers express a confident belief that conditions will take a turn for the better in the near future."

GRAIN MARKET BOOMS WITH STEADY BUYING

Many Factors Unite to Help Advance.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

In harmony with securities, live stock, wool, and cotton, the grain markets closed the week with an upturn, supported by strong speculative buying. One of the forward moving forces affecting the market was the conference at the White House between President Hoover and business men and bankers called from the twelve federal reserve districts. Such were the factors that gave grain traders a greater feeling of confidence than perhaps at any other time during the revival of activity in the grain pits.

Gains for the Week.

Net gains for the week were 3½@4c on wheat, ⅝@1¼c on corn, 1⅛@1½c on oats, and 2⅜@2⅝ on rye, 25@40c on lard, while bellies were 7½c lower than the previous week's finish.

The action of the wheat market suggests a steady accumulation, mainly by eastern operators, of futures on all declines. At the week's close it was not so easy to buy wheat without materially strengthening the market. Late news from Liverpool suggested a better feeling abroad, with a disposition to follow an advance in North American markets for a short time at least.

Bullish Russian dispatches have startled both European and American wheat traders. Confirmation of the disappointing crop news, with indications of a limited exportation, have brought a stronger feeling into the world's markets, especially among the exporting countries.

The effect of the large world's surpluses are believed to have lost their influence as a bearish market factor as the largest excess of supplies is in North America. There is only a comparatively small surplus elsewhere. Argentina and Australia, however, have larger acreages than last year, and the crop promise is favorable, which may upset present calculations as to price movements of the future.

Likely to Reduce Seeding.

Dry weather over the entire winter wheat belt in the United States is likely to result in a decreased acreage being seeded, which is confirmed by the showing of the government crop report issued at the close of the week, suggesting that 39,806,000 acres would be seeded. The indicated loss at the present time will not be heavy.

Canada's harvest is well advanced and it has a sufficient surplus, according to present estimates, to supply a large part of Europe's import requirements.

You can afford to borrow here

$200. borrowed from this bank for 1 year costs $18, or almost exactly the price of a cup of coffee, per day . . . . . 5¢

$300. borrowed from this bank for 1 year costs $26, or just a fraction more than a street car fare, per day . . . . . 7⅛¢

$450. borrowed from this bank for 1 year costs $36.50, or the price of a "buy" at the dime store, per day . . . . . 10¢

$750. borrowed from this bank for 1 year costs $57.50, or just a bit more than the price of a package of Camels, per day . . 15¼¢

And each loan illustrated above will cost a smaller total amount if the loan is made for less than 1 year, or if it is made for 1 year and paid off sooner.

Surely if you can afford to borrow at all, you can afford to borrow from this bank.

July Sales of Chains Off Less Than for June

Average daily sales of reporting chain store organizations were about 9 per cent less than in July, 1931, a smaller reduction than was reported for any previous month since March, according to the September monthly review of the New York Federal Reserve bank. Total July sales of reporting department stores in this district were 30 per cent below a year ago, but after making allowance for two less shopping days in July this year than in 1931, the reduction in average daily sales was slightly smaller than in June, the review states.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

Lower Michigan—Partly cloudy and somewhat warmer Monday and Tuesday.

A MISTAKEN IDEA.

We have a plan designed to overcome present conditions and unlike anything you have ever heard of. The men we will select can be successful right now.

We don't ask you to begin on commission. You are paid from the start a DRAWING ACCOUNT AND COMMISSION.

If you have had direct selling experience and are willing to work, apply at once from 9 to 2 p. m. only.

Mr. Jacobs, 834 W. 63d-st.

MY EXPERIENCE

as a former executive of an advertising concern in New England, and having sold practically all the time since leaving school, I can say unhesitatingly that my present connection has afforded me an opportunity, both in advancement and money earned, far beyond anything I have heretofore experienced.

If you desire success, if you need money, our plan assures it. We have spent hundreds of thousands developing this nationwide money making plan and it has lifted hundreds of energetic trustworthy men out of the rut of despair and doubt into the sunlight of prosperity and happiness. What we have done for other deserving, red blooded Americans we can and will do for you. Ours is a national organization rendering a humane service to each client. We make a lifelong friend of every person sold. You owe it to yourself and family to investigate. Solve your financial problem by applying to Mr. VAN HALL, Rm. 1024, 75 E. Fair Rentals But No "Concession Tax."

Every thinking man and woman KNOWS that so-called rent "Concessions" are offered only after the rent has been sufficiently marked up to take care of such "Concessions."

We believe that this "Concession Tax" places a hardship on the great majority of renters, and therefore propose to do everything we can to eliminate it.

In its stead we aim to bring forth Fair Rental Value—without the "Concession Tax."
